D. J. HOSTETTER'S

STOMACH BITTERS

Dyspepia, Indigestion, Nausea, Constipation Flatulency, Loss of Appetite or any Billious Complaints arising from a morbid inaction of the Stomach or Bowels producing Cramps Dysentery, Colic, Cholera Morbus, &c. &c.

All of these ills yield like magic toits vilifying influence upon the system, and for a person in advanced years, or recovering from sickness of any kind, nothing can be more conducive to their convalescence than the use of these Bitters as per directions on the bottles,

Scarcely four years have elapsed since the first introduction of "Dr. J Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters" to the public, and such has been the success of this article after its tested efficacy by a discriminating public, that during the last year nearly half a million bottles were sold, with a continuous demand in excess of the supply with all the facilities the proprietors have been able to command in its preparation.

Are you dyspeptic? Then take these Stomach Bitters.

Are you billious? Try one bottle of these Bitters, and be relieved at once.

Are you annoyed by indigestion or constipation? Remove the cause by the free use of these Bitters.

Have you fever and ague? How many thousands in the West and South have been cured of this constitution-destroying disease by the free use of these Bitters!

All should try this great Anidote. We venture to affirm that, when Hostetters's Stomach Bitters are used, a case of Fever and Ague cannot occur: therefore, no family consulting their own interest can afford to do without it.

A WORD TO THE LADIES.

Inrecommending to your use Dr J Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters, it is but just to state that as a simulant to the system, in imparting strength and vigor, preparatory to periodical stages, which are of times attended with much pain and trouble, we know of no preperation more happily adapted to all afflictions consequent upon this cause, and for cramps in stomach, cholera morbus, and all ailments arieing from over indulgence in fruits, vegetables, ice creams, &c., it is certain and almost instantaneous remedy, and no family should be without it.

One wineglassful taken three times each before meals, at half the buanitity the patients are in a weak condition, and increased in proportion to their strength, will be found a great tonic agent, which all will appreciate when personally sasified of the facts, as they will be by giving the Bitters one trial.

☞ CAUTION. ☜

Carefulness should be our study, but more particularly when the health is at stake. Since these Bitters have, from their medical qualities, become so popular, there have been a great many concoctions called Stomach Bitters, and often represented to be the same in virtue as Dr. Hostetter's, palmed upon the public. Be careful of these vilainous compounds! Our Bitters are put up in square quart bottles, and covered with the patent metallic cap, stamped "Hostetter's Stomach Bitters," and Dr. J Hostetter blown on the glass. All others are imitation.

"BORN TO GOOD LUCK."

BY COL. WALTER B. DUNLAP.

Harry Clare was a good-natured, generous kindly disposed fellow, who loved cheer an l easy life, and whose faults were of that open hearted character which seldom fail with severe censure. When Harry was born, a fairy present Harry—that is, before his parents had given him a name—an old woman who claimed to be his good-mother, pronounced these mysterious words over the future Harry: The child is born to Good Luck! So deep an influence did this speech have upon the minds of the simple people, that they were led to regard Master Harry—whom they had thus named him—as a favorite. A thousand little things occurred during his boyhood to confirm them in their conviction. He got wet but did'nt get cold. He fell from trees and high beams, and did'nt get hurt. And at school he accomplished marvels.

The result of all this was that Harry grew up with the same faith—believed most firmly that he was born under a lucky planet, and [illegible] school, he learned the blacksmith's trade; and when he was able to work for himself he took a wife—took Susan Martin—gentle, pretty loving faithful Susan. Her parents objected to the match, because, they said, Harry had not energy enough to carry him through the world, with the care of a family upon his shoulders. But Susan loved him and she became his wife.

'Did'nt I know that I was born to good luck, cried the happy Harry, a few days after he was married. Haven't I got the best wife in the town?

'The isn't a better one in the country, replied the young man to whom he had spoken. And I hope you'll appreciate her. Susan Martin might have had her pick from a dozen of the best youths of the village, and there's not one of them that would have made her a good husband. See to it, Harry, that she never has occasion to regret the step she has taken.'

'Of course she never can regret it, said the exultant husband. We'll sail along with fair breezes at all time. I tell you I was born to good luck, and my fortunate star can fail me.'

His friend shook his head and walked away, and Harry went to his shop, where he found half a dozen customers waiting for him and some of them growling because he had not been there before.

Five years passed away, and Harry had three children. One evening he entered his house, and found Susan with a cloud upon her brow. He asked he what was the matter.

'Shall I tell you the truth Harry?' she said trying to smile.

'Of course you must. So out with it.'

'Then it is simply this: We are going behindhand.'

'Behindhand?' repeated the husband. What do you mean.

'Why—your business is not attended to as it should be. You are forgetting your own interests.'

'Pshaw! Don't you worry, Susan. Just wait until you see me make a haul. I made twenty dollars this day on a horse trade.'

'And how much did you make by your trade yesterday?'

'Why—returned Harry, hanging his head; I lost something there. But I'll make it up. I was born to good luck, and I know that fortune can't desert me. Don't worry, Susan.'

'But Harry, said the wife, in a mild impressive tone, you don't realize how much you are losing. If you would trust more to your wit and judgment, instead of to your luck, as you call it, you might do better, even at trading horses, and such stuff; but believe me, you would do better to stick to your shop, and do the work you would be sure to have there. Only see how much work goes out of town, because you are not found at your forge when wanted.'

'Let them carry their work out of town, if they want to, said Harry, rather petulantly. I shan't worry. Just you wait until I strike a streak of luck.'

'Believe me Harry, the wife said, as she arose from her chair with her babe in her arms, if ever you strike that streak of luck as you are so often pleased to call it, you will strike it upon your anvil.'

Susan went to put her child into its little bed, and Harry said Pooh! and then took up a paper and began to read.

Harry knew that he was neglecting his regular business, but then he hoped for something better. So firmly had the old faith in good luck seated in his mind, that it had grown to be a part of his very existance. He felt sure that some day he would make a fortune, when people least expected it. He had heard of vast fortunes being made by mere strokes of luck, and why should not he, who was born to that end fare as well? The result was, that his mind became destracted from his shop, and his customers were often forced to find another smith to do their work.

Harry traded watches, traded horses, dipped into petty speculations, and, in short seized upon everything which presented itself, with a lucky side to it. At length a streak came. He drew a hundred dollars in a lottery. He went home with exultation in his countenance.

'It's commenced, he cried, as he chinked the gold before his wife.

'And you've drawn that in a lottery? returned Susan, with a dubious look.'

'Yes—a cool hundred.'

'Will it pay your debts, Harry?'

'Eh? Debts?'

'Will it make up for the time you have lost'

'But this is only the commencement, Susan I've only just struck the streak. Wait awhile. My luck is coming. I tell you I was born to it and it can't fail me.'

'Ah Harry, said the wife, with a sad shake of the head. I fear this will prove the worst luck you have had yet. It is only the ignis fatus that will lead you deeper into the mire than you have yet gone. Why not drop at such schemes at once and go into your shop and stick to your business. It would be better for you in the end—it would be better for you now.'

What—leave my fortune just as I have found it? exclaimed Harry, vehemently. No, no. I had a dream—twice repeated—and that makes three times you know—that I should have good luck in these kind of ventures, and I am going to follow 'em up. Just you wait my, dear?'

And Susan did wait. She waited until she suffered more than she would tell. She waited until the bloom was gone from her cheek, and the brightness from her eye. From morn till night she plied her needle without ceasing. Her children must have food and raiment, and she must furnish them. She plead with her husband but he would not see. She pointed out to him how he was losing both business and friends, but he would only look to the future, whence his good luck was sure to come. So Susan was forced to look to the future also, and she prayed that it might bring relief.

For a whole year Harry Clare dabbled in lottery tickest, and at the end of that time he had lost nearly every penny he had been able to raise. He grew desparate, and resolved that he would make a heavy strike somewhere. "Strike upon your anvil," whispered a voice; but he would not listen to it. "I was born to good luck, and it must come, sooner or later," he said to himself; and then he tried to study up some new speculation. He was sitting all alone in his little office—a pen-like apartment in the back of his forge, where he kept his books—when two men entered his shop.

'This was too bad! said one of them, whose name was Atherton, an extensive builder, as he saw that there was no fire upon the forge, and no workman in the shop. We must have a new smith in this place. Here have I over five hundred dollars worth of work that must be done the present season. There's all the forging for Grant's new mill, and the iron work for the upper bridge.'

'There's one thing certain, replied the other, who was a contractor, and had some interest in the builder's work, we shan't get anything done here.'

'That's so! added Atherton. And with this the two men left the shop.'

When Harry went home to supper he found his wife quite sick. She was pale and weak, and her head ached. In the evening he went for the doctor, and when the man of medicine came he said that Susan was down with a severe fever.

'She must have got cold,' suggested Harry.

'No she has overtsked herself, returned the doctor, with a shrug of the shoulders. Both mind and body seemed to have been worked too much.'

For the first time Harry Clare, felt a real operating pang at his heart. He knew why Susan must have worked so hard, though he had not thought of it with any seriousness before.

But Harry's thoughts were not allowed to rest idle for the want of picking. One evening, as he was wending his was homeward from the doctors's, where he had been to get some medicine, he noticed that a party of young men were walking in advance of him. H knew by the sound of their voices, that they were friends of his, and he would have advanced and joined them, but he was startled to hear his own name pronounced. Curiosity to know what they had to say led him to approach them without being observed, and he heard their conversation distinctl.

'It's too bad,' said one in a feeling tone. 'Harry Clara might do well if he only would. Only look at that wife of his! This town never afforded a better one. See how the poor thing has scrubbed and slaved to support herself and family, while Harry has been waiting for that luck of his.'

'That's so,' rejoined another, who was the tailor in the village. 'She has done more work for me within two years past than any other two women in the place; and within the past six months she has worked beyond all account. About all that she and her children have had for food and clothing must have been earned by her needle.'

'It's a shame,' resumed the first speaker. 'Only a day or two after Harry was married I told him he had got as good a wife as there was in the country, and I hoped he'd appreciate her He said of course he should. But just see how it's come out.—I got married about the same time, and went into business when he did, and my trade isn't anywhere near so good as his,—yet I have bought a house and paid for it, and have something laid up beside. Why—he would only stuck to his business he might have been one of the most prosperous men in the town. But he thinks he was born to some good luck that'll come to him, one of these days, like a fairy's gift.'

'Well,' remarked a third person of the party, 'he did have a stroke of good luck when he got Susan Martin for a wife; but he's never had one since.'

'Unless,' added the previous speaker, 'we call the possession of her a continuous stroke of luck! But I'm afraid he won't keep her long. Alas, for poor Susan! Harry don't know what a jewel he is wearing away. He don't realize that when he got her for a wife he got a good piece of good fortune that might have lasted during the longest lifetime, if he would only have taken his share of the trust and responsibility.'

At this point Harry had to turn off from the main street, and in a few moments he was left to his own reflections. As soon as he was alone he stopped and gazed down upon the ground; and thus he stood for some minutes.

'I think I'm waking up,' he finally said. And then he walked quickly towards his house.

He found Susan much better, and the medicine which he had bought helped speedily to survive her. On the following day Harry went to see Mr Atherton, He found that gentleman just entering his chaise to ride away

'I understand that you have some work, in my line, which you want done,' said Harry

'Well—what of it?' returned the builder.

'I should like to do it for you, sir.'

'You, Mr. Clare?'

'Yes, sir.'

'But I must have it done in time.'

'If I take the job, sir, I'll do it as I prmise,' said Harry, promptly.

'But this is something new,' replied Atherton, with surprise. 'I thought you were born to some other kind of luck'

'Perhaps I was,' answered Harry readily; but of that kind of luck, I've had enough; and now I'm going to hammer out a luck for myself. Will you let me commence upon your work?'

'Yes, sir!' cried the builder leaping from his chaise. 'Here, John,' he added, turning to his hired man, 'you may put the horse up. I shan't want him. And now,' he resumed, to Harry, 'just come into the house, and we'll talk the matter over. I was ready to start for Marlowe to get my work done there; so, you see, you didn't come a minute too soon.'

The result of the conference was that Harry was to do all the iron work Atherton might want, and he was assured that there would be eight hundred dollars' worth of it before the year was out.

One morning the people who lived near the blacksmith's shop were startled by the clang of the heavy hammer. It was but little after sunrise, and yet the blows upon the old anvil rang out clear and loud, and they saw black smoke rolling up from two of the chimneys. They went and peeped in at the door, and there they saw Harry Clare, with his stout arm bared to the shoulder, wielding his hammer with strange energy. A new man was at work at the second forge, and his two apprentices had something else to do than to lounge about and cobble old horse-shoes.

Susan Clare sat in the great rocking chair by the kitchen stove, for her old mother, who had come to nurse her, said that she was well enough for that. She gazed up at the clock, and wondered where her husband was. It was past seven, and supper had been ready for some time. At length he came; but how differently he looked from what had been his wont some years past. —His face was flushed; his eye was bright; his bosom swelled out with a hearty breath; and his step was heavy and emphatic, just as though it had a purpose. And then upon his shirt there was a grimy dirt, such as used to be three years agone, and when his gaze rested upon the table his countenance glowed as though he had a grateful appetite.

'What, Susan,' he cried, as he saw his wife sitting there, 'are you well enough for this?' And as he spoke he moved to her side and kissed her.

'I am getting better very fast,' she replied.

'And you must get well as soon as you can, Susie; for I can't have you sick any more.'

'She must get well so as to finish up those vests for the tailor,' interrupted the old lady, with a spice of bitterness in her tone. Susan cast a reproachful, beseeching glance upon her mother, but the word had been spoken.

'No, no,' said Harry, with a smile, 'we'll have no more of that. I took those vests last evening and carried them all back to the tailor, and told him that my wife could work for him no more.'

'But—Harry——'

'Stop,' interrupted Harry, as his wife commenced to speak 'There's no more need of it, for I've struck my streak of luck at last. I knew I was born too good luck, and that I should find it sooner or later—I've found it!'

'Found it?' repeated, Susan, trembling with hope and apprehension both.

'Yes—I've found it in my wife, and in my shop—I've been hammering it out all day. People have been staring with wonder to see Harry Clare ringing away upon his anvil at such a rate; and they may stare as much as they please. At all events, I can give them this assurance: If the sight is worth seeing, they shall see it, henceforth, at any time, while Harry has his health, and the sun's up! And now I am hungry. Susie. I'll eat supper, and then I'll tell you all about it.'

And after supper was over, Harry sat down, and wound one arm about his wife's neck, and then told her all he had to tell; and when he had done he asked her if she could forgive him for the past. She rested her head upon his bosom, and wept, and forgave, and blessed him.

And, day after day, the old clang sounded forth from the smith's shop. Great pieces of iron assumed strange forms beneath the persistent strokes of Harry's hammer, and, as he cast them, one after another, upon the rough floor, he muttered to himself—'There's another piece of good luck! I'll forge me out a fortune yet.'

Susan was not long in getting well after her husband had made her so happy; and when she was plump and rosy once more, and children could rom about the house without fear of tumbling up the carefully arranged packages that used to come from the tailor's, Harry took her upon his knee and kissed her, and wound his arms about her.

'Susie,' he said, with fond enthusiasm, 'didn't I always tell you that I was born to good luck? Only, ye see, I missed it for a while?'

'But you've found it now,' whispered Susan.

'Yes,' cried Harry, 'I've found it in a noble, loving wife, and in the firm, fixed purpose to walk right in the path of duty. The crown of good luck is upon my brow, and, next to yourself, my beloved, its two brightest jewels—the two jewels without which the crown becomes but a mere load of dross—are Industry and Perseverance!'

Bulwer Confronted by his Wife at the Hertfordshire Election.

[From the London Morning Star.]

A most painful scene occurred at Hertford on Tuesday, the 18th. Toward the close of the proceedings of the Hertfordshire election just after Sir Edward had concluded his address with a fervent tribute of admiration to the womanly beauty exhibited in the long line of open carriages, chaises, and vans drawn up in front of the hustings, there was an unwonted stir in the crowd, which parted to admit of the passage of a hired brougham from one of the town inns. The carriage having stopped, two ladies alighted one of them an extremely handsome woman of about forty five years of age, with fresh complexion, and with eyes of dazzling beauty. This lady, who was evidently laboring under excitement which exercised all her powers to control, advanced as nearly as she could through the crowd towards the hustings, and announced herself as the wife of the Right Hon Sir E. B. Lytton, stating that she had come, according to a promise made by her, to confront her husband, and to expose the wrongs which she said he had inflicted upon her, and which she had described in her works and in a pamphlet published by her.

The appearance of the lady was not unexpected, as her coming had been announced in bills and placards; but owing to a deception which had been practiced upon her by some persons in the town, who had introduced themselves to her, she was detained in the town while the election was proceeding in the vicinity. Those in the secret anticipated that she would not discover the mistake until the proceedings were over, and that her design would be thus frustrated. It was nearly so. Recognised as soon as observed, her voice was nearly drowned by the shouts of Sir Edward's supporters, but Sir Edward's eye caught hers, and his face paled. He looked like a man suddenly attacked by paralysis. Those near him say he trembled exceedingly. For a few moments he retained his position in front of the hustings, but turned his back on the unwelcome visitor. Then he suddenly disappeared below the hustings platform, while his wife cried "Coward," and he, having hastily signed the usual declaration, escaped into the residence of the gentleman on whose grounds the election took place. Lady Lytton continued to address the audience assembled for more than a quarter of an hour, repeating her statements in her pamphlet, and asserting her intention to contront her husband on every possible occasion until she compelled him to redress her wrongs. Her ladyship subsequently made an application to the mayor for the use of the Town Hall, for the purpose of making a public statement; but this being refused her, she left the town early in the afternoon. Lady Lytton arrived in Hertford at 3 o'clock on the morning of the election, having posted from Taunton, where she resides. It is needless to say that the event described has caused the greatest possible excitement in Hertfordshire.

Extravaganec and Fraud.—Inasmuch as the opposition politicians and presses have but little else to talk about in the coming canvass, they harp continually of alleged extravagance in the administration of the government. But they forget to tell their readers that very much of the expenditures of the present administration are caused by paying off a heavy lien which the extravagance and improvidence of a Black Republican and Know Nothing Congress left upon the public revenue. The opposition editors and polititions forget to inform the public about the expenses occurred in the Mormon difficulties, in the erection of Custom Houses, the enlargement of the Navy, the enlargement of the Capital, &c. which necessarily add to the public expense. It is the old cry of "stop thief," which the opposition are so much in the habit of raising, to avoid scrutiny into their own acts.

But notwithstanding the subterfuge raised by the Black Republicans, the people know who are the public plunders and treasury thieves. Both at home and abroad, the people of Indiana know who are guilty of extravagance and fraud. And every honest Democrat is not only willing but anxious that the records will be searched. Economy and strict accountability are Democratic virtues almost wholly unknown to the opposition.—State Sentinel.

Horrid Tragedy.—A most appalling tragedy was enacted in Columbus county, in this State, just after daylight on the morning of yesterday, the 29th inst., resulting in the death of four persons.

The account, as it has reached us, that at the time already stated, Joshua Rouse killed his father, his wife, and two of his own small children, cutting off their heads with an axe His eldest son ran over to the residence of Isaac H. Powell, Esq. and told Mr P. what had happened who got W. G. Smith, Esq., and they went on towards Rouse's. On their way they met Rouse in pursuit of his son with an axe. He said he wanted to kill him. On meeting Messrs. Powell and Smith, he dropped the axe and held out his hand, when they arrested him. He is now in jail. Rouse had been for some time in the Insane Asylum, but was taken out by his guardian some three or four weeks ago, since which time he has been permitted to run at large There is every reason to believe that he was insane at the time when he committed the terrible deed for which he has been arrested The occurrence took place some five miles from Whiteville, in the vicinity of White Marsh. The little boy who escaped stated, we believe, that Rouse killed the old man out in the yard with a stick and then chopped off his head. He took the old man's knife, and with that killed his own wife, and cut off her head. The children were killed with the axe and chopped off their heads. At Whiteville, when being carried to jail, Rouse said he killed his wife because she had tried to cut his throat two years ago, and his father because he had whipped him very severely when a boy. He had been in the insane asylum for 18 months preceding the affair, with the exception of the last three or four weeks. We hardly see how or why he was set loose.—Wilmington, N. C. Journal.

Great German Festival.—A great German festival was held yesterday at Jones's woods. In the morning a procession, consisting of musical clubs, military companies, invited guests, and others generally, formed at the Metropolitan rooms 160 Hester street, and marched through several of the principal streets to the foot of Grand street, East river, where they took a steamboat for the pleasure grounds. Thousands went up by the cars and on fo

SATURDAY, JULY 17, 1858.

Democrats of Allen County! remember that next Saturday at 2 o'clock P. M. is the time fixed for holding township meetings to appoint delegates to attend the County Convention to be held on the following Saturday. We urge every democrat to attend these meetings, and see that the best men are selected as delegates, so that the feelings of the party in the county may be fairly represented in selecting our candidates for office. Let no outside influences be brought to bear in selecting the delegates, but let them be such men as will fairly and honestly reflect the feelings and wishes of those they represent in the convention. Do this, and success is certain. Remember, all depends on the township meetings! If the democrats do their duty in the townships, there can be no complaint of unfairness, trickery, or management in the convention. Our candidates will be the choice of the people; they will be entitled to and doubtless will receive the full vote of the party.

Free School.—The examination of the scholars in our free schools is now progressing, and it is truly gratifying to witness their proficiency in their different studies. The examination commenced in the primary classes, daily ascending towards the higher classes, and will be concluded on Friday evening next, by a public exhibition with the large hall of the new school house in the Western Addition.

We again venture to remind our citizens that the public funds are now exhausted, and that the schools must be closed at the end of the present term, not to be reopened until next April, unless some means be adopted to carry them on at private expense We have now got one of the best schools in the State, with an excellent and efficient corps of teachers, and it seems to us that it ought to be kept up. If we allow it to go down now, much of the good already effected will be lost; and the scholars, if allowed to run in the streets for the next eight months, will forget more than they could recover in the few months the public funds will sustain the schools. The schools would be destroyed, teachers scattered, dispersed, and engaged elsewhere; and when their services should be again required they could not be had nor could others equally as competent be obtained.

This is a serious matter, worthy the consideration of every parent and friend of education in the city. A contribution from each parent much less than it would cost to educate his children in private schools, would suffice to keep our schools open throughout the year. We submit it to them whether it would not be true economy to contribute the amount; and to the friends of popular education, and those who have taken a just pride in the noble public school of which our city can boast, we also submit the question, whether it is not worth a little effort and a little sacrifice on their part to secure to our citizens the benefits and blessings of our free school. It is a momentous question, and one that must be answered promptly. Next Friday evening our schools take a vacation—or suspend operations until next year. Which shall it be?

☞ The Republican of this place reiterates its absurd charges against the democratic party, and very modestly calls on us to prove that they are not true This thing of proving a negative, is not in accordance with common usage, and we therefore beg to decline accommodating our Republican brother so far, and call on him to prove his own charges—if he can. We do not wish to be too hard on his readers, and compel them, this hot weather, to read so lengthy an article as he would write in attempting to prove all the wonderful charges he has made. We therefore suggest that he first take up and prove his first charge—that the democratic party has been a bank party and an anti-bank party. This will be enough for one week; he can then take up the others in their turn; we think it will be better to give it in broken doses, rather than administer the whole portion at once.

We are much afraid our friend Bailey has not sufficiently reflected on the awful fate of Ananias and Saphira, and has rashly adopted the republican maxim that "a lie well stuck to is as good as the truth." We certainly had expected better things of him

Free School Pic-Nic and Railroad Excursion.

Arrangements are making to get up a grand Pic-nic and Railroad Excursion for the benefit of the Free Schools in this city. It is to take place next Tuesday week, July 27th. A special train of cars will be provided, to start from the depot at 8 o'clock a. m, and convey the scholars and company to Warsaw; the pic-nic will be held in the beautiful grove immediately adjoining the town and on the margin of the lake. It is expected the schools and citizens of Warsaw will meet their Fort Wayne friends and guests and participate in the proceedings. We will give further particulars in our next.

This will doubtless be a very pleasant affair, as well to the school children as to others who accompany them; and as it is in aid of the good cause of popular education, we hope all parents and our citizens generally will turn out on the occasion.

Tickets will be for sale in the early part of next week, and it is desired that those intending to participate will procure them early, in order that the committee may judge what number of cars to prepare for the occasion The price of tickets will be only 50 cents; the scholars will probably be charged 10 or 15 cents each. This is certainly cheap enough to induce the most economical pleasure-seeker to indulge in a day's recreation on this occasion.

Independent Men.—We are getting to have a great many "Independent" men now a days, and it is becoming quite common for these very patriotic and disinterested men, the moment their party stops feeding with pap, to declare themselves independent, forsake their party, and run for office "on their own hook." Judge Hovey is a fair specimen of this kind of independence. He has been but a few years in the Democratic party, and has been kept in office nearly the whole of the time. Finding himself at length out of office, he became a bolting Douglasite, and now is running "independent" in opposition to the Democratic nominee for Congress in the first district We hope he may be shamefully beaten, and be laid on the shelf for evermore.

Another of these worthies is John G. Davies, of the 7th District. He chose to quarrel with the administration on the foolish Lecompton issue, and has been acting with its enemies ever since. He has already been in Congress six years, and now because his constituents choose to dispose with his further services, and wishing to be represented by a Democrat, have nominated Mr. Secrest, he too comes out "independent." Mr. Secrest is an Anti-Lecompton man, so there is no pretext on that score for Davies' independence; but then Mr. Secrest in opposing Lecompton did not feel it necessary to desert and betray his party, and thus we believe is the secret of Davies' opposition. Such apostates will assuredly meet their reward; and as each one throws off the mask and reveals his treason, we thank God that we are rid of a traitor. All we ask of them is, that they will never seek to come back to us again.

Treaty with Nicaragua.—Private advices from Nicaragua say, the Cass-Yrissarri Treaty has been again ratified in a modified form by the Assembly, and signed by President Martinez.

Peace with the Mormons!—The Peace Commissioners in a dispatch to the Government state that they have settled the difficulties existing between the government and Utah. The dispatch substantially confirms the previously received telegraphic accounts. The question now is, can the Mormons be trusted, or is the treaty only a ruse to gain time? We have but little faith in the Mormon leaders, and have doubts that nothing but the presence of a sufficient armed force will ensure peace and the due execution of the laws in Utah.

Sunday School Pic Nic.—The Wayne Street Methodist Sabbath School had a Pic Nic on Tuesday last, in a beautiful grove on the bank of Eagle Lake, near Warsaw, to which place they were taken in a special train of cars engaged for the occasion. A large company of our citizens accompanied the party, probably not less than 500, and were met there by an equally large company from Warsaw The weather was cool and delightful, and the whole affair went off in the most pleasant manner. A correspondent has furnished us a more detailed account of the truly agreeable pic nic, which will be found in another column.

We have had rather more rain this week than our farmers desire. It is bringing the corn and potatoes along finely, but as the wheat is nearly all standing in shock in the fields, there is some danger that it may be injured, unless we have more settled weather.

Inquest.—On Monday last the body of Philip Kile, an old man upwards of 80 years of age, was found lying in the woods, near the St. Joe road, about a mile north east of this city. From the position of the body he appears to have tripped over a small twig, and falling forward struck his forehead on a stump, causing instant death. He did not appear to have struggled or moved in the least, as his feet were still entangled in the brush which had caused his fall. He had been missing since Friday evening, but as he was in the habit of staying for a few days at a time with each of his several connections, no uneasiness was felt at his absence, as each supposed him to be visiting some other. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

TRUE AS GOSPEL.—The editor of the Peru Republican has had the good fortune to stop at the Rockhill House, in this city, and in his last paper thus records his impression of this splendid hotel:

"The Fort Wayneites are very proud of the Rockhill House, and well they may be, it is a credit to the city. There are few if any Hotels in Indiana that equal it The apartments are spacious, comfortable, and in good order,—the landlord attentive and obliging to guests."

Huntington Democrat.—We have received the first number of a neatly printed, ably edited, thoroughly Democratic paper, under the above title, recently commenced in Huntington, by A. C. Thompson, with William Nerton, as assistant editor. It promises fair to do good service in the Democratic cause, and is therefore entitled to a cordial support from the Democracy of Huntington County.

Newspaper Change.—Messrs EARLE & HEATH have purchased the Goshen Democrat from R. Lowry, the late proprietor. We have not the pleasure of a personal acquaintance with the new editors, but judging from the tone of the paper since they assumed the control of its columns, we arrive at the conclusion that they are good reliable democrats who will maintain the high character the Democrat has borne, and make it a useful and valuable organ of the party in Old Elkhart. We wish them abundant success.

Tenth Judicial Circuit.—The Goshen Democrat copies the article from our last Sentinel speaking of the feeling here in favor of W. W. CARSON for the vacant judgeship—and adds:—

"There is a stronger feeling here in favor of the nomination of the Hon. E. M. CHAMBERLAIN for the Circuit Judgeship. His character as a Democrat, and his qualifications as a jurist need no commendations at our hands. It is justly due to him that he receive the unanimous nomination of the Democracy at the approaching Convention at Kendallville."

☞ The Republican has had a great deal to say about the election of the Indiana Senators, and would appear to desire to have it set aside as illegal and void. What has the editor to hope if such a course should be followed? The next Legislature will undoubtedly be Democratic so there could be no possibility of his being elected in the place of Mr. Bright, even if the election should be set aside. The less he says about the course of the factious Republicans in the last Legislature the better it will be for his party.

In this week's paper he copies an article on the subject from the Cincinnati Gazette—for the purpose we presume, of showing that other Republican papers can pervert the facts in this case as well as himself. The State Sentinel ably refutes all the Gazette has said, and conclusively shows the ignorance of its venerable editor on the entire subject. We will publish the Sentinel's article next week for the express gratification of our friend Bailey.

For the Sentinel.

Sabbath School Pic-Nic & Railroad Ride.

The Wayne Street Methodist Sabbath School of this place, led off in a Railroad excursion, on Tuesday last, the 13th inst., which proved to be one of the pleasantest entertainments of the season to the citizens of Warsaw and Fort Wayne Nothing very extensive was expected or prepared for, and the train of cars chartered by the school for the occasion was found to be not more than half large enough to contain the crowd that concluded to have a holiday. Additional cars were attached to the train, and at about 8 A M., more than five hundred citizens of Fort Wayne, were en route on the Chicago and Pittsburgh Road for somewhere toward the setting sun. After a ride of about two hours, the whistle screamed, the breaks went down, and the cars stopped and unloaded near a beautiful lake, and a beautiful grove, a mile and a half east of Warsaw. The train then ran into Warsaw and brought out the Methodist Sabbath School and pretty much all the rest of the city.

The appended programme will give some idea of the fare served up for the entertainment of the two cities, as they were thus met on the common greeting ground. The speeches were short and somewhat pithy. The singing of the Warsaw Sabbath School was par excellent. The Brass Bands of Fort Wayne and Warsaw seemed to enjoy a pleasant rivalry, and discoursed excellent music. The Pic-nic dinner was eaten in social groups, a way of eating at Pic-nics that is worthy of all commendation.

At an early hour in the afternoon all were returned safely to their homes, well pleased with themselves and the expedition. The Wayne St. Sabbath School will remember the efficient service rendered by several young gentlemen not belonging to that school, in preparing for the excursion. It should not be forgotten that Mr. S. M. Cummings, master machinist at Fort Wayne, served as engineer, and Mr. A. J Hopper, master of transportation, served as conductor; both accompanying the train so as to secure the greatest possible safety to the passengers.

At the close of the exercises at the Grove, the following resolutions—offered by W.W. Williams, Esqr.—were read and adopted:

Resolved, That in promoting the interests of the Sabbath School, we advance the interests of humanity all over the world, and hasten the dawn of that coming day when peace on earth and good will to men shall universally prevail.

Resolved, That all interests—civil, political, and religious—are safe when committed to the heart and hands of the Sabbath School.

Resolved, That we tender our thanks to Dr. Boss, for the use of his grove and grounds—to the Fort Wayne and Warsaw Bands for their excellent music—and to the officers of the Pitts Ft. Wayne and Chicago Railroad, for the use of their cars on this occasion.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the Fort Wayne and Warsaw papers.

ONE OF THE PASSENGERS.

Telegraphic Expedition.

Nothing definite as yet has reached us from the seaboard as to the movements of the Telegraphic fleet. A despatch from St John's, Newfoundland, July 11, says:

"The steam tug, Blue Jacket, from Liverpool, in 28 days, reports having seen on the 24, in latitude 51 north, longitude 32 west, a large and small steamer, both British, making signals, but having no code could not understand them. The same evening saw another large steamer bearing down upon the other's, but could not make out whether she was American or English. The Blue Jacket's log reports heavier weather on the passage than is usual at this season of the year.

QUEBEC, July 13—The ship Windsor Forest has arrived here, and reports that she was in company with the Niagara and Agamemnon for three days. She parted from them on the 20th of June, in heavy weather. Both had light steam on. The weather from the 23d 24th was fine, but from then to the 29th heavy south-west winds prevailed

How They Lie.

The fiscal year has now expired, and within a fortnight we shall know the receipts of the quarter which expired on the 30th of June But all the other data are at hand, by which the operations of the year may be measured. And here they are, roughly, for public edification:

Balance in the Treasury 1st July, 1857, according to report of Secretary	$17,710,114 27
Receipts 1st quarter from Customs, Lands and Miscellaneous	20,929,819 81
Receipts 2d quarter do	7,092,665 00
Receipts 3d quarter do	8,02,148 35
Receipts 4th quarter, (just expired, estimated,)	8,000,000 00
Treasury-notes under act 22d Dec., 1857	20,000,000 00
Loan under act June	20,000,000 00
Total	$101,785,017 43

It thus appears there have been received by and granted to the Administration within the fiscal year nearly $101,000,000!—Washington Correspondent of the Gazette.

That figures can be made to lie abominably is conclusively proved by the above statement, which is intended to convey the impression that the Government for the year ending the 1st July, 1858, were $101,000,000, although it is not so unequivocally stated.

From the balance in the Treasury of $17,000,000 last July, deduct in round numbers $4,000,000, which was paid on the national debt; also, deduct over $11 000,000 to pay deficiencies in debts for 1857, contracted by the last Congress, which was Republican in that branch which has the especial charge of the revenue service, and which it had failed to supply means to pay. We must also deduct the $20.000,000 loan, not a dollar of which went to defray the expenses of the year ending July 1, 1858. It is all for the coming year. Of the Treasury notes, say ten millions are now on hand, not over ten millions having been applied on last year's expenditures. These various deductions amount to $45,000,000, leaving the actual expenditures of Mr BUCHANAN'S Administration only $56,000,000 for the year 1858, being several millions of dollars less than the expenses of the last year of General PIERCE'S Administration. Every dollar of this fifty-six millions was authorized and declared right by the Republican House of Representatives which elected BANKS Speaker.—*Cin. From the Utah Army

ST. LOUIS, July 12.

Dispatches from Leavenworth of the 9th inst., by the steamer War Eagle, to Booneville, say the letters received by the St. Joseph mail from the army contains a few additional items of interest. An officer writing from Johnston's camp on the Bear River, June 16, says the army would resume its march the next day. General Johnston had received an express from the Peace Commissioners, informing him that the army would be received peaceably by the Mormons. The General did not, however, feel any increased confidence by the peaceful attitute of the Saints, and the army was kept in readiness to repel any treacherous demonstrations A proclamation had been issued to the people by General Johnston, in which he tells them that the army is as ready now to afford them assistance and protection as it was to oppose them when in rebellion against the Government. It was thought this guarantee would cause many of the Mormons to evade the despotism of Brigham Young, who has sedulously inculated the belief that the army was particularly hostile to them The troops were in a fine condition, and glad to be released from inaction. The garrison at Fort Bridger consisted of Captain Hendrickson's and Lieutenant Smith's companies, of the Sixth Infantry, and Captain Stewart's troops, of the First Cavalry. Colonel Hoffman lost ninety mules, and but one cavalry horse in his march across the plains. The St. Joseph Gazette of the 8th, in noticing the arrival of the Utah mail, says: "General Harney was encamped just below Fort Laramie Colonel May's command was not thirty-five miles this side of Fort Laramie. A large body of infantry were at Ash Hollow. Major Emory was encamped on the Big Blue, and another command (name not given) was at Fort Kearney. The provision trains were progressing finely. Sioux Indians were scattered all along the route, but were friendly. A heavy snow fell at Fort Bridger on June 10." A dispatch from St Joseph of the 7th, by the United States Express Company, to Booneville, says: "The Salt Lake mail of June 19th has arrived. General Johnston and his command was met at Echno Cannon, fifty miles from the city The army was in excellent health and spirits. Brigham Young, and his followers are still at Provo He has been to Salt Lake City to confer with Governor Cumming and the Commissioners, but the result of the conference is not known. It was the established opinion that the Mormons would offer no resistance Colonel Hoffman was left in command of Fort Bridger Captain Marcy accompanied General Johnston. Everything in regard to the future movements of the Mormons is veiled in mystery. Rumors were still rife, however, that they meditate an occupancy of Sonora. Conjectures are numerous in the valley that the United States Government intends to purchase the Mormon improvements. The South Platte was very high, and the roads were good. The mail party neither met nor saw any Indians on the plains, but they met a great many traders at different points on the road. The mail was out nineteen days from Salt Lake City to St. Joseph. The same dispatch says Sinclair, the recently appointed Judge of Utah, would leave St Joseph on the 10th, accompanied by Mr. Dodge, the District Attorney for Utah Our Leavenworth correspondent, under date of the 8th, says: "An Express arrived at Fort Leavenworth this morning from Fort Kearney. The express passed the Utah mail for St. Joseph. It is said that Governor Cumming and the Peace Commissioners had concluded a treaty of peace with the Mormons. General Harney was in camp, nine miles beyond Fort Kearney, on the 3d The express, with orders for him to halt, must have overtaken him on the 6th. The United States steamer Mink leaves the fort to morrow, with Captain Lovell's and Lieutenant Lee's command of Second Infantry, for Fort Randall. She also takes recruits for the same regiment Judge Cato has resigned his position as District Judge."

ST. LOUIS, July 13.

From Utah.—The Utah correspondent of the Republican, under date of June 18th says: The conditions agreed upon as the Conference between Governor Cumming, the Peace Commissioners and the heads of the Mormon Church, are "Troops shall enter the City without opposition. The Civil Officers shall be permitted to perform the duties of their officers without interruption, and an unconditional obedience to the laws of the land shall be given. On the other hand past offences shall be forgotten as stated in the Presidents proclamation." All the houses in the City have been closed against both Civil Officers and strangers, except one, which is occupied by the Governor family. Everybody else were obliged to sleep in their wagons or on the ground.

WASHINGTON, July 15.

The War Department has received official dispatches stating that Col. Steptoe, with a command of 5 commissioned officers and 152 rank and file, was attacked and defeated by a large body of Indians, on the 17th of May, about 80 miles north of Snake river—The battle lasted from 7 in the morning till a short time before sunset; when the amunition being nearly exhausted, and the musquettons being nearly useless against the enemy, a retreat and forced march to the crossing of Snake river became necessary. Four officers and four privates were killed, and eleven wounded.

Arrival of the Star of the West.

NEW YORK, July 14.

The Steamship Star of the West, arrived here at 10 o'clock this morning, with two weeks later news from California. She brings $1,400,000 in Treasure, and 250 passengers. She left Aspinwall on the 5th inst.

The California papers are rather barren of news.

The Frazer river gold excitement was increasing in consequence of glowing accounts furnished by the miners who have returned from that region. San Francisco was crowded with people on their way to the Frazer mines, and throughout the State parties were making preparations for the same purpose. The effect of the excitement was beginning to be felt in the State. Labor was scarce and wages had gone up 20 or 30 per cent. It is estimated that 8000 people had left for the diggings. Six steamers had been put upon the route besides ten sailing vessels.

Several American newspapers are projected in the British possessions, and one the "North American" had already been announced at Victoria

The steamer Cortes had taken fifteen hundred passengers from that city, and every berth in sailing vessels were taken for days in advance.

The Hudson Bay Company has stationed armed vessels on Frazers River to prevent emigrants from carrying goods into the interior to sell. An American vessel with merchandise, it was reported, had entered the river in spite of the blockade, the British commander not daring to fire upon her.

The defeat of Col. Steptoe is fully confirmed. His troops fell into an ambuscade when they were attacked by a large number of Indians and were forced to retreat with the loss of 7 killed and 15 wounded, The troops were not sufficiently supplied with ammunition. A great Indian was expected, and Gen. Clark had despatched troops from San Francisco and Los Angelos.

Much excitement existed in San Luis, Abisto county, and also in Carson Valley, in consequence of numerous robberies and assassinations by organized banditti. In the former place the Vigilance Committee had been formed, and four of the culprits had already been hung. In Carson Valley a murderer named Snow had been seized and hung by the people. Before his death, he made a confession which led to the capture of seven of confederates, who at last accounts were under trial for their lives before a body of citizens.

The Indians in the northern countries, were again committing outrages. The A. U. S. pack train was fired upon in Del. Norte County. A Mr. Baker, was killed and the train captured. Massacres had been committed on the river, and outrages in various other places had occurred. A general rising of the Indians was indicated.

The ship Carribean arrived at San Francisco She picked up a Chinese Junk, containing twelve men, that had been floating about helpless for 5 months.

The Cass Herran Treaty was still under discussion in the Grenadian Legislature, and a committee had been appointed to endeavor to make some compromise.

Copies of M. Belly's contract with the Central American Governments had reached Panama from Europe, causing the greatest astonishment and surprise there.

Senator Douglas' Reception at Chicago

CHICAGO, July 9th, 11 P. M.

Senator Douglas reached here this evening; great display. At one o'clock a committee of four hundred, from Chicago and adjoining counties, proceeded to Michigan City, and there met Judge Douglas and escorted him to this City. The arrival of the train was greeted with firing of cannon and cheers of the people. A procession was formed and conducted him to the Tremont House where he was welcomed in a brief speech on behalf of the citizens, by Charles Walker, President of the Board of Trade.

Mr. Douglas after returning thanks for the magnificent reception, reviewed the action of the last Congress on the Kansas Bill He extolled the Crittenden bill as honest, and the very best proposition for practical illustration of popular sovereignty. He claimed the struggle with Lecomptonism, was for the integrity of principle, and that struggle was triumphant. Lecomptonism was virtually abandoned by its friend and has been defeated forever. He had opposed the English Bill although it practically sent back the constitution to be accepted or repealed by the people, because the manner as well as the form of that submission was at variance with every just principle of popular government It was submitted to the people, with a threat if they did not accept a slave constitution, and thirty-five thousand inhabitants, they should not come in as a free State until they had ninety three thousand. He could never countenance such discrimination between free and slave States. The best energies of his mind had been several years devoted to the great principle of the rights of the people of a Territory to frame their own fundamental laws, and he intended to devote all his future life to the same doctrine. He contended the compromise measures of 1850, were founded on that principle, and carried out in the Kansas Nebraska Bill. He affirmed the Cincinnati Platform and reaffirmed President Buchanan's Inaugural, and regretted to see how a powerful party in this country had determined not to acquesce in this line of policy. The Republican Convention, recently assembled at springfield, nominated Mr. Lincoln for his successor in the Senate, repudiated the doctrine of popular sovereignty, and proclaimed that Congress, and not the people of the Territories, should establish the domestic institutions of Territories. Mr Lincoln indorsed not only this doctrine, but proclaimed a line of policy which is incompatible with the existance of the Union. He declared the Union divided into equal number of free and slave States, cannot endure. Mr. Douglas showed the dangerous tendency of this doctrine that it invited and proclaimed war and extermination in one section of the country against the other. He regarded it as submersive to the fundamental principles upon which our complex system of Government rested, and denied that uniformity in local policy and domestic institutions in the different states is either desirable or possible; on the contrary the political system is vested upon the the theory of practice, hence the dissimilarities in local policy and domestic institutions in the different States. Our forefathers clearly perceived that the domestic institutions which suit New Hampshire are totally unfit for a rice plantation in Carolina, hence the adopted 'constitution provides that each state shall be sovereign and supreme over its own limits, on the supposition they would be diversified. Repeated uniformity is neither desirable or possible. If possible, how to be obtained? There is but one process through which it might be accomplished, that would be to abolish State Legislatures, and convert the government into one consolidated empire, investing Congress with full power to adopt police regulations, regulate internal policy, adopt domestic institutions for all the States. Let this be done, there would be uniformity. Then the States will be all free or all slave; then negroes will vote everywhere or nowhere; then our glorious Confederacy (thirty-two sovereign States) will be merged into one consolidated empire, and the uniformity of despotism will reign triumphant throughout the land.

Mr. Douglas proceeded to answer Mr. Lincoln's crusade against the Supreme Court, on account of the Dred Scott decision. He could sanction no crusade against the highest judicial tribunal in the land. He was prepared to yield obedience to law as expounded by the Court. He didn't agree with Mr. Lincoln that it was a great wrong to deprive negroes of the rights of citizenship; he didn't believe they were intended to be citizens of our Government.

Lincoln was present and heard Douglas, fireworks were discharging in several parts of the town. The number of persons in attendance was variously estimated at from fifteen to twenty thousand.

Arrival of the Fulton.

NEW YORK July 13.

The Steamship Fulton, arrived this morning, at 5 o'clock. She reports having passed several ice bergs of Cape Race, on Friday. She spoke on Saturday the Steamer Persia, bound hence. Brings 150 passengers and but little news additional telegraph dispatches from Cape Race.

The great fire reported in London docks, was on the south quay, next to the hermitage basin The merchandize destroyed was principally Sugar, Spirits Saltpetro. The ships were hauled out safely.

Despatches from China, received in London state that the Emperor's Special Minister had refused to enter Canton, and turned back.

The Austrian forthcoming Budget will show a deficiency of forty million florins.

The dates from India are to May, 25th, one week later.

Colpee was captured on the 23d The enemy made no resistance.

The news in general from India, was considered highly satisfactory in London.

Arrival of the Canada.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., July 13.

The steamship Canada, from Liverpool, with dates to the 3d inst., three days later than previously received at this point, passed of Cape Race yesterday, and having been intercepted by the news yacht of the Associated Press the following summary of her news was obtained:

The steamer Indian from Quebec, arrived out on the 30th ult., and the North Star and Kangaroo, from New York, on the 1st. There was considerable anxiety in relation to the Atlantic cable when the Atlantic sailed. A private meeting of Illinois shareholders had been held in London, but the proceedings had not been made public The House of Lords has rejected the bill to abolish church rates by a large majority. The bill allowing the House of Commons to admit Jews as members of that body, has been passed, on the second reading, in the House of Lords, by forty-six majority. Parliament will be prorogued before the end of July. The intelligence from France is not important. A ministry had resigned, and a new Cabinet had been formed, headed by General O'Donnell, as Minister of Foreign Affairs and of War.

The Protective Tariff Issue.

The attempt of the "Republicans" of New York, Pennsylvania and New England to incorporate the protective tariff doctrine into the creed of the party is reciving some pretty strong rebukes from the "Republicans" of the West. Hear the Chicago Tribune, the leading organ of the Republicans in Illinois. It says:

"A Word to a Few Crazy Politicians.—We have observed with some little apprehension the efforts of a few Pennsylvania, New York and New England politicians to dove-tail the doctrine of protection into the Republican Platform. We beg these gentlemen to desist, and leave the tariff an open question to be decided upon its merits, not according to the exigencies of parties The attempt to force the Republicans of the West into accord with the iron-masters of Pennsylvania and the mill owners of Massachusetts, under the pressure of party discipline, can have, at this juncture, only a disastrous effect.

* * * * * * *

"Our great manufacturing interests ought to rest upon a firmer basis than that afforded in the promises of politicians or vagaries of the public; and as the question in the dissolution and reorganization of parties in 1854-6 was thrown out by common consent, we protest against the fatal policy which would now revive and drag it into the partisan discussions of the day. But, if the politicians to whom we have referred are determined to put another stumbling block in the way of Republican success, let them not say that they were not warned of the consequences to follow."

The "crazy Republican" politicians at the East will not thank their Illinois brother for that notice, for he is altogether more frank and truthful than complimentary. Even the Pittsburg Dispatch is so disgusted that it speaks its mind thus:

"As always, the politicians of Philadelphia are seeking to make up a money tariff or bank issue to ride as a hobby in the race of 1860, against the well-trained nag of "National Democracy," which never carries any weight nor gives any boot. The Republican party is asked, by the able and indefatigable Henry C. Carey and others, to take a protective tariff as a hopple to all four legs of its two-year old, half-broken filly, carrying all the extra weight of miserable, time serving sacrifice of the 'nasty nigger question' besides, for the sole benefit of the nice olfactories of political gentility—and thus enter the race for the Presidency.

"It can't be done—no party could now live long enough to have a decent following to its funeral, with 'protection for protection's sake' as its shibboleth."

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 14

Union Convention—The Union Convention of Republicans and Americans assembled at 2 P. M. to-day There is a large attendance They organized by electing Gov. Reeder President. He made an address, returning his thanks for the honor, and then referred to the peculiar condition of national affairs. He charged the Administration with deserting the cardinal democratic doctrines, and enjoined harmony among the present delegates for the welefare of the Union party On the first ballot for Canal Commissioner, Oswold Thompson received 24 votes, John M. Reed 25, J. Pringle Jones 17, John L Pierson 13, and scattering 49. Eight other ballots were then taken without any result, on the last one, Reed received 61 votes, Pierson 45, and Jones 21 Necessary to a choice, 64,—Adjourned till evening.

Evening Session.—On the tenth ballot Mr. Reed was nominated, receiving 65.

NEW YORK, July 14.

The steamship Philadelphia, from Havana, the 8th inst., has arrived.

The brig C Perkins, of New York, had been sunk in the harbor. It is known that she had landed a cargo of Africans, and her papers were detained by the U S. Consulate An unsuccessful attempt was made to bribe the acting Consul General with $1,000 to give them up, and she was sunk.

Porter, the Sunday School Defaulter—His Confession—How His Crime Commenced.

A correspondent of the Boston Journal says:

Mr. Fred W. Porter, the defaulting agent of the American Sunday School Union, whose fall made such a sensation a short time since, has at length made a full and complete confession of the great wrong he has done. He stood very high in the Society and in the Church, and he was almost the last man who would have been suspected to be guilty of so foul a deed. In a letter recently laid before the Board of this Sunday School Union, he has made a complete confession. He began his wrong doing nineteen years ago! The plan was the same that he pursued to the last. His temptation began with the mulberry and silkworm speculation nineteen years ago, and under the garb of religion he has for that long time carried on his dishonest plan. He allows that at the start he knew it was wrong; but he hoped to be able to meet the notes as they matured. But, as he was unable to do so, he was compelled to renew his notes and pay a heavy bonus. Thus for nineteen years he has been treading the thorny path of sin, praised for virtues that he knew he did not possess, and taking of the sacrament, which, according to his own professed faith, was adding damnation to himself with each unworthy reception He defrauded the Society out of over $80,000; but the Philadelphia broker who aided him to the dishonest gain, promptly paid all the notes that his name was on, and the loss was lessened nearly $40,000 Mr. Porter confessed that in nineteen years of fraud, he has used the name of the Society to the large amount $600.000 by renewals and reissues. No wonder he is a sick man—one whom, if the law does not reach, the grave will soon cover up. Nineteen years of fraud and crime, he perpetrated in the name of religion—with despair looking him in the face—exposure waiting for him at the corners of each street.

Horrible Blasphemy.—We take the following from the proceedings of the Rutland (Vt.,) Abolition and Free Love Convention:

"In the discussion of the Slavery question, which followed that on free love, Mr. Curtis made his second appearance. He quoted that resolution which declares that 'any Christ or any God that, by silence or otherwise, authorizes man to enslave man, merits the scorn and contempt of mankind.' Curtis inquired who was the God that people talked about? If he was the all powerful Being he was represented to be, why don't he go down South and put down slavery? He desired to ask this plumply: How is it that you don't do your duty? With what consistency could men worship this God, whom they considered all powerful, when he neglected to exercise his power for the extinction of slavery?"

This Mr. Curtis, who indulged in this horrible blasphemy, was the Black Republican editor of Putnam's Magazine, and is not a principal writer for the Atlantic Monthly, a periodical of the same school in politics. He was crazily enthusiastic in behalf of Frement for President, in 1856, and has been the subject of great praise and laudation in that leading Republican paper, the New York Tribune. Such sentiments as the above do not affect his standing in the Republican ranks, but are considered as ebullitions highly honorable to his head and heart. It is a noteworthy fact that not one of the leaders in these "Free-love," "Woman's Rights," "Anti Sabbath" and "Anti-Christian," "Infidel" gatherings has any sympathy with the Democracy: but, on the contrary, in politics they are all notty Black-Republicans.—Cin Enq.

An Elopement and attempt at Desertion, ending with Matrimony.—A physician from the northern part of the State arrived in the city on Saturday last, in company with a young lady, put up at one of our principal hotels, and passed themselves off as man and wife. In the evening, the valorous Doctor endeavored to procure certain articles in the possession of his assumed wife, with the intention of leaving her. She, however suspecting that something was wrong, enlisted officers Hays and Plowman in her behalf, who questioned the M. D as to his intentions. He frankly told them that he intended leaving her, as she was not his wife Yesterday morning, however, by being threatened with the penalties of the law, he changed his mind, and the two repaired to the office of Squire Fisher, who soon made them one. In the afternoon they left on the Peru train in a more legitimate, if not in a happier, relation.

We understand that the gay Lothario is now under bonds, in the sum of $10,000, for the crime of seduction, and attempting to procure an abortion on another of his victims in Noble County.

Officers Hays and Plowman deserve the thanks of the community for the interest they manifested in this unfortunate female. If we had a few more such officers as they are, crime of all descriptions would be diminished in our city.—State Sentinel.

☞ We learn from the Memphis Bulletin that, in addition to the plundering by the Secretary of State of some $35,000, and the embezzlement of $123,000 of bonds, that should be in the Controller's office—by nobody knows who—there has been discovered by the Investigating Committee a further plundering of $200,000—by nobody seems to know who—in the shape of coupons taken in the Bank of Tennessee. So far, then, there is found out to have taken place pilfering to the amount of some $360,000.

The Pillage at Lucknow.—We learn that a lady, residing at Clifton, the wife of a gallant Major at present serving in India has received a letter from her husband, which gives a glowing account of the treasures seized by our troops at Lucknow. As an earnest of his own success he has sent her home a necklace of splendid pearls and some emeralds, one of which is believed to be of great value The gems are in a comparatively rough state

☞ We cannot refrain from calling the attention of our readers to the advertisement in this day's paper of the "Hair Restorative" of Prof. O. J. Wood & Co., of St Louis. It will be seen that he has numerous certificates from persons of the highest character, to the merits of his Restorative. From positive knowledge we are able to say that it is in every sense what it professes to be, and we do not hesitate to pronounce it the finest preparation for the head and hair which has so far been devised by human ingenuity. We have seen it arrest threatened baldness and restore to the head its original profusion of natural and glossy hair, and when the latter has been prematurely tinged with grey, we have seen it like magic restore the colors of youth and health. The distinguished proprietor of this, we might say, miraculous "R storative," is that it gives to the person who uses it the same head of hair that they wore in youth, thus acting in strict compliance with the rules of the first and greatest of all toilet-makers—Nature. No one who has used it will hesitate to unite with us in this testimony to its peculiar merit,—[Cov. [La.] People's Friend.

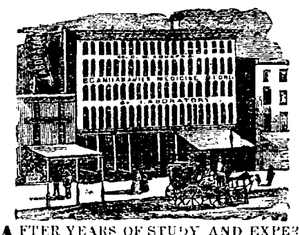
DR. ROBACK'S

BLOOD PURIFIER AND BLOOD PILLS.

DISEASE VANQUISHED

BY

Dr. Roback's Scandinavian Remedies.



AFTER YEARS OF STUDY AND EXPERIMENT, Dr. Roback, the eminent Swedish Physician, succeeded in producing a medicine from twenty-three different species of mountain herbs of his native land, which acts directly upon the cause of disease in the blood, and by restoring the cosrupted fountain of life, to a condition of health and purity, expels disease from the system, wherever it may be located, or whatever may be its character. Indigestion, nervous complaints, epileptic and other fits, coughs, consumption in its early stages, sore throat, bronchitis, fever and ague, asthma, low spirits, sexual incapacity, feminine weakness, pricking of the skin, symptomatic of paralysis, rheumatism, neuralgia, tumor, cancer, diabetes, lassitude and debility, diarrhea, and all other disorders of the organs of respiration, the liver, the kidneys, the stomach, the nerves of the muscular fiber, are unerringly cured by this preparation. It is to the materies morbi or seed of disease what an alkali is to an acid: it neutralizes them with absolute certainty, while at the same time it regulates the secretions, removes obstructions from the bowels, creates appetite, renews bodily vigor, and regenerates every animal function. Such is the nature, such are the effects of Dr. Roback's famous Scandinavian Blood Purifier, which if taken in conjunction with the Scandinavian Blood Pills, will not only obliterate the most painful disease, but prevent their recurrence, and lengthen life beyond the ordinary span.

In the SCANDINAVIAN VEGETABLE BLOOD PILLS, Dr Roback, presents the result of twenty years of experience, hard study and experiments as to what a perfect pill should be No one can doubt their superiority after one single trial. Price of the Scanpinavian Blood Purifier, $1 per bottle, or $5 per half dozen: Scandinavian Blood Pills, 25 cents per box, or five for $1,

PERU, Miami County, Ind., Aug. 5, 1854.

DR. C. W. ROBACK: I have received so much benefit from your Scandinavian Blood Purifier and Blood Pills, that I have thought it my duty, and it is no less my inclination to give you a plain statement of my case. I was for years afflicted with that bane of all, comfort, and efficiency in business, dyspepsia. To recapitulate all the so-called remedies which I have used to rid myself of this disease, would indeed make a melancholic catalogue. I also consulted with the best physicians I could hear of. I was induced to try your remedies through the persuasions of a friend, and after using them a few days was greatly benefitted, and in a short time, less than a month, entirely and permanently cured. I was also afflicted with the most violent nervous headache, which I suppose was produced by my disordered stomach, for when my dispepsia left me, my headach left with it. I now feel better in every respect than I have for ten years.

Very truly yours, JOHN S. DEMUTH.

From the Rev. Mr. McMULLEN, Pastor of the Roberts Chapel:

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 5, 1857.

Dr. C. W. ROBACK—Dear Sir:—I have used your Blood Purifier for a nervous affection, from which I have suffered much at times. While it is pleasant to the taste it certainly has a happy effect upon the nerves. Please accept my thanks for your kind regards and acts and believe me, Yours, J. W. T. McMULLEN.

CINCINNATI, Friday, Sept. 18th.

Dr. ROBACK—Dear Sir:—Having been afflicted with neuralgia or rheumatism for the past year and a half, and having seen your medicine, called the Scandinavian Blood Purifier, highly recommended gentlemen with whom I am acquainted, I was induced to try it, but not before I had used various other medicines. After using two bottles, I felt its effect very sensibly, and using two more, I found myself perfectly cured. You will allow me, therefore, to congratulate you upon making a discovery in medicine which is proving itself to be a worker of such wonders in the disease of he human family. GEORGE S. BENNET,

Local Editor Cincinnati Daily Enquirer

INDIANAPOLIS, Wednesday, Sept. 2, 1857.

Dr. C. W. ROBACK—Dear Sir:—Having been troubled for several years with extreme debility and weakness, so much so that I was unable to attend to my ordinary business at times, and having heard of the wonderful cures that your Scandinavian Blood Purifier and Pills were effecting I was induced by a friend to try them.

I have been using the Purifier for the last twelve months, and find the medicine fully equal to its recommendations. So valuable is it to me that I cannot now dispense with the use of it at my advanced age of life—seventy-seven years.

I cheerfully give this information for the benefit of those similarly affected. MORRIS MORRIS.

The Happiest Man in New York.

Perhaps a neighbor of ours, which the correspondent of the New Orleans Delta "alludes to as follows," imagines that he has kept all this exceeding great joy to himself, that nobody has noticed the peculiar smile in his eye, or if they did that they thought it "all in his eye," and looked upon the event as quite impossible. He has certainly kept exceeding shady; as mysterious as the great Frederick, yet happy as Hudson himself when he sailed up the river that bears his name, and received the first fruit of life long labor:

"The happiest man I know of in New York is a distinguished journalist, an editor in very high standing. For fifteen years he has had only one wish ungratified—sustaining a most difficult position with wonderful tact and talent, admired by his opposers, loved and reverenced by those who know him best, with fame and fortune sufficient for his ambition, and a lady for a wife who possesses all the old fashioned virtues united to modern graces.

"What more could he desire? Alas! he had no child to inherit all these advantages. The stately halls of his dwelling echoed back no light patter of childish footsteps, no ringing laugh or gay prattle, and the angelic presence which accompanies the advent of the newborn babe failed to illuminate the solitude of the lonely mansion! Fifteen years of expectation, and even Hope had retired weeping, when strange whispers are heard, small pieces of lace and muslin are seen disturbing the quiet regularity of the well ordered house, and by and by a little cry, a soft wail, and a tender little head is nestled amid lace and down, and our happy editor wonders what it is that communicates with such a mysterious thrill from that tiny form to his own beating heart. How despicable all the items of news seem to be in the morning paper, except those which relate to births and marriages! What a sudden accumulation of interest in our school system! and what a determination to expose all the omissions and abuses in our educational practice! Verily, what great oaks from little acorns grow."—New York Tribune.

The Republican Record.—The Washington correspondent of the New Albany Ledger well says of the acts of the Republican party:

A pretty record they are making for themselves, truly! They have abandoned their Philadelphia Platform of 'Congressional sovereignty,' and got astride of the Democratic plank of popular sovereignty. They have abandoned their plank of 'No more slave States,' and have voted to admit Kansas into the Union under the Lecompton Constitution, if the people should so determine. The vote to admit Kansas under a pro-slavery constitution, and to reject Minnesota and Oregon under free State constitutions. When Minnesota is admitted over their votes they resort to action to succeed in disfranchising her. And yet, forsooth, they are the peculiar friends and champions of freedom! Who can repose any further principles, their pledges and promises?—They are utterly demoralized and reckless and no confidence can be placed in them. They are mad, and government more by the blinding fury of their passions, than by the dictate of reasons or the prompting of patriotism.

Jumping the Rope.—Little girls, and sometimes large ones, grow ambitious at time in this exercise, and their movements should be watched, as they may do themselves injuries, from the effects of which they can never recover. We have known women made cripples for life by this exercise, in their juvenile sports of an hour. A serious case of this kind occurred, says the Poughkepsic Eagle, in this city a short time since. A young lady from New York, in a thoughtless hour, resolved to see how many times she could jump the rope without stopping, as others had done, and went on until she was exhausted, and sunk into absolute helpessness. As an immediate consequence, she was seized with an affection of the heart, and for two or three days was in danger of sudden death. At the last accounts she had improved a little, but is still in imminent, and her recovery can only be the result of the utmost care, with the aid of a considerable lapse of time.

A Cute Yankee.—Mr. Webster was called upon by an old gentleman from Nantucket to undertake a cause for him, the argument of which was approaching, and his client asked what would be his terms. "Why," said Mr. W. "I can not argue it under one thousand dollars for although the case is not a heavy one, it will require me to hang about the court for a week, and I should be as willing to be actually engaged for a week as to lose my time in this way. "Well," said the client, "if I give you a thousand dollars will you argue any other cause in which you might be employed?" "Certainly," said the advocate. The bargain was closed. The old man having an eye to business, applied to several persons in Nantucket who had cases on the issue list, and made his own terms for Mr. Webster's services, and actually received four hundred dollars beyond what he had paid; and besides that, gained his own cause gratis.

A Bold Burglar.—A burglar entered the sleeping room of Capt. Buckley, at Mobile, Ala., on Tuesday night of last week, and thence to that of the young ladies, his daughter and niece. He went to the wardrobe and took therefrom a box containing jewelry; thence to the bed where the ladies were sleeping, and putting his hand upon the throat of one of them, took from her finger the rings she was wearing, telling her if she made any noise he would choke her to death. While the thief was at his work the other young lady awoke and screamed, when Capt. Buckley rushed in and burglar rushed out, leaving the box of jewelry in the yard, excepting one diamond ring, worth $60, and the two girls' bonnets.

☞ Mrs Littles, who, with her brother, Ira Stout, was charged with the murder of her own husband, at Rochester, N. Y., has just been found guilty of manslaughter in the second degree, and sentenced to the State Prison for seven years. The trial was a protracted and exciting one, and the verdict, in this instance, received with general approbation.

Rough.—The Christian Intelligencer thus speaks of the Tribune: "We can and do rejoice that the Tribune avows itself, at last, in favor of sound morality and pure religion. So soon as the men who compose its editorial corps afford any reasonable hope that they will practice the one or advocate the other, we shall believe that Satan is growing weary in his work and has concluded to discharge all his principal agents."

An Infallible Cure.—Many testify to the efficacy of the following remedy in all cases of flux, dysentery, or cholera morbus: Take two heaping teaspoonful of flour of slippery elm, and one teaspoonful of Henry's calcined magnesia, (or three teaspoonsful of common calcined magnesia,) and mix them in water till they together assume the consistency of 'clabber,' and drink three times a day.

A Team of Pigs.—Governor Cumming testifies to having observed a wagon, on the road from Salt Lake City to Provo, which was drawn by pigs harnessed to the tongue by an ingenious combination of straps and cords. In it was seated a fat man, who excited his team even into a trot, by the aid of a blacksnake whip.

☞ Another cluster of immense trees, twenty-five in number have been discovered on the route to the Yosmetic Falls, in California. The largest is thirty-six feet in diameter, but only about one hundred feet of trunk is six feet in diameter, but only about one hundred feet of the trunk is standing, the top having been blown off. The next largest is thirty-three and one half feet in diameter, and probably two hundred and seventy-five feet high.

☞ The Louisville Journal is poking fun at Mons. Belly, (queer name!) the French agent who has been figuring peculiarly in South America:

If M Belly is going to sustain himself at the Isthmus against the United States, he must, of course, be prepared to encounter the United States. How about his naval affair?

M. Belly avows his determination to have the United States held to a terrible responsibility. He hasn't a single bowel of compassion in him.

Here are a few more of Prentice's:

Some regard must be had for the fitness of things. Either the ladies' dress must contract, or carriages, church-pews and side-walks must expand.

General Lane is completely dead in Kansas. He was so unfortunate as to kill Jenkins and himself at one shot.

The census shows that there are five hundred thousand more men than women in the United States. So if either sex has a pretext for polygamy it is the female.

PROPRIETOR OF

I. M. SINGER'S

of the State of Pennsylvania (except the counties of Erie, Alleghaney and Philadelphia) State of Wisconsin, and the northern part of Indiana.

THE world wide reputation of these machines renders puffing unnecessary. All who have used Singer's Machines testify to their superior merits over all others. Over 12 000 have been sold and are now in active operation, and not one has proved a failure! By simply changing the needle and thread the same machine will execute perfectly every variety of work, coarse or fine, on cloth or leather. From $200 to $500 a year can be cleared by an individual using this machine more than can be cleared by hand.

Singer has also brought out a new highly ornamented, which for beauty and expedition far surpasses all other Family Machines. These machines use two threads, forming a lock stitch in the centre of the goods sewed, and making a perfect back stitch on both sides of the cloth, which makes a seam much stronger and harder to rip than hand sewing, and does not use more than two thirds as much thread as the chain stitch machine.

These machines are for sale by the undersigned, at his office on North Fifth Street, opposite Good's Hotel, Reading, Pennsylvania;

Also by T. E EVANSON, Traveling Agent in Indiana. Silk, Needles, Oil, and Thread tor sale by T. E. EVANSON,

THE GREATEST

MEDICAL DISCOVERY

OF THE AGE.

Mr. KENNEDY, of Roxbury, has discovered in one of our common Pasture Weeds, a remedy that cures

Every Kind of Humor

FROM

The worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple

TWO bottles are warranted to cure a nursing sore mouth.

One to three bottles will cure the worst kind of pimples on the face.

Two bottles are warranted to cure the worst canker in the stomach.

Three or five bottles are warranted to cure the worst kind of Erysipelas.

One or two bottles are warranted to cure all humor in the eyes.

Two bottles are warranted to cure running of the ears and blotches among the hair.

Four to six bottles are warranted to cure corrupt and running ulcers.

One bottle will cure scaly ernptions of the kin.

Two or three bottles are warranted to cure the worst kind of ringworm.

Two or three bottles are warranted to cure the most desperate case of rheumatism.

Three to four bottles are warranted to cure salt rheum.

Five to eight bottles will cure the worst case of scrofula.

One to three bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of dyspepsia. I know from the experience of thousands that it was caused by a canker in the stomach.

One or two bottles are warranted to cure sick headache.

One to two bottles are warranted to regulate a costive state of the bowels.

One to two bottles will regulate all derangement of the kidneys.

Four to six bottles have cured the worst cases of dropsy.

One to three bottles has cured the worst case of piles; a relief is always experienced. What a mercy to get relief in such excruciating disease!

Since its first discovery, I have from time to time added various other herbs to it; of one of them, Hippocrates, the Father of Medicine, says: "It is an herb of Jupiter, and in the sign Leo.

"It openeth obstructions of the liver, gall and spleen; it is an especial friend to the liver, worth all other herbs put together; cooling it when too hot, and warming it when too cold.

"It createth an appetite, cureth all gone and sinking feelings in the pit of the stomach, easeth all pains and stitches in the side.

"It cureth the jaundice by opening the gall, and restoreth the native color of the body.

"It expels all raw, vicious and slimy humors out of the body; it cleanseth all inward ulcers and congealed blood from the kidneys.

"By opening all obstructions of the spleen, it purgeth all burnt choler and melancholy vapors which riseth to the head and brain, causing distressing headache, fearful foreboding of trouble trembling of the heart, fainting and swooning.

"The herb boiled in wine is particularly good to revive the drooping spirits of the aged, and whoever has a lingering sickness after a fever, nothing restoreth him to health so quick as drinking the juice of this herb.

"The seeds boiled in water cureth the most offensive breath, and, drank at bedtime, preventeth what is commonly called nightmare, and all melancholy dreams, a disease billious people are liable to.

The Father of Medicine says of another herb in this composition that "it is an herb of the Sun, and in the sign of Leo.

"The sun is the source of all life, and ruleth the heart; and this herb is the best cordial, the greatest strengthener of the heart of any that grows; it comforteth the heart, cureth all palpitation thereof, taketh away trembling, fainting and smoothering of it; yet it must be take carefully, or severe gripings will ensue, which must be corrected with fennel seed or ginger.

"So much for this herb, between which and the adder there is the utmost antipathy, so much so that the adder will not touch him that has the herb about him."

No change of diet ever necessary—eat the best you can get and enough of it.

D. J. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS

Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Nausea, Constipation Flatulency, Loss of Appetite or any Billious Complaints arising from a morbid inaction of the Stomach or Bowels producing Cramps Dysentery, Colic, Cholera Morbus, &c. &c.

All of these ills yield like magic toits vilifying influence upon the system, and for a person in advanced years, or recovering from sickness of any kind, nothing can be more conducive to their convalescence than the use of these Bitters as per directions on the bottles,

Scarcely four years have elapsed since the first introduction of "Dr J Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters" to the public, and such has been the success of this article after its tested efficacy by a discriminating public, that during the last year nearly half a million bottles were sold, with a continuous demand in excess of the supply with all the facilities the proprietors have been able to command in its preparation.

Are you dyspeptic? Then take these Stomach Bitters.

Are you billious? Try one bottle of these Bitters, and be relieved at once

Are you annoyed by indigestion or constipation? Remove the cause by the free use of these Bitters

Have you fever and ague? How many thousands in the West and South have been cured of this constitution-destroying disease by the free use of these Bitters!

All should try this great Antidote We venture to affirm that, when Hostetters's Stomach Bitters are used, a case of Fever and Ague cannot occur: therefore, no family consulting their own interest can afford to do without it.

A WORD TO THE LADIES.

In recommending to your use Dr J Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters, it is but just to state that as a simulant to the system, in imparting strength and vigor, preparatory to periodical stages, which are of times attended with much pain and trouble, we know of no preperation more happily adapted to all afflictions consequent upon this cause, and for cramps in stomach, cholera morbus, and all ailments arising from over indulgence in fruits, vegetables, ice creams, &c, it is certain and almost instantaneous remedy, and no family should be without it

One wineglassful taken three times each before meals, at half the quantity the patients are in a weak condition, and increased in proportion to their strength, will be found a great tonic agent, which all will appreciate when personally satisfied of the facts, as they will be by giving the Bitters one trial

☞ CAUTION. ☜

Carefulness should be our study, but more particularly when the health is at stake. Since these Bitters have, from their medical qualities, become so popular there have been a great many concoctions called Stomach Bitters, and often represented to be the same in virtue as Dr. Hostetter's, palmed upon the public. Be careful of these vilainous compounds! Our Bitters are put up in square quart bottles, and covered with the patent metallic cap, stamped "Hostetter's Stomach Bitters," and Dr J Hostetter blown on the glass. All others are imitation.

"BORN TO GOOD LUCK."

BY COL. WALTER B. DUNLAP.

Harry Clare was a good-natured, generous kindly disposed fellow, who loved cheer and easy life, and whose faults were of that open hearted character which seldom meet with severe censure. When Harry was not Harry—that is, before his parents had given him a name—an old woman who claimed to be his god-mother, pronounced these mystic words over the future Harry: The child is born to Good Luck! So deep an influence did this fair sooth have upon the minds of the simple parents, that they were led to regard Master Harry—when they had thus named him—as a wonder. A thousand little things occurred during his boyhood to confirm them in their conviction. He got wet but did'nt get cold. He fell from trees and high beams, and did'nt get hurt. And at school he accomplished marvels.

The result of all this was, that Harry grew up with the same faith. He believed most firmly that he was born under the benign influence of a lucky planet, and that the world could not do with him. When he has done going to school, he learned the blacksmith's trade; and when he was able to work for himself he took a wife—took Susan Martin—gentle, pretty loving faithful Susan. Her 'parents objected to the match, because, they said, Harry had not energy enough to carry him through the world, with the care of a family upon his shoulders. But Susan loved him and she became his wife.

'Did'nt I know that I was born to good luck, cried the happy Harry, a few days after he was married. Haven't I got the best wife in the town?

'The isn't a better one in the country, replied the young man to whom he had spoken. And I hope you'll appreciate her. Susan Martin might have had her pick from a dozen of the best youths of the village, and there's not one of them that would have made her a good husband. See to it, Harry that she never has occasion to regret the step she has taken'

'Of course she never can regret it, said the exultant husband. We'll sail along with fair breezes at all time. I tell you I was born to good luck, and my fortunate star can fail me.'

His friend shook his head and walked away, and Harry went to his shop, where he found half a dozen customers waiting for him and some of them growling because he had not been there before.

Five years passed away, and Harry had three three children. One evening he entered his house, and found Susan with a cloud upon her brow. He asked he what was the matter.

'Shall I tell you the truth Harry?' she said trying to smile.

'Of course you must. So out with it'

'Then it is simply this: We are going behindhand'

'Behindhand?' repeated the husband. What do you mean.

'Why—your business is not attended to as it should be You are forgetting your own interests.'

'Pshaw! Don't you worry, Susan. Just wait until you see me make a haul. I made twenty dollars this day on a horse trade.'

'And how much did you make by your trade yesterday?'

'Why—returned Harry, hanging his head; I lost something there But I'll make it up. I was born to good luck, and I know that fortune can't desert me. Don't worry, Susan.'

'But Harry, said the wife, in a mild impressive tone, you don't realize how much you are losing If you would trust more to your wit and judgment, instead of to your luck, as you call it, you might do better, even at trading horses, and such stuff; but believe me, you would do better to stick to your shop, and do the work you would be sure to have there. Only see how much work goes out of town, because you are not found at your forge when wanted.'

'Let them carry their work out of town, if they want to, said Harry, rather petulantly. I shan't worry. Just you wait until I striko a streak of luck.'

'Believe me Harry, the wife said, as she arose from her chair with her babe in her arms, if ever you strike that streak of luck as you are so often pleased to call it, you will strike it upon your anvil.'

Susan went to put her child into its little bed, and Harry said Pooh! and then took up a paper and began to read.

Harry knew that he was neglecting his regular business, but then he hoped for something better. So firmly had the old faith in good luck seated in his mind, that it had grown to be a part of his very existance. He felt sure that some day he would make a fortune, when people least expected it. He had heard of vast fortunes being made by mere strokes of luck, and why should not he, who was born to that end fare as well? The result was, that his mind became destracted from his shop, and his customers were often forced to find another smith to do their work.

Harry traded watches, traded horses, dipped into petty speculations, and, in short seized upon everything which presented itself, with a lucky side to it. At length a streak came. He drew a hundred dollars in a lottery. He went home with exultation in his countenance.

'It's commenced, he cried, as he chinked the gold before his wife.

'And you've drawn that in a lottery? returned Susan, with a dubious look.'

'Yes—a cool hundred.'

'Will it pay your debts, Harry?'

'Eh? Debts?'

'Will it make up for the time you have lost'

'But this is only the commencement, Susan I've only just struck the streak. Wait awhile. My luck is coming. I tell you I was born to it and it can't fail me.'

'Ah Harry, said the wife, with a sad shake of the head. I fear this will prove the worst luck you have had yet. It is only the ignis fatus that will lead you deeper into the mire than you have yet gone. Why not drop at such schemes at once and go into your shop and stick to your business. It would be better for you in the end—it would be better for you now.'

What—leave my fortune just as I have found it? exclaimed Harry, vehemently No, no. I had a dream—twice repeated—and that makes three times you know—that I should have good luck in these kind of ventures, and I am going to follow 'em up. Just you wait my, dear?'

And Susan did wait. She waited until she suffered more than she would tell. She waited until the bloom was gone from her cheek, and the brightness from her eye. From morn till night she plied her needle without ceasing. Her children must have food and raiment, and she must furnish them. She plead with her husband but he would not see. She pointed out to him how he was losing both business and friends, but he would only look to the future, whence his good luck was sure to come. So Susan was forced to look to the future also, and she prayed that it might bring relief.

For a whole year Harry Clare dabbled in lottery tickets, and at the end of that time he had lost nearly every penny he had been able to raise. He grew desparate, and resolved that he would make a heavy strike somewhere. "Strike upon your anvil," whispered a voice; but he would not listen to it. "I was born to good luck, and it must come, sooner or later," he said to himself; and then he tried to study up some new speculation. He was sitting all alone in his little office—a pen-like apartment in the back of his forge, where he kept his books—when two men entered his shop.

'This was too bad! said one of them, whose name was Atherton, an extensive builder, as he saw that there was no fire upon the forge, and no workman in the shop. We must have a new smith in this place. Here have I over five hundred dollars worth of work that must be done the present season. There's all the forging for Grant's new mill, and the iron work for the upper bridge.'

'There's one thing certain, replied the other, who was a contractor, and had some interest in the builder's work, we shan't get anything done here'

'That's so! added Atherton. And with this the two men left the shop'

When Harry went home to supper he found his wife quite sick. She was pale and weak, and her head ached. In the evening he went for the doctor, and when the man of medicine came he said that Susan was down with a severe fever.

'She must have got cold,' suggested Harry.

'No she has overtsked herself, returned the doctor, with a shrug of the shoulders. Both mind and body seemed to have been worked too much.'

For the first time Harry Clare, felt a real operating pang at his heart. He knew why Susan must have worked so hard, though he had not thought of it with any seriousness before.

But Harry's thoughts were not allowed to rest idle for the want of picking. One evening, as he was wending his was homeward from the doctors's, where he had been to get some medicine, he noticed that a party of young men were walking in advance of him. H knew by the sound of their voicet, that they were friends of his, and he would have advanced and joined them, had he not chanced to hear his own name pronounced. Curiosity to know what they had to say led him to approach them without being observed, and he heard their conversation distinctl.

'It's too bad,' said one in a feeling tone 'Harry Clara might do well if he only would Only look at that wife of his! This town never afforded a better one See how the poor thing has scrubbed and slaved to support herself and family, while Harry has been waiting for that luck of his'

'That's so,' rejoined another, who was the tailor in the village. 'She has done more work for me within two years past than any other two women in the place; and within the past six months she has worked beyond all account. About all that she and her children have had for food and clothing must have been earned by her needle.'

'It's a shame,' resumed the first speaker. 'Only a day or two after Harry was married I told him he had got as good a wife as there was in the country, and I hoped he'd appreciate her He said of course he should. But just see how it's come out—I got married about the same time, and went into business when he did, and my trade isn't anywhere near so good as his,—yet I have bought a house and paid for it, and have something laid up beside Why—he would only stuck to his business he might have been one of the most prosperous men in the town But he thinks he was born to some good luck that'll come to him, one of these days, like a fairy's gift'

'Well,' remarked a third person of the party, 'he did have a stroke of good luck when he got Susan Martin for a wife; but he's never had one since'

'Unless,' added the previous speaker, 'we call the possession of her a continuous stroke of luck! But I'm afraid he won't keep her long Alas, for poor Susan! Harry don't know what a jewel he is wearing away. He don't realize that when he got her for a wife he got a good piece of good fortune that might have lasted during the longest lifetime, if he would only have taken his share of the trust and responsibility.'

At this point Harry had to turn off from the main street, and in a few moments he was left to his own reflections. As soon as he was alone he stopped and gazed down upon the ground; and thus he stood for some minutes.

'I think I'm waking up,' he finally said. And then he walked quickly towards his house

He found Susan much better, and the medicine which he had bought helped speedily to survive her. On the following day Harry went to see Mr Atherton, He found that gentleman just entering his chaise to ride away

'I understand that you have some work, in my line, which you want done,' said Harry

'Well—what of it?' returned the builder.

'I should like to do it for you, sir.'

'You, Mr. Clare?

'Yes, sir.'

'But I must have it done in time.'

'If I take the job, sir, I'll do it as I promise,' said Harry, promptly.

'But this is something new,' replied Atherton, with surprise. 'I thought you were born to some other kind of luck'

'Perhaps I was,' answered Harry readily; 'but of that kind of luck, I've had enough; and now I'm going to hammer out a luck for myself Will you let me commence upon your work?'

'Yes, sir' cried the builder leaping from his chaise. 'Here, John,' he added, turning to his hired man, 'you may put the horse up. I shan't want him. And now,' he resumed, to Harry 'just come into the house, and we'll talk the matter over.—I was ready to start for Marlowe to get my work done there; so, you see, you didn't come a minute too soon.'

The result of the conference was that Harry was to do all the iron work Athrerton might want, and he was assured that there would be eight hundred dollars' worth of it before the year was out.

One morning the people who lived near the blacksmith's shop were startled by the clang of the heavy hammer. It was but little after sunrise, and yet the blows upon the old anvil rang out clear and loud, and they saw black smoke rolling up from two of the chimneys. They went and peeped in at the door, and there they saw Harry Clare, with his stout arm bared to the shoulder, wielding his hammer with strange energy A new man was at work at the second forge, and his two apprentices had something else to do than to lounge about and cobble old horse shoes.

Susan Clare sat in the great rocking chair by the kitchen stove, for her old mother, who had come to nurse her, said that she was well enough for that. She gazed up at the clock, and wondered where her husband was It was past seven, and supper had been ready for some time At length he came; but how differently he looked from what had been his wont some years past —His face was flushed; his eye was bright; his bosom swelled out with a hearty breath; and his step was heavy and emphatic, just as though it had a purpose, And then upon his shirt there was a grimy dirt, such as used to be three years agone, and when his gaze rested upon the table his countenance glowed as though he had a grateful appetite.

'What, Susan,' he cried, as he saw his wife sitting there, 'are you well enough for this?' And as he spoke he moved to her side and kissed her

'I am getting better very fast,' she replied.

'And you must get well as soon as you can, Susie; for I can't have you sick any more.'

'She must get well so as to finish up those vests for the tailor,' interrupted the old lady, with a spice of bitterness in her tone. Susan cast a reproachful, beseeching glance upon her mother, but the word had been spoken

'No, no,' said Harry, with a smile, 'we'll have no more of that. I took those vests last evening and carried them all back to the tailor, and told him that my wife could work for him no more.'

'But—Harry——'

'Stop,' interrupted Harry, as his wife commenced to speak 'There's no more need of it, for I've struck my streak of luck at last. I know I was born too good luck, and that I should find it sooner or later—I've found it'

'Found it?' repeated, Susan, trembling with hope and apprehension both.

'Yes—I've found it in my wife, and in my shop—I've been hammering it out all day. People have been staring with wonder to see Harry Clare ringing away upon his anvil at such a rate; and they may stare as much as they please. At all events, I can give them this assurance: If the sight is worth seeing, they shall see it, henceforth, at any time, while Harry has his health, and the sun's up! And now I am hungry. Susie. I'll eat supper, and then I'll tell you all about it.'

And after supper was over, Harry sat down, and wound one arm about his wife's neck, and then told her all he had to tell; and when he had done he asked her if she could forgive him for the past. She rested her head upon his bosom, and wept, and forgave, and blessed him.

And, day after day, the old clang sounded forth from the smith's shop. Great pieces of iron assumed strange forms beneath the persistent strokes of Harry's hammer, and, as he cast them, one after another, upon the rough floor, he muttered to himself—'There's another piece of good luck! I'll forge me out a fortune yet.'

Susan was not long in getting well after her husband had made her so happy; and when she was plump and rosy once more, and children could rom about the house without fear of tumbling up the carefully arranged packages that used to come from the tailor's, Harry took her upon his knee and kissed her, and wound his arms about her.

'Susie,' he said, with fond enthusiasm, 'didn't I always tell you that I was born to good luck? Only, ye see, I missed it for a while'

'But you've found it now,' whispered Susan.

'Yes,' cried Harry, 'I've found it in a noble, loving wife, and in the firm, fixed purpose to walk right in the path of duty. The crown of good luck is upon my brow, and, next to yourself, my beloved, its two brightest jewels—the two jewels without which the crown becomes but a mere load of dross—are Industry and Perseverance!'

Bulwer Confronted by his Wife at the Hertfordshire Election.

[From the London Morning Star]

A most painful scene occurred at Hertford on Tuesday, the 18th. Toward the close of the proceedings of the Hertfordshire election just after Sir Edward had concluded his address with a fervent tribute of admiration to the womanly beauty exhibited in the long line of open carriages, chaises, and vans drawn up in front of the hustings, there was an unwonted stir in the crowd, which parted to admit of the passage of a hired brougham from one of the town inns. The carriage having stopped, two ladies alighted one of them an extremely handsome woman of about forty five years of age, with fresh complexion, and with eyes of dazzling beauty. This lady, who was evidently laboring under excitement which exercised all her powers to control, advanced as nearly as she could through the crowd towards the hustings, and announced herself as the wife of the Right Hon Sir E B. Lytton, stating that she had come, according to a promise made by her, to confront her husband and to expose the wrongs which she said he had inflicted upon her, and which she had described in her works and in a pamphlet published by her.

The appearance of the lady was not unexpected, as her coming had been announced in bills and placards: but owing to a deception which had been practiced upon her by some persons in the town, who had introduced themselves to her, she was detained in the town while the election was proceeding in the vicinity. Those in the secret anticipated that she would not discover the mistake until the proceedings were over, and that her design would be thus frustrated. It was nearly so. Recognised as soon as observed, her voice was nearly drowned by the shouts of Sir Edward's supporters, but Sir Edward's eye caught hers, and his face paled. He looked like a man suddenly attacked by paralysis. Those near him say he trembled exceedingly. For a few moments he retained his position in front of the hustings, but turned his back on the unwelcome visitor. Then he suddenly disappeared below the hustings platform, while his wife cried "Coward," and he, having hastily signed the usual declaration, escaped into the residence of the gentleman on whose grounds the election took place Lady Lytton continued to address the audience assembled for more than a quarter of an hour, repeating her statements in her pamphlet, and asserting her intention to confront her husband on every possible occasion until she compelled him to redress her wrongs. Her ladyship subsequently made an application to the mayor for the use of the Town Hall, for the purpose of making a public statement; but this being refused her, she left the town early in the afternoon Lady Lytton arrived in Hertford at 3 o'clock on the morning of the election, having posted from Taunton, where she resides. It is needless to say that the event described has caused the greatest possible excitement in Hertfordshire.

Extravaganer and Fraud.—Inasmuch as the opposition politicians and presses have but little else to talk about in the coming canvass, they harp continually of alleged extravagance in the administration of the government. But they forget to tell their readers that very much of the expenditures of the present administration are caused by paying off a heavy lien which the extravagance and improvidence of a Black Republican and Know Nothing Congress left upon the public revenue. The opposition editors and politicians forget to inform the public about the expenses occurred in the Mormon difficulties, in the erection of Custom Houses, the enlargement of the Navy, the enlargement of the Capital, &c. which necessarily add to the public expense. It is the old cry of "stop thief," which the opposition are so much in the habit of raising, to avoid scrutiny into their own acts.

But notwithstanding the subterfuge raised by the Black Republicans, the people know who are the public plunders and treasury thieves. Both at home and abroad, the people of Indiana know who are guilty of extravagance and fraud. And every honest Democrat is not only willing but anxious that the records will be searched. Economy and strict accountability are Democratic virtues almost wholly unknown to the opposition —State Sentinel.

Horrid Tragedy —A most appalling tragedy was enacted in Columbus county, in this State, just after daylight on the morning of yesterday, the 29th inst., resulting in the death of four persons

The account, as it has reached us, that at the time already stated, Joshua Rouse killed his father his wife, and two of his own small children cutting off their heads with an axe His eldest son ran over to the residence of Isaac H. Powell, Esq. and told Mr P. what had happened who got W. G. Smith, Esq., and they went on towards Rouse's. On their way they met Rouse in pursuit of his son with an axe. He said he wanted to kill him. On meeting Messrs. Powell and Smith, he dropped the axe and held out his hand, when they arrested him. He is now in jail. Rouse had been for some time in the Insane Asylum, but was taken out by his guardian some three or four weeks ago, since which time he has been permitted to run at large There is every reason to believe that he was insane at the time when he committed the terrible deed for which he has been arrested The occurrence took place some five miles from Whiteville, in the vicinity of White Marsh. The little boy who escaped stated, we believe, that Rouse killed the old man out in the yard with a stick and then chopped off his head. He took the old man's knife, and with that killed his own wife, and cut off her head. The children were killed with the axe and chopped off their heads. At Whiteville, when being carried to jail, Rouse said he killed his wife because she had tried to cut his throat two years ago, and his father because he had whipped him very severely when a boy. He had been in the insane asylum for 18 months preceding the affair, with the exception of the last three or four weeks We hardly see how or why he was set loose.—Wilmington, N. C. Journal.

Great German Festival.—A great German festival was held yesterday at Jones's woods. In the morning a procession, consisting of musical clubs, military companies, invited guests, and others generally, formed at the Metropolitan rooms 160 Hester street, and marched through several of the principal streets to the foot of Grand street, East river, where they took a steamboat for the pleasure grounds. Thousands went up by the cars and on foot. With the music, lager beer, dancing, and lively games and pranks of all sorts, our German population had a very merry time of it, in spite of the broiling weather. The proceeds of the occasion, for which the tickets were twenty five cents, will be donated toa charitble purposes.—Journal of Commerce, June 29th.

Tenth District Democratic Congressional Convention.

The democratic convention for the Tenth Congressional District will be held at Kendallville, on FRIDAY, August 13th.

According to the ratio adopted of allowing one Delegate for every 100 democratic votes polled at the last preceding general election, and one for every fraction exceeding 50 votes, the several counties will be entitled to the following delegates:

Allen	32	Lagrange	6
DeKalb	12	Steuben	6
Elkhart	17	Whitley	9
Kosciusco	11	Noble	12
Total Delegates			105

Necessary to a choice 53.

Allen County Convention.

The Democrats of Allen County are requested to meet in their Townships, at the usual place of holding elections, on Saturday, 24th July 1858, at 2 o'clock, p m., and appoint delegates to attend a COUNTY CONVENTION, to be held at the Court House in the City of Fort Wayne,

On Saturday, July 31st, 1858,

at 11 o'clock A. M. for the purpose of nominating candidates for such County Offices as are to be filled at the October Election.

In pursuance of the plan of organization heretofore adopted the delegates are apportioned among the several Townships as follows:

Marion	11	Wayne	20

By order of the County Committee.
F. P. RANDALL, Chair'n.

June 26th, 1858.

Fort Wayne Sentinel.

SATURDAY, JULY 17, 1858.

Democrats of Allen County! remember that next Saturday at 2 o'clock P. M. is the time fixed for holding township meetings to appoint delegates to attend the County Convention to be held on the following Saturday. We urge every democrat to attend these meetings, and see that the best men are selected as delegates, so that the feelings of the party in the county may be fairly represented in selecting our candidates for office. Let no outside influences be brought to bear in selecting the delegates, but let them be such men as will fairly and honestly reflect the feelings and wishes of those they represent in the convention. Do this, and success is certain. Remember, all depends on the township meetings! If the democrats do their duty in the townships, there can be no complaint of unfairness, trickery, or management in the convention. Our candidates will be the choice of the people; they will be entitled to and doubtless will receive the full vote of the party.

Free School.—The examination of the scholars in our free schools is now progressing, and it is truly gratifying to witness their proficiency in their different studies. The examination commenced in the primary classes, daily ascending towards the higher classes, and will be concluded on Friday evening next, by a public exhibition with the large hall of the new school house in the Western Addition.

We again venture to remind our citizens that the public funds are now exhausted, and that the schools must be closed at the end of the present term, not to be reopened until next April, unless some means be adopted to carry them on at private expense We have now got one of the best schools in the State, with an excellent and efficient corps of teachers, and it seems to us that it ought to be kept up. If we allow it to go down now, much of the good already effected will be lost; and the scholars, if allowed to run in the streets for the next eight months, will forget more than they could recover in the few months the public funds will sustain the schools. The schools would be destroyed, teachers scattered, dispersed, and engaged elsewhere; and when their services should be again required they could not be had nor could others equally as competent be obtained.

This is a serious matter, worthy the consideration of every parent and friend of education in the city. A contribution from each parent much less than it would cost to educate his children in private schools, would suffice to keep our schools open throughout the year. We submit it to them whether it would not be true economy to contribute the amount; and to the friends of popular education, and those who have taken a just pride in the noble public school of which our city can boast, we also submit the question, whether it is not worth a little effort and a little sacrifice on their part to secure to our citizens the benefits and blessings of our free school. It is a momentous question, and one that must be answered promptly. Next Friday evening our schools take a vacation—or suspend operations until next year. Which shall it be?

☞ The Republican of this place reiterates its absurd charges against the democratic party, and very modestly calls on us to prove that they are not true This thing of proving a negative, is not in accordance with common usage, and we therefore beg to decline accommodating our Republican brother so far, and call on him to prove his own charges—if he can. We do not wish to be too hard on his readers, and compel them, this hot weather, to read so lengthy an article as he would write in attempting to prove all the wonderful charges he has made. We therefore suggest that he first take up and prove his first charge—that the democratic party has been a bank party and an anti-bank party. This will be enough for one week; he can then take up the others in their turn; we think it will be better to give it in broken doses, rather than administer the whole portion at once.

We are much afraid our friend Bailey has not sufficiently reflected on the awful fate of Ananias and Saphira, and has rashly adopted the republican maxim that "a lie well stuck to is as good as the truth." We certainly had expected better things of him

Free School Pic-Nic and Railroad Excursion

Arrangements are making to get up a grand Pic-nic and Railroad Excursion for the benefit of the Free Schools in this city. It is to take place next Tuesday week, July 27th. A special train of cars will be provided, to start from the depot at 8 o'clock a. m, and convey the scholars and company to Warsaw; the pic-nic will be held in the beautiful grove immediately adjoining the town and on the margin of the lake. It is expected the schools and citizens of Warsaw will meet their Fort Wayne friends and guests and participate in the proceedings. We will give further particulars in our next.

This will doubtless be a very pleasant affair, as well to the school children as to others who accompany them: and as it is in aid of the good cause of popular education, we hope all parents and our citizens generally will turn out on the occasion.

Tickets will be for sale in the early part of next week, and it is desired that those intending to participate will procure them early, in order that the committee may judge what number of cars to prepare for the occasion The price of tickets will be only 50 cents; the scholars will probably be charged 10 or 15 cents each. This is certainly cheap enough to induce the most economical pleasure-seeker to indulge in a day's recreation on this occasion.

Independent Men—We are getting to have a great many "Independent" men now a days, and it is becoming quite common for these very patriotic and disinterested men, the moment their party stops feeding with pap, to declare themselves independent, forsake their party, and run for office "on their own hook." Judge Hovey is a fair specimen of this kind of independence. He has been but a few years in the Democratic party, and has been kept in office nearly the whole of the time. Finding himself at length out of office, he became a bolting Douglasite, and now is running "independent" in opposition to the Democratic nominee for Congress in the first district We hope he may be shamefully beaten, and be laid on the shelf for evermore.

Another of these worthies is John G. Davies, of the 7th District. He chose to quarrel with the administration on the foolish Lecompton issue, and has been acting with its enemies ever since. He has already been in Congress six years, and now because his constituents choose to dispense with his further services, and wishing to be represented by a Democrat, have nominated Mr. Secrest, he too comes out "independent." Mr. Secrest is an Anti-Lecompton man, so there is no pretext on that score for Davies' independence; but then Mr. Secrest in opposing Lecompton did not feel it necessary to desert and betray his party, and thus we believe is the secret of Davies' opposition. Such apostates will assuredly meet their reward; and as each one throws off the mask and reveals his treason, we thank God that we are rid of a traitor. All we ask of them is, that they will never seek to come back to us again.

Treaty with Nicaragua.—Private advices from Nicaragua say, the Cass-Yrissarri Treaty has been again ratified in a modified form by the Assembly, and signed by President Martinez.

Peace with the Mormons!—The Peace Commissioners in a dispatch to the Government state that they have settled the difficulties existing between the government and Utah. The dispatch substantially confirms the previously received telegraphic accounts. The question now is, can the Mormons be trusted, or is the treaty only a ruse to gain time? We have but little faith in the Mormon leaders, and have doubts that nothing but the presence of a sufficient armed force will ensure peace and the due execution of the laws in Utah.

Sunday School Pic Nic.—The Wayne Street Methodist Sabbath School had a Pic Nic on Tuesday last, in a beautiful grove on the bank of Eagle Lake, near Warsaw, to which place they were taken in a special train of cars engaged for the occasion. A large company of our citizens accompanied the party, probably not less than 500, and were met there by an equally large company from Warsaw The weather was cool and delightful, and the whole affair went off in the most pleasant manner. A correspondent has furnished us a more detailed account of the truly agreeable pic nic, which will be found in another column.

We have had rather more rain this week than our farmers desire. It is bringing the corn and potatoes along finely, but as the wheat is nearly all standing in shock in the fields, there is some danger that it may be injured, unless we have more settled weather.

Inquest—On Monday last the body of Philip Kile, an old man upwards of 80 years of age, was found lying in the woods, near the St. Joe road, about a mile north east of this city. From the position of the body he appears to have tripped over a small twig, and falling forward struck his forehead on a stump, causing instant death. He did not appear to have struggled or moved in the least, as his feet were still entangled in the brush which had caused his fall. He had been missing since Friday evening, but as he was in the habit of staying for a few days at a time with each of his several connections, no uneasiness was felt at his absence, as each supposed him to be visiting some other. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

TRUE AS GOSPEL.—The editor of the Peru Republican has had the good fortune to stop at the Rockhill House, in this city, and in his last paper thus records his impression of this splendid hotel:

"The Fort Wayneites are very proud of the Rockhill House, and well they may be, it is a credit to the city. There are few if any Hotels in Indiana that equal it The apartments are spacious, comfortable, and in good order,—the landlord attentive and obliging to guests."

Huntington Democrat—We have received the first number of a neatly printed, ably edited, thoroughly Democratic paper, under the above title, recently commenced in Huntington, by A. C. Thompson, with William Norton, as assistant editor. It promises fair to do good service in the Democratic cause, and is therefore entitled to a cordial support from the Democracy of Huntington County.

Newspaper Change.—Messrs EARLE & HEATH have purchased the Goshen Democrat from R. Lowry, the late proprietor. We have not the pleasure of a personal acquaintance with the new editors, but judging from the tone of the paper since they assumed the control of its columns, we arrive at the conclusion that they are good reliable democrats who will maintain the high character the Democrat has borne, and make it a useful and valuable organ of the party in Old Elkhart. We wish them abundant success.

Tenth Judicial Circuit.—The Goshen Democrat copies the article from our last Sentinel speaking of the feeling here in favor of W. W. CARSON for the vacant judgeship—and adds:—

"There is a *strong*er feeling here in favor of the nomination of the HON. E. M. CHAMBERLAIN for the Circuit Judgeship. His character as a Democrat, and his qualifications as a jurist need no commendations at our hands. It is justly due to him that he receive the unanimous nomination of the Democracy at the approaching Convention at Kendallville."

☞ The Republican has had a great deal to say about the election of the Indiana Senators, and would appear to desire to have it set aside as illegal and void. What has the editor to hope if such a course should be followed? The next Legislature will undoubtedly be Democratic so there could be no possibility of his being elected in the place of Mr. Bright, even if the election should be set aside. The less he says about the course of the factious Republicans in the last Legislature the better it will be for his party.

In this week's paper he copies an article on the subject from the Cincinnati Gazette—for the purpose we presume, of showing that other Republican papers can pervert the facts in this case as well as himself. The State Sentinel ably refutes all the Gazette has said, and conclusively shows the ignorance of its venerable editor on the entire subject. We will publish the Sentinel's article next week for the express gratification of our friend Bailey.

Sabbath School Pic-Nic & Railroad Ride.

The Wayne Street Methodist Sabbath School of this place, led off in a Railroad excursion, on Tuesday last, the 13th inst., which proved to be one of the pleasantest entertainments of the season to the citizens of Warsaw and Fort Wayne Nothing very extensive was expected or prepared for, and the train of cars chartered by the school for the occasion was found to be not more than half large enough to contain the crowd that concluded to have a holiday. Additional cars were attached to the train, and at about 8 A M., more than five hundred citizens of Fort Wayne, were en route on the Chicago and Pittsburgh Road for somewhere toward the setting sun. After a ride of about two hours, the whistle screamed, the breaks went down, and the cars stopped and unloaded near a beautiful lake, and a beautiful grove, a mile and a half east of Warsaw. The train then ran into Warsaw and brought out the Methodist Sabbath School and pretty much all the rest of the city.

The appended programme will give some idea of the fare served up for the entertainment of the two cities, as they were thus met on the common greeting ground. The speeches were short and somewhat pithy. The singing of the Warsaw Sabbath School was par excellent. The Brass Bands of Fort Wayne and Warsaw seemed to enjoy a pleasant rivalry, and discoursed excellent music. The Pic-nic dinner was eaten in social groups, a way of eating at Pic-nics that is worthy of all commendation.

At an early hour in the afternoon all were returned safely to their homes, well pleased with themselves and the expedition. The Wayne St. Sabbath School will remember the efficient service rendered by several young gentlemen not belonging to that school, in preparing for the excursion. It should not be forgotten that Mr. S. M Cummings, master machinist at Fort Wayne, served as engineer, and Mr. A. J Hopper, master of transportation, served as conductor; both accompanying the train so as to secure the greatest possible safety to the passengers.

At the close of the exercises at the Grove, the following resolutions—offered by W.W. Williams, Esq.—were read and adopted:

Resolved, That in promoting the interests of the Sabbath School, we advance the interests of humanity all over the world, and hasten the dawn of that coming day when peace on earth and good will to men shall universally prevail.

Resolved, That all interests—civil, political, and religious—are safe when committed to the heart and hands of the Sabbath School.

Resolved, That we tender our thanks to Dr. Boss, for the use of his grove and grounds;—to the Fort Wayne and Warsaw Bands for their excellent music—and to the officers of the Pitts Ft. Wayne and Chicago Railroad, for the use of their cars on this occasion.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the Fort Wayne and Warsaw papers.

ONE OF THE PASSENGERS.

Telegraphic Expedition.

Nothing definite as yet has reached us from the seaboard as to the movements of the Telegraphic fleet. A despatch from St John's, Newfoundland, July 11, says:

"The steam tug. Blue Jacket, from Liverpool, in 28 days, reports having seen on the 24, in latitude 51 north, longitude 32 west, a large and small steamer, both British, making signals but having no code could not understand them. The same evening saw another large steamer bearing down upon the other's, but could not make out whether she was American or English. The Blue Jacket's log reports heavier weather on the passage than is usual at this season of the year.

QUEBEC, July 13—The ship Windsor Forest has arrived here, and reports that she was in company with the Niagara and Agamemnon for three days. She parted from them on the 20th of June, in heavy weather. Both had light steam on. The weather from the 23d 24th was fine, but from then to the 29th heavy south-west winds prevailed

How They Lie.

The fiscal year has now expired, and within a fortnight we shall know the receipts of the quarter which expired on the 30th of June But all the other data are at hand, by which the operations of the year may be measured. And here they are, roughly, for public edification:

Balance in the Treasury 1st July, 1857, according to Report of Secretary		$17,710,114 27
Receipts 1st quarter from Customs, Lands and Miscellaneous	20,929,819 81
Receipts 2d quarter do	7,092,665 00
Receipts 3d quarter do	8,02,148 35
Receipts 4th quarter, (just expired, estimated,)	8,000,000 00
Treasury-notes under act 22d Dec., 1857	20,000,000 00
Loan under act June	20,000,000 00
Total		$101,785,017 43

It thus appears there have been received by and granted to the Administration within the fiscal year nearly $101,000,000!—Washington Correspondent of the Gazette.

That figures can be made to lie abominably is conclusively proved by the above statement, which is intended to convey the impression that the Government for the year ending the 1st July, 1858, were $101,000,000, although it is not so unequivocally stated.

From the balance in the Treasury of $17,000,000 last July, deduct in round numbers $4,000,000, which was paid on the national debt; also, deduct over $11 000,000 to pay deficiencies in debts for 1857, contracted by the last Congress, which was Republican in that branch which has the especial charge of the revenue service, and which it had failed to supply means to pay. We must also deduct the $20.000,000 loan, not a dollar of which went to defray the expenses of the year ending July 1, 1858. It is all for the coming year. Of the Treasury notes, say ten millions are now on hand, not over ten millions having been applied on last year's expenditures. These various deductions amount to $15,000,000, leaving the actual expenditures of Mr BUCHANAN'S Administration only $56,000,000 for the year 1858, being several millions of dollars less than the expenses of the last year of General PIERCE'S Administration. Every dollar of this fifty-six millions was authorized and declared right by the Republican House of Representatives which elected BANKS Speaker.—*Cin. From the Utah Army

ST. LOUIS, July 12.

Dispatches from Leavenworth of the 9th inst., by the steamer War Eagle, to Booneville, say the letters received by the St. Joseph mail from the army contains a few additional items of interest. An officer writing from Johnston's camp on the Bear River, June 16, says the army would resume its march the next day. General Johnston had received an express from the Peace Commissioners, informing him that the army would be received peaceably by the Mormons. The General did not, however, feel any increased confidence by the peaceful attitute of the Saints, and the army was kept in readiness to repel any treacherous demonstrations A proclamation had been issued to the people by General Johnston, in which he tells them that the army is as ready now to afford them assistance and protection as it was to oppose them when in rebellion against the Government. It was thought this guarantee would cause many of the Mormons to evade the despotism of Brigham Young, who has sedulously inculated the belief that the army was particularly hostile to them The troops were in a fine condition, and glad to be released from inaction. The garrison at Fort Bridger consisted of Captain Hendrickson's and Lieutenant Smith's companies, of the Sixth Infantry, and Captain Stewart's troops, of the First Cavalry. Colonel Hoffman lost ninety mules, and but one cavalry horse in his march across the plains. The St. Joseph Gazette of the 8th, in noticing the arrival of the Utah mail, says: "General Harney was encamped just below Fort Laramie Colonel May's command was met thirty-five miles this side of Fort Laramie. A large body of infantry were at Ash Hollow. Major Emory was encamped on the Big Blue, and another command (name not given) was at Fort Kearney. The provision trains were progressing finely. Sioux Indians were scattered all along the route, but were friendly. A heavy snow fell at Fort Bridger on June 10." A dispatch from St Joseph of the 7th, by the United States Express Company, to Booneville, says: "The Salt Lake mail of June 19th has arrived. General Johnston and his command was met at Echno Cannon, fifty miles from the city The army was in excellent health and spirits. Brigham Young, and his followers are still at Provo He has been to Salt Lake City to confer with Governor Cumming and the Commissioners, but the result of the conference is not known. It was the established opinion that the Mormons would offer no resistance Colonel Hoffman was left in command of Fort Bridger Captain Marcy accompanied General Johnston. Everything in regard to the future movements of the Mormons is veiled in mystery. Rumors were still rife, however, that they meditate an occupancy of Sonora. Conjectures are numerous in the valley that the United States Government intends to purchase the Mormon improvements. The South Platte was very high, and the roads were good. The mail party neither met nor saw any Indians on the plains, but they met a great many traders at different points on the road. The mail was out nineteen days from Salt Lake City to St. Joseph The same dispatch says Sinclair, the recently appointed Judge of Utah, would leave St Joseph on the 10th, accompanied by Mr. Dodge, the District Attorney for Utah Our Leavenworth correspondent, under date of the 8th, says: "An Express arrived at Fort Leavenworth this morning from Fort Kearney. The express passed the Utah mail for St. Joseph. It is said that Governor Cumming and the Peace Commissioners had concluded a treaty of peace with the Mormons General Harney was in camp, nine miles beyond Fort Kearney, on the 3d The express, with orders for him to halt, must have overtaken him on the 6th. The United States steamer Mink leaves the fort to morrow, with Captain Lovell's and Lieutenant Lee's command of Second Infantry, for Fort Randall. She also takes recruits for the same regiment. Judge Cato has resigned his position as District Judge."

ST. LOUIS, July 13.

From Utah.—The Utah correspondent of the Republican, under date of June 18th says: The conditions agreed upon as the Conference between Governor Cumming, the Peace Commissioners and the heads of the Mormon Church, are "Troops shall enter the City without opposition. The Civil Officers shall be permitted to perform the duties of their officers, without interruption, and an unconditional obedience to the laws of the land shall be given. On the other hand past offences shall be forgotten as stated in the Presidents proclamation" All the houses in the City have been closed against both Civil Officers and strangers, except one, which is occupied by the Governor family. Everybody else were obliged to sleep in their wagons or on the ground.

WASHINGTON, July 15.

The War Department has received official dispatches stating that Col. Steptoe, with a command of 5 commissioned officers and 152 rank and file, was attacked and defeated by a large body of Indians, on the 17th of May, about 80 miles north of Snake river—The battle lasted from 7 in the morning till a short time before sunset: when the amunition being nearly exhausted, and the musquettons being nearly useless against the enemy, a retreat and forced march to the crossing of Snake river became necessary. Four officers and four privates were killed, and eleven wounded.

Arrival of the Star of the West.

NEW YORK, July 14.

The Steamship Star of the West, arrived here at 10 o'clock this morning, with two weeks later news from California. She brings $1,400,000 in Treasure, and 250 passengers. She left Aspinwall on the 5th inst.

The California papers are rather barren of news.

The Frazer river gold excitement was increasing in consequence of glowing accounts furnished by the miners who have returned from that region. San Francisco was crowded with people on their way to the Frazer mines, and throughout the State parties were making preparations for the same purpose. The effect of the excitement was beginning to be felt in the State. Labor was scarce and wages had gone up 20 or 30 per cent. It is estimated that 8000 people had left for the diggings. Six steamers had been put upon the route besides ten sailing vessels.

Several American newspapers are projected in the British possessions, and one the "North American" had already been announced at Victoria

The steamer Cortes had taken fifteen hundred passengers from that city, and every berth in sailing vessels were taken for days in advance.

The Hudson Bay Company has stationed armed vessels on Frazers River to prevent emigrants from carrying goods into the interior to sell An American vessel with merchandise, it was reported, had entered the river in spite of the blockade, the British commander not daring to fire upon her.

The defeat of Col. Steptoe is fully confirmed. His troops fell into an ambuscade when they were attacked by a large number of Indians and were forced to retreat with the loss of 7 killed and 15 wounded, The troops were not sufficiently supplied with ammunition. A great Indian was expected, and Gen. Clark had despatched troops from San Francisco and Los Angelos.

Much excitement existed in San Luis, Abisto county, and also in Carson Valley, in consequence of numerous robberies and assassinations by organized banditti. In the former place the Vigilance Committee had been formed, and four of the culprits had already been hung. In Carson Valley a murderer named Snow had been seized and hung by the people. Before his death, he made a confession which led to the capture of seven of confederates, who at last accounts were under trial for their lives before a body of citizens.

The Indians in the northern countries, were again committing outrages The A. U. S. pack train was fired upon in Del. Norte County. A Mr Baker, was killed and the train captured. Massacres had been committed on the river, and outrages in various other places had occurred. A general rising of the Indians was indicated.

The ship Carribean arrived at San Francisco She picked up a Chinese Junk, containing twelve men, that had been floating about helpless for 5 months.

The Cass Herran Treaty was still under discussion in the Grenadian Legislature, and a committee had been appointed to endeavor to make some compromise.

Copies of M. Belly's contract with the Central American Governments had reached Panama from Europe, causing the greatest astonishment and surprise there.

Senator Douglas' Reception at Chicago

CHICAGO, July 9th, 11 P. M.

Senator Douglas reached here this evening; great display. At one o'clock a committee of four hundred, from Chicago and adjoining counties, proceeded to Michigan City, and there met Judge Douglas and escorted him to this City. The arrival of the train was greeted with firing of cannon and cheers of the people. A procession was formed and conducted him to the Tremont House where he was welcomed in a brief speech on behalf of the citizens, by Charles Walker, President of the Board of Trade.

Mr. Douglas after returning thanks for the magnificent reception, reviewed the action of the last Congress on the Kansas Bill He extolled the Crittenden bill as honest, and the very best proposition for practical illustration of popular sovereignty. He claimed the struggle with Lecomptonism, was for the integrity of principle, and that struggle was triumphant. Lecomptonism was virtually abandoned by its friend and has been defeated forever. He had opposed the English Bill although it practically sent back the constitution to be accepted or repealed by the people, because the manner as well as the form of that submission was at variance with every just principle of popular government It was submitted to the people, with a threat if they did not accept a slave constitution, and thirty-five thousand inhabitants, they should not come in as a free State until they had ninety three thousand. He could never countenance such discrimination between free and slave States. The best energies of his mind had been several years devoted to the great principle of the rights of the people of a Territory to frame their own fundamental laws, and he intended to devote all his future life to the same doctrine. He contended the compromise measures of 1850, were founded on that principle, and carried out in the Kansas Nebraska Bill. He affirmed the Cincinnati Platform and reaffirmed President Buchanan's Inaugural, and regretted to see how a powerful party in this country had determined not to acquesce in this line of policy. The Republican Convention, recently assembled at springfield, nominated Mr. Lincoln for his successor in the Senate, repudiated the doctrine of popular sovereignty, and proclaimed that Congress, and not the people of the Territories, should establish the domestic institutions of Territories. Mr Lincoln indorsed not only this doctrine, but proclaimed a line of policy which is incompatible with the existance of the Union. He declared the Union divided into equal number of free and slave States, cannot endure. Mr. Douglas showed the dangerous tendency of this doctrine that it invited and proclaimed war and extermination in one section of the country against the other. He regarded it as submersive to the fundamental principles upon which our complex system of Government rested, and denied that uniformity in local policy and domestic institutions in the different states is either desirable or possible; on the contrary the political system is vested upon the the theory of practice, hence the dissimilarities in local policy and domestic institutions in the different States. Our forefathers clearly perceived that the domestic institutions which suit New Hampshire are totally unfit for a rice plantation in Carolina, hence the adopted 'constitution provides that each state shall be sovereign and supreme over its own limits, on the supposition they would be diversified. Repeated uniformity is neither desirable or possible. If possible, how to be obtained? There is but one process through which it might be accomplished, that would be to abolish State Legislatures, and convert the government into one consolidated empire, investing Congress with full power to adopt police regulations, regulate internal policy, adopt domestic institutions for all the States. Let this be done, there would be uniformity. Then the States will be all free or a l slave; then negroes will vote everywhere or nowhere; then our glorious Confederacy (thirty-two sovereign States) will be merged into one consolidated empire, and the uniformity of despotism will reign triumphant throughout the land.

Mr. Douglas proceeded to answer Mr. Lincoln's crusade against the Supreme Court, on account of the Dred Scott decision. He could sanction no crusade against the highest judicial tribunal in the land. He was prepared to yield obedience to law as expounded by the Court. He didn't agree with Mr. Lincoln that it was a great wrong to deprive negroes of the rights of citizenship; he didn't believe they were intended to be citizens of our Government.

Lincoln was present and heard Douglas. fireworks were discharging in several parts of the town. The number of persons in attendance was variously estimated at from fifteen to twenty thousand.

Arrival of the Fulton.

NEW YORK July 13.

The Steamship Fulton, arrived this morning, at 5 o'clock. She reports having passed several ice bergs of Cape Race, on Friday. She spoke on Saturday the Steamer Persia, bound hence. Brings 150 passengers and but little news additional telegraph dispatches from Cape Race.

The great fire reported in London docks was on the south quay, next to the hermitage basin The merchandize destroyed was principally Sugar, Spirits, Saltpetre. The ships were hauled out safely.

Despatches from China, received in London state that the Emperor's Special Minister had refused to enter Canton, and turned back.

The Austrian forthcoming Budget will show a deficiency of forty million florins.

The dates from India are to May, 25th, one week later.

Colpee was captured on the 23d The enemy made no resistance.

The news in general from India was considered highly satisfactory in London.

Arrival of the Canada.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., July 13.

The steamship Canada, from Liverpool, with dates to the 3d inst., three days later than previously received at this point, passed of Cape Race yesterday, and having been intercepted by the news yacht of the Associated Press the following summary of her news was obtained:

The steamer Indian from Quebec, arrived out on the 30th ult., and the North Star and Kangaroo, from New York, on the 1st. There was considerable anxiety in relation to the Atlantic cable when the Atlantic sailed. A private meeting of Illinois shareholders had been held in London, but the proceedings had not been made public The House of Lords has rejected the bill to abolish church rates by a large majority The bill allowing the House of Commons to admit Jews as members of that body, has been passed, on the second reading, in the House of Lords, by forty-six majority. Parliament will be prorogued before the end of July. The intelligence from France is not important A ministry had resigned, and a new Cabinet had been formed, headed by General O'Donnell, as Minister of Foreign Affairs and of War.

The Protective Tariff Issue.

The attempt of the "Republicans" of New York, Pennsylvania and New England to incorporate the protective tariff doctrine into the creed of the party is reciving some pretty strong rebukes from the "Republicans" of the West. Hear the Chicago Tribune, the leading organ of the Republicans in Illinois. It says:

"A Word to a Few Crazy Politicians.—We have observed with some little apprehension the efforts of a few Pennsylvania, New York and New England politicians to dove-tail the doctrine of protection into the Republican Platform. We beg these gentlemen to desist, and leave the tariff an open question to be decided upon its merits, not according to the exigencies of parties The attempt to force the Republicans of the West into accord with the iron-masters of Pennsylvania and the mill owners of Massachusetts, under the pressure of party discipline, can have, at this juncture, only a disastrous effect.

* * * * * * *

"Our great manufacturing interests ought to rest upon a firmer basis than that afforded in the promises of politicians or vagaries of the public; and as the question in the dissolution and reorganization of parties in 1854-6 was thrown out by common consent, we protest against the fatal policy which would now revive and drag it into the partisan discussions of the day. But, if the politicians to whom we have referred are determined to put another stumbling block in the way of Republican success, let them not say that they were not warned of the consequences to follow."

The "crazy Republican" politicians at the East will not thank their Illinois brother for that notice, for he is altogether more frank and truthful than complimentary. Even the Pittsburg Dispatch is so disgusted that it speaks its mind thus:

"As always, the politicians of Philadelphia are seeking to make up a money tariff or bank issue to ride as a hobby in the race of 1860, against the well-trained nag of "National Democracy," which never carries any weight nor gives any boot. The Republican party is asked, by the able and indefatigable Henry C. Carey and others, to take a protective tariff as a hopple to all four legs of its two-year old, half-broken filly, carrying all the extra weight of miserable time serving sacrifice of the 'nasty nigger question' besides, for the sole benefit of the nice olfactories of political gentility—and thus enter the race for the Presidency.

"It can't be done—no party could now live long enough to have a decent following to its funeral, with 'protection for protection's sake' as its shibboleth."

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 14

Union Convention—The Union Convention of Republicans and Americans assembled at 2 P. M. to-day There is a large attendance They organized by electing Gov. Reeder President. He made an address, returning his thanks for the honor, and then referred to the peculiar condition of national affairs. He charged the Administration with deserting the cardinal democratic doctrines, and enjoined harmony among the present delegates for the welefare of the Union party On the first ballot for Canal Commissioner, Oswold Thompson received 24 votes John M. Reed 25, J. Pringle Jones 17, John L Pierson 13, and scattering 49. Eight other ballots were then taken without any result, on the last one, Reed received 61 votes, Pierson 45, and Jones 21 Necessary to a choice, 64,—Adjourned till evening.

Evening Session.—On the tenth ballot Mr. Reed was nominated, receiving 65.

NEW YORK, July 11.

The steam-ship Philadelphia, from Havana, the 8th inst. has arrived.

The brig C Perkins, of New York, had been sunk in the harbor. It is known that she had landed a cargo of Africans, and her papers were detained by the U S. Consulate An unsuccessful attempt was made to bribe the acting Consul General with $1,000 to give them up, and she was sunk.

Porter, the Sunday School Defaulter—His Confession—How His Crime Commenced.

A correspondent of the Boston Journal says: Mr. Fred W Porter, the defaulting agent of the American Sunday School Union, whose fall made such a sensation a short time since, has at length made a full and complete confession of the great wrong he has done. He stood very high in the Society and in the Church, and he was almost the last man who would have been suspected to be guilty of so foul a deed. In a letter recently laid before the Board of this Sunday School Union, he has made a complete confession. He began his wrong doing nineteen years ago! The plan was the same that he pursued to the last. His temptation began with the mulberry and silkworm speculation nineteen years ago, and under the garb of religion he has for that long time carried on his dishonest plan. He allows that at the start he knew it was wrong; but he hoped to be able to meet the notes as they matured. But, as he was unable to do so, he was compelled to renew his notes and pay a heavy bonus. Thus for nineteen years he has been treading the thorny path of sin, praised for virtues that he knew he did not possess, and taking of the sacrament, which, according to his own professed faith, was adding damnation to himself with each unworthy reception He defrauded the Society out of over $80,000; but the Philadelphia broker who aided him to the dishonest gain, promptly paid all the notes that his name was on, and the loss was lessened nearly $10,000 Mr. Porter confessed that in nineteen years of fraud, he has used the name of the Society to the large amount $600,000 by renewals and reissues. No wonder he is a sick man—one whom, if the law does not reach, the grave will soon cover up. Nineteen years of fraud and crime, he perpetrated in the name of religion—with despair looking him in the face—exposure waiting for him at the corners of each street.

Horrible Blasphemy.—We take the following from the proceedings of the Rutland (Vt.,) Abolition and Free Love Convention:

"In the discussion of the Slavery question, which followed that on free love, Mr. Curtis made his second appearance. He quoted that resolution which declares that 'any Christ or any God that, by silence or otherwise, authorizes man to enslave man, merits the scorn and contempt of mankind.' Curtis inquired who was the God that people talked about? If he was the all powerful Being he was represented to be, why don't he go down South and put down slavery? He desired to ask this plumply: How is it that you don't do your duty? With what consistency could men worship this God, whom they considered all powerful, when he neglected to exercise his power for the extinction of slavery?"

This Mr. Curtis, who indulged in this horrible blasphemy, was the Black Republican editor of Putnam's Magazine, and is not a principal writer for the Atlantic Monthly, a periodical of the same school in politics. He was crazily enthusiastic in behalf of Frement for President, in 1856, and has been the subject of great praise and laudation in that leading Republican paper, the New York Tribune. Such sentiments as the above do not affect his standing in the Republican ranks, but are considered as ebullitions highly honorable to his head and heart. It is a noteworthy fact that not one of the leaders in these "Free-love," "Woman's Rights," "Anti Sabbath" and "Anti-Christian," "Infidel" gatherings has any sympathy with the Democracy; but, on the contrary, in politics they are all notty Black-Republicans.—Cin Enq.

An Elopement and attempt at Desertion, ending with Matrimony—A physician from the northern part of the State arrived in the city on Saturday last, in company with a young lady, put up at one of our principal hotels, and passed themselves off as man and wife. In the evening, the valorous Doctor endeavored to procure certain articles in the possession of his assumed wife, with the intention of leaving her. She, however suspecting that something was wrong, enlisted officers Hays and Plowman in her behalf, who questioned the M. D as to his intentions. He frankly told them that he intended leaving her, as she was not his wife Yesterday morning, however, by being threatened with the penalties of the law, he changed his mind, and the two repaired to the office of Squire Fisher, who soon made them one. In the afternoon they left on the Peru train in a more legitimate, if not in a happier, relation.

We understand that the gay Lothario is now under bonds, in the sum of $10,000, for the crime of seduction, and attempting to procure an abortion on another of his victims in Noble County.

Officers Hays and Plowman deserve the thanks of the community for the interest they manifested in this unfortunate female. If we had a few more such officers as they are, crime of all descriptions would be diminished in our city—State Sentinel.

☞ We learn from the Memphis Bulletin that, in addition to the plundering by the Secretary of State of some $35,000, and the embezzlement of $123,000 of bonds, that should be in the Controller's office—by nobody knows who—there has been discovered by the Investigating Committee a further plundering of $200,000—by nobody seems to know who—in the shape of coupons taken in the Bank of Tennessee. So far, then, there is found out to have taken place pilfering to the amount of some $360,000.

The Pillage at Lucknow.—We learn that a lady, residing at Chiton, the wife of a gallant Major at present serving in India has received a letter from her husband, which gives a glowing account of the treasures seized by our troops at Lucknow. As an earnest of his own success he has sent her home a necklace of splendid pearls and some emeralds, one of which is believed to be of great value The gems are in a comparatively rough state, the emeralds having been ign

☞ We cannot refrain from calling the attention of our readers to the advertisement in this day's paper of the "Hair Restorative" of Prof. O. J Wood & Co., of St Louis. It will be seen that he has numerous certificates from persons of the highest character, to the merits of his Restorative. From positive knowledge we are able to say that it is in every sense what it professes to be, and we do not hesitate to pronounce it the finest preparation for the head and hair which ess so far been devised by human ingenuity. We have seen it arrest threatened baldness and restore to the head its original profusion of natural and glossy hair, and when the latter has been prematurely tinged with gray, we have seen it like magic restore the colors of youth and health. The distinguished proprietor of this, we might say, miriculous "Restorative," is that it gives to the person who uses it the same head of hair that they wore in youth, thus acting in strict compliance with the rules of the first and greatest of all toilet-makers—Nature, No one who has used it will hesitate to unite with us in this testimony to its peculiar merit,—[Cov. Card to Ladies.

The HACHISH or PERCIE PILLS, for Females The importers of this reliable and safe remedy for female complaints would respectfully call the attention of the ladies of this country to it, feeling assured that the Hachish, or Percie Pills, they will find a safe and never failing remedy for all diseases arising from a deranged and disordered system, such as sick headache, palpitation of the heart, lowness of spirits, Nervous Affections, Leucorrhea, or Whites, &c.

In removing stoppages or obstructions of the menses, from whatever causes, they are infallible The suppression, so common, is speedily relieved and there will be no recurrence, if used according to directions.

CAUTION.

There are times when the Hachish or Percie Pills should no be taken, ample experience having proven that they not only prevent pregnancy, but invariably cause miscarriage if taken during the earlier months; married ladies are therefore cautioned against using them at such times—at any other time they are safe.

One peculiar feature of these Pills is the remarkable effect they have upon the eye, imparting to it strength, clearness and brilliancy, (which is not transiant or injurious, but highly beneficial and lasting,) increasing its power of fascination to an eminent degree; and this fact, in connection with their certainty in removing obstructions, &c, indisputably proves that they contain properties and produce effects never before obtained

Calhoun Street.

IN acknowledging the liberal and extensive patronage bestowed on the

NEW BONNET EMPORIUM,

since its opening, and in furtherance of extending the coming Fall Business of 1858, we shall commence our First Annual SELLING OFF

On Monday, June 21st.

And in order to effect an entire clearing of our magnificent SPRING and SUMMER

BONNETS, MANTILLAS, &c.

We beg to refer our patrons to the following reduction of prices, the whole of which will be sold WITHOUT RESERVE.

As we stated in our opening advertisement, the 7th of April—the whole of our Goods were purchased for CASH, and from the first Houses in the East and Importers; our purchases were in sweeping LARGE LOTS, and our offers were such for the same, which effected, together with our experience in the markets, a saving of fully 50 per cent. below any other house in Indiana. At the same time we were compelled to take a large and extensive assortment, as our hitherto displayed stock abundantly testify. This will be our motto of doing business; and as each season revolves—Spring and Fall—at the advancement of each, we shall hold our in order to sell out for the comming season.

The principal articles of great reduction and beauty now offered for sale, will be all our

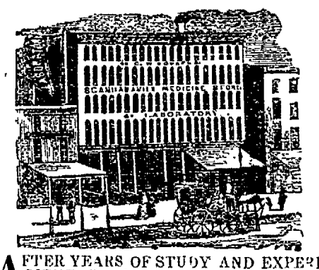
DR. ROBACK'S BLOOD PURIFIER AND BLOOD PILLS.

DISEASE VANQUISHED

BY

Dr. Roback's Scandinavian Remedies.



AFTER YEARS OF STUDY AND EXPERIMENT, Dr Roback, the eminent Swedish Physician, succeeded in producing a medicine from twenty-three different species of mountain herbs of his native land, which acts directly upon the cause of disease in the blood, and by restoring the corrupted fountain of life, to a condition of health and purity, expels disease from the system, wherever it may be located, or whatever may be its character Indigestion, nervous complaints, epileptic and other fits, coughs, consumption in its early stages, sore throat, bronchitis, fever and ague, asthma: low spirits, sexual incapacity feminine weakness, pricking of the skin, symptomatic of paralysis, rheumatism, neuralgia, tumor, cancer, diabetes, lassitude and debility, diarrhea, and all other disorders of the organs of respiration, the liver, the kidneys, the stomach, the nerves of the muscular fiber, are unerringly cured by this preparation. It is to the materies morbi or seeds of disease what an alkali is to an acid: it neutralizes them with absolute certainty, while at the same time it regulates the secretions, removes obstructions from the bowels, creates appetite, renews bodily vigor, and regenerates every animal function. Such is the nature, such are the effects of Dr. Roback's famous Scandinavian Blood Purifier, which if taken in conjunction with the Scandinavian Blood Pills, will not only obliterate the most painful disease, but prevent their recurrence, and lengthen life beyond the ordinary span.

In the SCANDINAVIAN VEGETABLE BLOOD PILLS, Dr Roback, presents the result of twenty years of experience, hard study and experiments as to what a perfect pill should be No one can doubt their superiority after one single trial. Price of the Scandinavian Blood Purifier, $1 per bottle, or $5 per half dozen: Scandinavian Blood Pills, 25 cents per box, or five for $1,

Peru, Miami County, Ind., Aug. 5, 1854.

Dr. C. W. ROBACK: I have received so much benefit from your Scandinavian Blood Purifier and Blood Pills, that I have thought it my duty, and it is no less my inclination also to give you a plain statement of my case. I was for years afflicted with that bane of all, comfort, and efficiency in business, dyspepsia. To recapitulate all the so-called remedies which I have used to rid myself of this disease, would indeed make a melancholy catalogue. I also consulted with the best physicians I could hear of. I was induced to try your remedies through the persuasions of a friend, and after using them a few days was greatly benefitted, and in a short time, less than a month, I was entirely and permanently cured. I was also afflicted with the most violent nervous headache, which I suppose was produced by my disordered stomach, for when my dyspepsia left me, my headache left with it. I now feel better in every respect than I have for ten years.

Very truth yours, JOHN S. DEMUTH

From the Rev. Mr. McMULLEN, Pastor of the Roberts Chapel:

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 5, 1857.

Dr. C. W. ROBACK—Dear Sir:—I have used your Blood Purifier for a nervous affection, from which I have suffered much at times. While it is pleasant to the taste it certainly has a happy effect upon the nerves. Please accept my thanks for your kind regards and acts and believe me, Yours, J. W. T. McMULLEN.

CINCINNATI, Friday, Sept. 4, 1857.

Dr. ROBACK—Dear Sir:—Having been afflicted with neuralgia or rheumatism for the past year and a half, and having seen your medicine, called the Scandinavian Blood Purifier, highly recommended gentlemen with whom I am acquainted, I was induced to try it, but not before I had used various other medicines, After using two bottles, I felt its effect very sensibly, and using two more, I found myself perfectly cured You will allow me, therefore, to congratulate you upon making a discovery in medicine which is proving itself to be a worker of such wonders in the diseases of the human family. GEORGE S. BENNET,

Local Editor Cincinnati Daily Enquirer

INDIANAPOLIS, Wednesday, Sept. 2, 1857.

Dr. C. W. ROBACK—Dear Sir:—Having been troubled for several years with extreme debility and weakness, so much so that I was unable to attend to my ordinary business at times, and having heard of the wonderful cures that your Scandinavian Blood Purifier and Pills were effecting I was induced by a friend to try them.

I have been using the Purifier for the last twelve months, and find the medicine fully equal to its recommendations. So valuable is it as to me that I cannot now dispense with the use of it at my advanced age of life—seventy-seven years.

I cheerfully give this information for the benefit of those similarly affected. MORRIS MORRIS.

The Happiest Man in New York.

Perhaps a neighbor of ours, which the correspondent of the New Orleans Delta "alludes to as follows," imagines that he has kept all this exceeding great joy to himself, that nobody has noticed the peculiar smile in his eye, or if they did that they thought it "all in his eye," and looked upon the event as quite impossible. He has certainly kept exceeding shady; as mysterious as the great Frederick, yet happy as Hudson himself when he sailed up the river that bears his name, and received the first fruit of life long labor:

"The happiest man I know of in New York is a distinguished journalist, an editor in very high standing. For fifteen years he has had only one wish ungratified—sustaining a most difficult position with wonderful tact and talent, admired by his opposers, loved and reverenced by those who know him best, with fame and fortune sufficient for his ambition, and a lady for a wife who possesses all the old fashioned virtues united to modern graces.

"What more could he desire? Alas! he had no child to inherit all these advantages. The stately halls of his dwelling echoed back no light patter of childish footsteps, no ringing laugh or gay prattle, and the angelic presence which accompanies the advent of the newborn babe failed to illuminate the solitude of the lonely mansion! Fifteen years of expectation, and even Hope had retired weeping, when strange whispers are heard, small pieces of lace and muslin are seen disturbing the quiet regularity of the well ordered house, and by and by a little cry, a soft wail, and a tender little head is nestled amid lace and down, and our happy editor wonders what it is that communicates with such a mysterious thrill from that tiny form to his own beating heart. How despicable all the items of news seem to be in the morning paper, except those which relate to births and marriages! What a sudden accumulation of interest in our school system! and what a determination to expose all the omissions and abuses in our educational practice! Verily, what great oaks from little acorns grow."—New York Tribune.

The Republican Record.—The Washington correspondent of the New Albany Ledger well says of the acts of the Republican party:

A pretty record they are making for themselves, truly! They have abandoned their Philadelphia Platform of 'Congressional sovereignty,' and got astride of the Democratic plank of popular sovereignty. They have abandoned their plank of 'No more slave States,' and have voted to admit Kansas into the Union under the Lecompton Constitution, if the people should so determine. The vote to admit Kansas under a pro-slavery constitution, and to reject Minnesota and Oregon under free State constitutions When Minnesota is admitted over their votes they resort to action to succeed in disfranchising her And yet, forsooth, they are the peculiar friends and champions of freedom. Who can repose any further principles, their pledges and promises?—They are utterly demoralized and reckless and no confidence can be placed in them. They are mad, and government more by the blinding fury of their passions, than by the dictate of reasons or the prompting of patriotism.

Jumping the Rope.—Little girls, and sometimes large ones, grow ambitious at time in this exercise, and their movements should be watched, as they may do themselves injuries, from the effects of which they can never recover. We have known women made cripples for life by this exercise, in their juvenile sports of an hour. A serious case of this kind occurred, says the Poughkepsie Eagle, in this city a short time since. A young lady from New York, in a thoughtless hour, resolved to see how many times she could jump the rope without stopping, as others had done, and went on until she was exhausted, and sunk into absolute helpessness. As an immediate consequence, she was seized with an affection of the heart, and for two or three days was in danger of sudden death. At the last accounts she had improved a little, but is still in imminent, and her recovery can only be the result of the utmost care, with the aid of a considerable lapse of time.

A Cute Yankee.—Mr. Webster was called upon by an old gentleman from Nantucket to undertake a cause for him, the argument of which was approaching, and his client asked what would be his terms. "Why," said Mr. W. "I can not argue it under one thousand dollars, for although the case is not a heavy one, it will require me to hang about the court for a week, and I should be as willing to be actually engaged for a week as to lose my time in this way. "Well," said the client, "if I give you a thousand dollars will you argue any other cause in which you might be employed?" "Certainly." said the advocate. The bargain was closed. The old man having an eye to business, applied to several persons in Nantucket who had cases on the issue list, and made his own terms for Mr. Webster's services, and actually received four hundred dollars beyond what he had paid; and besides that, gained his own cause gratis.

A Bold Burglar.—A burglar entered the sleeping room of Capt Buckley, at Mobile, Ala., on Tuesday night of last week, and thence to that of the young ladies, his daughter and niece. He went to the wardrobe and took therefrom a box containing jewelry; thence to the bed where the ladies were sleeping, and putting his hand upon the throat of one of them, took from her finger the rings she was wearing, telling her if she made any noise he would choke her to death, While the thief was at his work the other young lady awoke and screamed, when Capt. Buckley rushed in and burglar rushed out, leaving the box of jewelry in the yard, excepting one diamond ring, worth $60, and the two girls' bonnets.

☞ Mrs Littles, who, with her brother, Ira Stout, was charged with the murder of her own husband, at Rochester, N Y., has just been found guilty of manslaughter in the second degree, and sentenced to the State Prison for seven years. The trial was a protracted and exciting one, and the verdict, in this instance, received with general approbation.

Rough.—The Christian Intelligencer thus speaks of the Tribune: "We can and do rejoice that the Tribune avows itself, at last, in favor of sound morality and pure religion. So soon as the men who compose its editorial corps afford any reasonable hope that they will practice the one or advocate the other, we shall believe that Satan is growing weary in his work and has concluded to discharge all his principal agents."

An Infallible Cure.—Many testify to the efficacy of the following remedy in all cases of flux, dysentery, or cholera morbus: Take two heaping teaspoonful of flour of slippery elm, and one teaspoonful of Henry's calcined magnesia, (or three teaspoonsful of common calcined magnesia,) and mix them in water till they together assume the consistency of 'clabber,' and drink three times a day.

A Team of Pigs.—Governor Cumming testifies to having observed a wagon, on the road from Salt Lake City to Provo, which was drawn by pigs harnessed to the tongue by an ingenious combination of straps and cords In it was seated a fat man, who excited his team even into a trot, by the aid of a blacksnake whip.

☞ Another cluster of immense trees, twenty-five in number have been discovered on the route to the Yosmetic Falls, in California. The largest is thirty-six feet in diameter, but only about one hundred feet of trunk is six feet in diameter, but only about one hundred feet of the trunk is standing, the top having been blown off. The next largest is thirty-three and one half feet in diameter, and probably two hundred and seventy-five feet high.

☞ The Louisville Journal is poking fun at Mons. Belly, (queer name!) the French agent who has been figuring peculiarly in South America:

If M Belly is going to sustain himself at the Isthmus against the United States, he must, of course, be prepared to encounter the United States How about his naval affair?

M. Belly avows his determination to have the United States held to a terrible responsibility. He hasn't a single bowel of compassion in him.

Here are a few more of Prentice's:

Some regard must be had for the fitness of things. Either the ladies' dress must contract, or carriages, church-pews and side-walks must expand.

General Lane is completely dead in Kansas. He was so unfortunate as to kill Jenkins and himself at one shot of the State of Pennsylvania (except the counties of Erie, Alleghaney and Philadelphia) State of Wisconsin, and the northern part of Indiana.

The census shows that there are five hundred thousand more men than women in the United States. So if either sex has a pretext for polygamy it is the female.

THE world wide reputation of these machines renders puffing unnecessary. All who have used Singer's Machines testify to their superior merits over all others. Over 12 000 have been sold and are now in active operation, and not one has proved a failure! By simply changing the needle and thread the same machine will execute perfectly every variety of work, coarse or fine, on cloth or leather. From $200 to $500 a year can be cleared by an individual using this machine more than can be cleared by hand.

Singer has also brought out a new highly ornamented, which for beauty and expedition far surpasses all other Family Machines. These machines use two threads, forming a lock stitch in the centre of the goods sewed, and making a perfect back stitch on both sides of the cloth, which makes a seam much stronger and harder to rip than hand sewing, and does not use more than two thirds as much thread as the chain stitch machine.

FAMILY MACHINE,

These machines are for sale by the undersigned, at his office on North Fifth Street, opposite Good's Hotel, Reading, Pennsylvania:

THE GREATEST

MEDICAL DISCOVERY

OF THE AGE.

Mr. KENNEDY, of Roxbury, has discovered in one of our common Pasture Weeds, a remedy that cures

Every Kind of Humor.

FROM

The worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple

TWO bottles are warranted to cure a nursing sore mouth.

One to three bottles will cure the worst kind of pimples on the face.

Two bottles are warranted to cure the worst canker in the stomach.

Three or five bottles are warranted to cure the worst kind of Erysipelas.

One or two bottles are warranted to cure all humor in the eyes.

Two bottles are warranted to cure running of the ears and blotches among the hair.

Four to six bottles are warranted to cure corrupt and running ulcers

One bottle will cure scaly erruptions of the kin

Two or three bottles are warranted to cure the worst kind of ringworm.

Two or three bottles are warranted to cure the most desperate case of rheumatism.

Three to four bottles are warranted to cure salt rheum.

Five to eight bottles will cure the worst case of scrofula,

One to three bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of dyspepsia. I know from the experience of thousands that it was caused by a canker in the stomach.

One or two bottles are warranted to cure sick headache

One to two bottles are warranted to regulate a costive state of the bowels.

One to two bottles will regulate all derangement of the kidneys.

Four to six bottles have cured the worst cases of dropsy.

One to three bottles has cured the worst case of piles; a relief is always experienced What a mercy to get relief in such excruciating disease!

Since its first discovery, I have from time to time added various other herbs to it; of one of them, Hippocrates, the Father of Medicine, says: "It is an herb of Jupiter, and in the sign Leo

"It openeth obstructions of the liver, gall and spleen; it is an especial friend to the liver, worth all other herbs put together; cooling it when too hot, and warming it when too cold.

"It createth an appetite, cureth all gone and sinking feelings in the pit of the stomach, easeth all pains and stitches in the side.

"It cureth the jaundice by opening the gall, and restoreth the native color of the body.

"It expels all raw, vicious and slimy humors out of the body; it cleanseth all inward ulcers and congealed blood from the kidneys.

"By opening all obstructions of the spleen, it purgeth all burnt choler and melancholy vapors which riseth to the head and brain, causing distressing headache, fearful foreboding of trouble trembling of the heart, fainting and swooning

"The herb boiled in wine is particularly good to revive the drooping spirits of the aged, and whoever has a lingering sickness after a fever, nothing restoreth him to health so quick as drinking the juice of this herb.

"The seeds boiled in water cureth the most offensive breath, and, drank at bedtime, preventeth what is commonly called nightmare, and all melancholy dreams, a disease billious people are liable to

The Father of Medicine says of another herb in this composition that "it is an herb of the Sun, and in the sign of Leo

"The sun is the source of all life, and ruleth the heart; and this herb is the best cordial, the greatest strengthener of the heart of any that grows; it comforteth the heart, cureth all palpitation thereof, taketh away trembling, fainting and smoothering of it; yet it must be take carefully, or severe gripings will ensue, which must be corrected with fennel seed or ginger.

"So much for this herb, between which and the adder there is the utmost antipathy, so much so that the adder will not touch him that has the herb about him."

No change of diet ever necessary—eat the best you can get and enough of it.

DIRECTIONS FOR USE Adults, one table spoonful per day;—Children over ten years, dessert spoonful;—Children from five to eight years, tea spoonful As no directions can be applicable to all constitutions take sufficient to operate on the bowels twice a day.

Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Nausea, Constipation Flatulency, Loss of Appetite arising Billious Complaints arising from a morbid inaction of the Stomach or Bowels producing Cramps Dysentery, Colic, Cholera Morbus, &c. &c.

All of these ills yield like magic into vitalizing influence upon the system, and for a person in advanced years, or recovering from sickness of any kind, nothing can be more conducive to their convalescence than the use of these Bitters as per directions on the bottles.

Scarcely four years have elapsed since the first introduction of "Dr. J Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters" to the public, and such has been the success of this article after its tested efficacy by a discriminating public, that during the last year nearly half a million bottles were sold, with a continuous demand in excess of the supply with all the facilities the proprietors have been able to command to its preparation.

Are you dyspeptic? Then take these Stomach Bitters.

Are you bilious? Try one bottle of these Bitters, and be relieved at once.

Are you annoyed by indigestion or constipation? Remove the cause by the free use of these Bitters.

Have you fever and ague? How many thousands in the West and South have been cured of this constitution-destroying disease by the free use of these Bitters!

All should try this great Antidote. We venture to affirm that, when Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are used, a case of Fever and Ague cannot occur thereafter, no family consulting their own interest can afford to do without it.

A WORD TO THE LADIES.

Intercommunicate to your sex Dr Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters, it is but just to state that as a stimulant to the system, in imparting strength and vigor, preparatory to periodical stages, which are at times attended with much pain and trouble, as a law of no preparation more happily adapted to all debilitating consequent upon this cause, and for cramps in stomach, cholera morbus, and all ailments arising from over indulgence in fruits, vegetables, ice creams, &c., it is certain and always instantaneous a remedy, and no family should be without it.

One wineglassful taken three times each before meals, at half the humidity the patients are in a weak condition, and increased in proportion to their strength, will be found a great tonic agent, which all will appreciate when personally satisfied of the fact, as they will be by giving the Bitters one trial.

☞ CAUTION. ☜

Carefulness should be our study, but more particularly when the health is at stake. Since these Bitters have, from their medical qualities, becomes popular, there have been a great many counterfeits palled up in such Bitters, and often represented to be the same in virtue as Dr. Hostetter's, palmed upon the public. Be careful of these villainous compounds! Our Bitters are put up in square quart bottles, and covered with the patent metallic cap, stamped "Hostetter's Stomach Bitters," and Dr J Hostetter, blown on the glass. All others are imitation.

"BORN TO GOOD LUCK."

BY COL. WALTER B. DUNLAP.

Harry Clare was a goodnatured, generous kindly disposed fellow, who loved cheer an l easy life, and whose faults were of that open hearted character which seldom meet with severe censure. When Harry was not Harry—that is, before his parents had given him a name—an old woman who claimed to be his god-mother, pronounced these mystic words over the future Harry: The child is born to Good Luck! So deep an influence did this fair, south have upon the minds of the simple parents, that they were led to regard Master Harry—when they had thus named him—as a wonder. A thousand little things occurred during his boyhood to confirm them in their convictions. He got wet but did'nt get cold. He fell from trees and high beams, and did'nt get hurt. And at school he accomplished marvels.

The result of all this was, that Harry grew up with the same faith. He believed most firmly that he was born under the benign influence of a lucky planet, and that the world could'nt do with him. When he had done going to school, he learned the blacksmith's trade; and when he was able to work for himself he took a wife—took Susan Martin—gentle, pretty loving faithful Susan. Her parents objected to the match, because, they said, Harry had not energy enough to carry him through the world, with the care of a family upon his shoulders. But Susan loved him and she became his wife.

'Did'nt I know that I was born to good luck,' cried the happy Harry, a few days after he was married. 'Haven't I got the best wife in the town?'

'The isn't a better one in the country, replied the young man to whom he had spoken. 'And I hope you'll appreciate her. Susan Martin might have had her pick from a dozen of the best youths of the village, and there's not one of them that would have made her a good husband. See to it, Harry, that she never has occasion to regret the step she has taken.'

'Of course she never can regret it, said the exultant husband. 'We'll sail along with fair breezes at all time. I tell you I was born to good luck, and my fortunate star can fail me.'

His friend shook his head and walked away, and Harry went to his shop, where he found half a dozen customers waiting for him and some of them growling because he had not been there before.

Five years passed away, and Harry had three three children. One evening he entered his house, and found Susan with a cloud upon her brow. He asked he what was the matter.

'Shall I tell you the truth Harry?' she said trying to smile.

'Of course you must. So out with it.'

'Then it is simply this: We are going behindhand.'

'Behindhand?' repeated the husband. 'What do you mean.

'Why—your business is not attended to as it should be. You are forgetting your own interests.'

'Pshaw! Don't you worry, Susan. Just wait until you see me make a haul. I made twenty dollars this day on a horse trade.'

'And how much did you make by your trade yesterday?'

'Why—returned Harry, hanging his head; I lost something there. But I'll make it up. I was born to good luck, and I know that fortune can't desert me. Don't worry, Susan.'

'But Harry, said the wife, in a mild impressive tone, you don't realize how much you are losing. If you would trust more to your wit and judgment, instead of to your luck, as you call it, you might do better, even at trading horses, and such stuff; but believe me, you would do better to stick to your shop, and do the work you would be sure to have there. Only see how much work goes out of town, because you are not found at your forge when wanted.'

'Let them carry their work out of town, if they want to, said Harry, rather petulantly. I shan't worry. Just you wait until I strike a streak of luck.'

'Believe me Harry, the wits said, as she arose from her chair with her babe in her arms, if ever you strike that streak of luck as you are so often pleased to call it, you will strike it upon your anvil.'

Susan went to put her child into its little bed, and Harry said Pooh! and then took up a paper and began to read.

Harry know that he was neglecting his regular business, but then he hoped for something better. So firmly had the old faith in good luck seated in his mind, that it had grown to be a part of his very existance. He felt sure that some day he would make a fortune, when people least expected it. He had heard of vast fortunes being made by mere strokes of luck, and why should not he, who was born to that end fare as well? The result was, that his mind became destracted from his shop, and his customers were often forced to find another smith to do their work.

Harry traded watches, traded horses, dipped into petty speculations, and, in short seized upon everything which presented itself, with a lucky side to it. At length a streak came. He drew a hundred dollars in a lottery. He went home with exultation in his countenance.

'It's commenced, he cried, as he chinked the gold before his wife.

'And you've drawn that in a lottery? returned Susan, with a dubious look.'

'Yes—a cool hundred.'

'Will it pay your debts, Harry?'

'Eh! Debts?'

'Will it make up for the time you have lost?'

'But this is only the commencement, Susan. I've only just struck the streak. Wait awhile. My luck is coming. I tell you I was born to it and it can't fail me.'

'Ah Harry, said the wife, with a sad shake of the head. I fear this will prove the worst luck you have had yet. It is only the ignis fatus that will lead you deeper into the mire than you have yet gone. Why not drop at such schemes at once and go into your shop and stick to your business. It would be better for you in the end—it would be better for you now.'

What—leave my fortune just as I have found it? exclaimed Harry, vehemently. No, no. I had a dream—twice repeated—and that makes three times you know—that I should have good luck in these kind of ventures, and I'm going to follow 'em up. Just you wait my, dear?'

And Susan did wait. She waited until she suffered more than she would tell. She waited until the bloom was gone from her cheek, and the brightness from her eye. From morn till night she plied her needle without ceasing. Her children must have food and raiment, and she must furnish them. She plead with her husband, but he would not see. She pointed out to him how he was losing both business and friends, but he would only look to the future, whence his good luck was sure to come. So Susan was forced to look to the future also, and she prayed that it might bring relief.

For a whole year Harry Clare dabbled in lottery tickets, and at the end of that time he had lost nearly every penny he had been able to raise. He grew desperate, and resolved that he would make a heavy strike somewhere. 'Strike upon your anvil,' whispered a voice; but he would not listen to it. 'I was born to good luck, and it must come, sooner or later,' he said to himself; and then he tried to study up some new speculation. He was sitting all alone in his little office—a pen like apartment in the back of his forge, where he kept his books—when two men entered his shop.

'This was too bad! said one of them, whose name was Atherton, an extensive builder, as he saw that there was no fire upon the forge, and no workman in the shop. We must have a new smith in this place. Here have I over five hundred dollars worth of work that must be done the present season. There's all the forging for Grant's new mill, and the iron work for the upper bridge.'

'There's one thing certain, replied the other, who was a contractor, and had some interest in the builder's work, we shan't get anything done here.'

'That's so! added Atherton. And with this the two men left the shop.'

When Harry went home to supper he found his wife quite sick. She was pale and weak, and her head ached. In the evening he went for the doctor, and when the man of medicine came he said that Susan was down with a severe fever.

'She must have got cold,' suggested Harry.

'No she has overtaked herself, returned the doctor, with a shrug of the shoulders. Both mind and body seemed to have been worked too much.'

For the first time Harry Clare felt a real operating pang at his heart. He knew why Susan must have worked so hard, though he had not thought of it with any seriousness before.

But Harry's thoughts were not allowed to rest idle for the want of picking. One evening, as he was wending his way homeward from the doctor's, where he had been to get some medicine, he noticed that a party of young men were walking in advance of him. H knew by the sound of their voices, that they were friends of his, and he would have advanced and joined them had he not chanced to hear his own name pronounced. Curiosity to know what they had to say led him to approach them without being observed, and he heard their conversation distinctly.

'It's too bad!' said one in a feeling tone 'Harry Clare might do well if he only would. Only look at that wife of his! This town never afforded a better one. See how the poor thing has scrubbed and s'ared to support herself and family, while Harry has been waiting for that luck of his.'

'That's so,' rejoined another, who was the tailor in the village. 'She has done more work for me within two years past than any other two women in the place; and within the past six months she has worked beyond all account. About all that she and her children have had for food and clothing must have been earned by her needle.'

'It's a shame,' resumed the first speaker. 'Only a day or two after Harry was married I told him he had got as good a wife as there was in the country, and I hoped he'd appreciate her. He said of course he should. But just see how it's come out.—I got married about the same time, and went into business when he did, and my trade isn't anywhere near so good as his,—yet I have bought a house and paid for it, and have something laid up beside. Why—he would only stuck to his business he might have been one of the most prosperous men in the town. But he thinks he was born to some good luck that'll come to him, one of these days, like a fairy's gift.'

'Well,' remarked a third person of the party, 'he did have a stroke of good luck when he got Susan Martin for a wife; but he's never had one since.'

'Ooh-es,' added the previous speaker, 'we call the possession of her a continuous stroke of luck! But I'm afraid he won't keep her long. Alas, for poor Susan! Harry don't know what a jewel he is wearing away. He don't realize that when he got her for a wife he got a good piece of good fortune that might have lasted during the longest lifetime, if he would only have taken his share of the trust and responsibility.'

At this point Harry had to turn off from the main street, and in a few moments he was left to his own reflections. As soon as he was alone he stopped and gazed down upon the ground, and then he stood for some minutes.

'I think I'm waking up,' he finally said. And then he walked quickly towards his home.

He found Susan much better, and the medicine which he had bought helped speedily to survive her. On the following day Harry went to see Mr. Atherton. He found that gentleman just entering his chaise to ride away.

'I understand that you have some work, in my line, which you want done,' said Harry.

'Well—what of it?' returned the builder.

'I should like to do it for you, sir.'

'You, Mr. Clare?'

'Yes, sir.'

'But I must have it done in time.'

'If I take the job, sir, I'll do it as I promise, said Harry, promptly.

'But this is something new,' replied Atherton, with surprise. 'I thought you were born to some other kind of luck.'

'Perhaps I was,' answered Harry readily; 'but of that kind of luck, I've had enough; and now I'm going to hammer out a luck for myself. Will you let me commence upon your work?'

'Yes, sir?' cried the builder leaping from his chaise. 'Here, John,' he added, turning to his head man, 'you may put the horse up. I don't want him. And now,' he resumed, to Harry, 'just come into the house, and we'll talk the matter over. I was ready to start for Marlowe to get my work done there; so, you see, you didn't come a minute too soon.'

The result of the conference was that Harry was to do all the iron work Atherton might want, and he was assured that there would be eight hundred dollars' worth of it before the year was out.

One morning the people who lived near the blacksmith's shop were startled by the clang of the heavy hammer. It was but little after sunrise, and yet the blows upon the old anvil rang out clear and loud, and they saw black smoke rolling up from two of the chimneys. They went and peeped in at the door, and there they saw Harry Clare, with his stout arm bared to the shoulder, wielding his hammer with strange energy. A new man was at work at the second forge, and his two apprentices had something else to do than to lounge about and cobble old horse shoes.

Susan Clare sat in the great rocking chair by the kitchen stove, for her old mother, who had come to nurse her, said that she was well enough for that. She gazed up at the clock, and wondered where her husband was. It was past seven, and supper had been ready for some time. At length he came; but how differently he looked from what had been his wont some years past.—His face was flushed; his eye was bright; his bosom swelled out with a hearty breath; and his step was heavy and emphatic, just as though it had a purpose. And then upon his shirt there was a grimy dirt, such as used to in three years agone, and when his gaze rested upon the little by countenance glowed as though he had a grateful appetite.

'What, Susan,' he cried, as he saw his wife sitting there, 'are you well enough for this?' And as he spoke he moved to her side and kissed her.

'I am getting better very fast,' she replied.

'And you must get well as soon as you can, Susie; for I can't have you sick any more.'

'She must get well so as to finish up those for the tailor,' interrupted the old lady, with a spice of bitterness in her tone. Susan cast a reproachful, beseeching glance upon her mother, but the word had been spoken.

'No, no,' said Harry, with a smile, 'we'll have no more of that. I took those vests last evening and carried them all back to the tailor, and told him that my wife could work for him no more.'

'B-h—Harry——'

'Stop,' interrupted Harry, as his wife commenced to speak. 'There's no more need of it. I've struck my streak of luck at last. I knew I was born to good luck, and that I should find it sooner or later—I've found it.'

'Found it?' repeated, Susan, trembling with hope and apprehension both.

'Yes—I've found it in my wife, and in my shop—I've been hammering it out all day. People have been staring with wonder to see Harry Clare ringing away upon his anvil as rough a rate; and they may stare as much as they please. At all events, I can give them this assurance: If the sight is worth seeing, they shall see it, henceforth, at any time, while Harry has his health and the sun's up! And now I am hungry Susie. I'll eat supper, and then I'll tell you all about it.'

And after supper was over, Harry sat down, and wound one arm about his wife's neck, and then told her all he had to tell; and when he had done he asked her if she could forgive him for the past. She rested her head upon his bosom, and wept, and forgave, and blessed him.

And, day after day, the old clang sounded forth from the smith's shop. Great pieces of iron assumed strange forms beneath the persistent strokes of Harry's hammer, and, as he rose them, one after another, upon the rough floor, he muttered to himself.—There's another piece of good luck! I'll forge me out a fortune yet.'

Susan was not long in getting well after her husband had made her so happy; and when she was plump and rosy once more, and children could run about the house without fear of tumbling up the carefully arranged packages that used to come from the tailor's, Harry took her upon his knee and kissed her, and wound his arms about her.

'Susie,' he said, with fond enthusiasm, 'didn't I always tell you that I was born to good luck?'

'Only, so too, I missed it for a while.'

'But you've found it now,' whispered Susan.

'Yes,' cried Harry, 'I've found it in a noble, loving wife, and in the firm, fixed purpose to walk right in the path of duty. The crown of good luck is upon my brow, and, next to yourself, my beloved, its two brightest jewels—the two jewels without which the crown becomes but a mere load of dross—are Industry and Perseverance!'

Bulwer Confronted by his Wife at the Hertfordshire Election.

[From the London Morning Star.]

A most painful scene occurred at Hertford on Tuesday, the 18th. Toward the close of the proceedings of the Hertfordshire election just after Sir Edward had concluded his address with a fervent tribute of admiration to the womanly beauty exhibited in the long line of open carriages, chaises, and vans drawn up in front of the hustings, there was an unwonted stir in the crowd, which parted to admit of the passage of a hired brougham from one of the town inns. The carriage having stopped, two ladies alighted one of them an extremely handsome woman of about forty five years of age, with fresh complexion, and with eyes of dazzling beauty. This lady, who was evidently laboring under excitement which exercised all her powers to control, advanced as nearly as she could through the crowd towards the hustings, and announced herself as the wife of the Right Hon Sir E. B. Lytton, stating that she had come, according to a promise made by her, to confront her husband, and to expose the wrongs which she said he had inflicted upon her, and which she had described in her works and in a pamphlet published by her.

The appearance of the lady was not unexpected, as her coming had been announced in bills and placards; but owing to a deception which had been practiced upon her by some persons in the town, who had introduced themselves to her, she was detained in the town while the election was proceeding in the vicinity. Those in the secret anticipated that she would not discover the mistake until the proceedings were over, and that her design would be thus frustrated. It was nearly so. Recognised as soon as observed, her voice was nearly drowned by the shouts of Sir Edward's supporters, but Sir Edward's eye caught hers, and his face paled. He looked like a man suddenly attacked by paralysis. Those near him say he trembled exceedingly. For a few moments he retained his position in front of the hustings, but turned his back on the unwelcome visitor. Then he suddenly disappeared below the hustings platform, while his wife cried "Coward," and he, having hastily signed the usual declaration, escaped into the residence of the gentleman on whose grounds the election took place. Lady Lytton continued to address the audience assembled for more than a quarter of an hour, repeating her statements in her pamphlet, and asserting her intention to confront her husband on every possible occasion until she compelled him to redress her wrongs. Her lady-ship subsequently made an application to the mayor for the use of the Town Hall, for the purpose of making a public statement; but this being refused her, she left the town early in the afternoon. Lady Lytton arrived in Hertford at 3 o'clock on the morning of the election, having posted from Taunton, where she resides. It is needless to say that the event described has caused the greatest possible excitement in Hertfordshire.

Extravagance and Fraud.—Inasmuch as the opposition politicians and presses have but little else to talk about in the coming canvass, they harp continually of alleged extravagance in the administration of the government. But they forget to tell their readers that very much of the expenditures of the present administration are caused by paying off a heavy lien which the extravagance and unprovidence of a Black Republican and Know Nothing Congress left upon the public revenue. The opposition editors and politicians forget to inform the public about the expenses occured in the Mormon difficulties, in the erection of Custom Houses, the enlargement of the Navy, the enlargement of the Capitol, &c. which necessarily add to the public expence. It is the old cry of "stop thief," which the opposition are so much in the habit of raising, to avoid scrutiny into their own acts.

But notwithstanding the subterfuge raised by the Black Republicans, the people know who are the public plunders and treasury thieves. Both at home and abroad, the people of Indiana know who are guilty of extravagance and fraud. And every honest Democrat is not only willing, but anxious that the records will be searched. Economy and strict accountability are Democratic virtues almost wholly unknown to the opposition.—State Sentinel.

Horrid Tragedy.—A most appalling tragedy was enacted in Columbus county, in this State, just after daylight on the morning of yesterday, the 20th inst., resulting in the death of four persons.

The account, as it has reached us, that at the time already stated, Joshua Rouse killed his father, his wife, and two of his own small children, cutting off their heads with an axe. His eldest son ran over to the residence of Isaac H. Powell, Esq. and told Mr P. what had happened; who got W. G. Smith, Esq., and they went on towards Rouse's. On their way they met Rouse in pursuit of his son with an axe. He said he wanted to kill him. On meeting Messrs. Powell and Smith, he dropped the axe and held out his hand, when they arrested him. He is now in jail. Rouse had been for some time in the Insane Asylum, but was taken out by his guardian some three or four weeks ago, since which time he has been permitted to run at large. There is every reason to believe that he was insane at the time when he committed the terrible deed for which he has been arrested. The occurence took place some five miles from Whiteville, in the vicinity of White Marsh. The little boy who escaped stated, we believe, that Rouse killed the old man out in the yard with a stick and then chopped off his head. He took the old man's knife, and with that killed his own wife, and cut off her head. The children were killed with the axe and chopped off their heads. At Whiteville, when being carried to jail, Rouse said he killed his wife because she had tried to cut his throat two years ago, and his father because he had whipped him very severely when a boy. He had been in the insane asylum for 18 months preceding the affair, with the exception of the last three or four weeks. We hardly see how or why he was set loose.—Wilmington, N. C. Journal.

Great German Festival.—A great German festival was held yesterday at Jones's woods. In the morning a procession, consisting of musical clubs, military companies, invited guests, and others generally, formed at the Metropolitan rooms, 160 Hester street, and marched through several of the principal streets to the foot of Grand street, East river, where they took a steamboat for the pleasure grounds. Thousands went up by the cars and on foot. With the music, liger beer, dancing, and lively games and pranks of all sorts, our German population had a very merry time of it, in spite of the broding weather. The proceeds of the occasion, for which the tickets were twenty five cents, will be donated to charitable purposes.—Journal of Commerce, June 29th.

Tenth District Democratic Congressional Convention.

The democratic convention for the Tenth Congressional District will be held at Kendallville, on FRIDAY, August 13th.

According to the ratio adopted of allowing one Delegate for every 100 democratic votes polled at the last preceding general election, and one for every fraction exceeding 50 votes, the several counties will be entitled to the following delegates:

Allen	32	Lagrange	6
DeKalb	12	Steuben	6
Elkhart	17	Whitley	9
Kosciusco	11	Noble	12
Total Delegates			103

Necessary to a choice 53.

Allen County Convention.

The Democrats of Allen County are requested to meet in their Townships, at the usual place of holding elections, on Saturday, 24th July 1858, at 2 o'clock, p.m., and appoint delegates to attend a COUNTY CONVENTION, to be held at the Court House in the City of Fort Wayne,

On Saturday, July 31st, 1858,

By order of the County Committee.
F. P. RANDALL, Chairm.

June 25th, 1858.

Fort Wayne Sentinel.

SATURDAY, JULY 17, 1858.

Democrats of Allen County! remember that next Saturday at 2 o'clock P. M. is the time fixed for holding township meetings to appoint delegates to attend the County Convention to be held on the following Saturday. We urge every democrat to attend these meetings, and see that the best men are selected as delegates, so that the feelings of the party in the county may be fairly represented in selecting our candidates for office. Let no outside influences be brought to bear in selecting the delegates, but let them be such men as will fairly and honestly reflect the feelings and wishes of those they represent in the convention. Do this, and success is certain. Remember, all depends on the township meetings! If the democrats do their duty in the township there can be no complaint of unfairness, trickery, or management in the convention. Our candidates will be the choice of the people; they will be entitled to and doubtless will receive the full vote of the party.

Free School.—The examination of the scholars in our free schools is now progressing, and it is truly gratifying to witness their prodeney in their different studies. The examination commenced in the primary classes, daily ascending towards the higher classes, and will be concluded on Friday evening next, by a public exhibition with the large hall of the new school house in the Western Addition.

We again venture to remind our citizens that the public funds are now exhausted, and that the schools must be closed at the end, of the present term, not to be reopened until next April, unless some means be adopted to carry them on at private expense We have now got one of the best schools in the State, with an excellent and efficient corps of teachers, and it seems to us that it ought to be kept up. If we allow it to go down now, much of the good already effected will be lost; and the scholars, if allowed to run in the streets for the next eight months, will forget more than they could recover in the few months the public funds will sustain the schools. The schools would be destroyed, teachers scattered, dispersed, and engaged elsewhere; and when their services should be again required they could not be had nor could others equally as competent be obtained.

This is a serious matter, worthy the consideration of every parent and friend of education in the city. A contribution from each parent much less than it would cost to educate his children in private schools, would suffice to keep our schools open throughout the year. We submit it to them whether it would not be true economy to contribute the amount; and to the friends of popular education, and those who have taken a just pride in the noble public school of which our city can boast, we also submit the question, whether it is not worth a little effort and a little sacrifice on their part to secure to our citizens the benefits and blessings of our free school. It is a momentous question, and one that must be answered promptly. Next Friday evening our schools take a vacation—or suspend operations until next year. Which shall it be?

☞ The Republican of this place reiterates its absurd charges against the democratic party, and very modestly calls on us to prove that they are not true. This thing of proving a negative, is not in accordance with common usage, and we therefore beg to decline accommodating our Republican brother so far, and call on him to prove his own charges—if he can. We do not wish to be too hard on his readers, and compel them, this hot weather, to read so lengthy an article as he would write in attempting to prove all the wonderful charges he has made We therefore suggest that he first take up and prove the first charge—that the democratic party has been a bank party and an anti-bank party. This will be enough for one week; he can then take up the others in their turn; we think it will be better to give it in broken dose, rather than administer the whole portion at once.

We are much afraid our friend Bailey has not sufficiently reflected on the awful fate of Ananias and Sapphira, and has rashly adopted the republican maxim that "a lie well stuck to is as good as the truth." We certainly had expected better things of him.

Free School Pic-Nic and Railroad Excursion

Arrangements are making to get up a grand Pic-nic and Railroad Excursion for the benefit of the Free Schools in this city. It is to take place next Tuesday week, July 27th. A special train of cars will be provided, to start from the depot at 8 o'clock a. m, and convey the scholars and company to Warsaw; the pic-nic will be held in the beautiful grove immediately adjoining the town and on the margin of the lake. It is expected the schools and citizens of Warsaw will meet their Fort Wayne friends and guests and participate in the proceedings. We will give further particulars in our next.

This will doubtless be a very pleasant affair, as well to the school children as to others who accompany them: and as it is in aid of the good cause of popular education, we hope all parents and our citizens generally will turn out on the occasion.

Tickets will be for sale in the early part of next week, and it is desired that those intending to participate will procure them early, in order that the committee may judge what number of cars to prepare for the occasion The price of tickets will be only 50 cents; the scholars will probably be charged 10 or 15 cents each. This is certainly cheap enough to induce the most economical pleasure-seeker to indulge in a day's recreation on this occasion.

Independent Men.—We are getting to have a great many "independent" men now a days, and it is becoming quite common for those very patriotic and disinterested men, the moment their party stops feeding with pap, to declare themselves independent, forsake their party, and run for office "on their own hook." Judge Hovey is a fair specimen of this kind of independence. He has been but a few years in the Democratic party, and has been kept in office nearly the whole of the time. Finding himself at length out of office, he became a bolting Douglasite, and now is running "independent" in opposition to the Democratic nominee for Congress in the first district We hope he may be shamefully beaten, and be laid on the shelf for evermore.

Another of these worthies is John G. Davies, of the 7th District. He chose to quarrel with the administration on the Indian Lecompton issue, and has been acting with its enemies ever since. He has already been in Congress six years, and now because his constituents choose to dispense with his further services, and wishing to be represented by a Democrat, have nominated Mr. Secrest, he too comes out "independent." Mr. Secrest is an Anti-Lecompton man, so there is no pretext on that score for Davies' independence; but then Mr. Secrest in opposing Lecompton did not feel it necessary to desert and betray his party, and this we believe is the secret of Davies' opposition. Such apostates will assuredly meet their reward; and as each one throws off the mask and reveals his treason, we thank God that we are rid of a traitor. All we ask of them is, that they will never seek to come back to us again.

Treaty with Nicaragua.—Private advices from Nicaragua say, the Cass-Yrissarri Treaty has been again ratified in a modified form by the Assembly, and signed by President Martinez.

Peace with the Mormons!—The Peace Commissioners in a dispatch to the Government state that they have settled the difficulties existing between the government and Utah. The dispatch substantially confirms the previously received telegraphic accounts The question now is, can the Mormons be trusted, or is the treaty only a ruse to gain time? We have but little faith in the Mormon leaders, and have doubts that nothing but the presence of a sufficient armed force will ensure peace and the due execution of the laws in Utah.

Sunday School Pic Nic.—The Wayne Street Methodist Sabbath School had a Pic Nic on Tuesday last, in a beautiful grove on the bank of Eagle Lake, near Warsaw, to which place they were taken in a special train of cars engaged for the occasion. A large company of our citizens accompanied the party, probably not less than 500, and were met there by an equally large company from Warsaw The weather was cool and delightful, and the whole affair went off in the most pleasant manner. A correspondent has furnished us a more detailed account of the truly agreeable pic nic, which will be found in another column.

We have had rather more rain this week than our farmers desire. It is bringing the corn and potatoes along finely, but as the wheat is nearly all standing in shock in the fields, there is some danger that it may be injured, unless we have more settled weather.

Inquest.—On Monday last the body of Philip Like, an old man upwards of 80 years of age, was found lying in the woods, near the St. Joe road, about a mile north east of this city. From the position of the body he appears to have tripped over a small twig, and falling forward struck his forehead on a stump, causing instant death. He did not appear to have struggled or moved in the least, as his feet were still entangled in the brush which had caused his fall. He had been missing since Friday evening, but as he was in the habit of staying for a few days at a time with each of his several connections, no uneasiness was felt at his absence, as each supposed him to be visiting some other. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

TRUE AS GOSPEL.—The editor of the Penn Republican has had the good fortune to step at the Rockhill House, in this city, and in his last paper thus records his impression of this splendid hotel:

"The Fort Wayneites are very proud of the Rockhill House, and well they may be, it is a credit to the city. There are few if any Hotels in Indiana that equal it The apartments are spacious comfortable, and in good order,—the landlord attentive and obliging to guests."

Huntington Democrat.—We have received the first number of a neatly printed, ably edited, thoroughly Democratic paper, under the above title, recently commenced in Huntington, by A. C. Thompson, with William Norton, as assistant editor. It promises fair to do good service in the Democratic cause, and is therefore entitled to a cordial support from the Democracy of Huntington County.

Newspaper Change.—Messrs EIGLER & BEATH have purchased the Goshen Democrat from R. Lowry, the late proprietor. We have not the pleasure of a personal acquaintance with the new editors, but judging from the tone of the paper since they assumed the control of its columns, we arrive at the conclusion that they are good reliable democrats who will maintain the high character the Democrat has borne, and make it a useful and valuable organ of the party in Old Elkhart. We wish them abundant success.

Tenth Judicial Circuit.—The Goshen Democrat copies the article from our last Sentinel speaking of the feeling here in favor of W. W. CARSON for the vacant judgeship—and adds:—

"There is a stronger feeling here in favor of the nomination of the Hon. E. M. CHAMBERLAIN for the Circuit Judgeship. His character as a Democrat, and his qualifications as a jurist are unexceptionable at our hands. It is but justly due to him that he receive the unanimous nomination of the Democracy at the approaching Convention at Kendallville."

☞ The Republican has had a great deal to say about the election of the Indiana Senators, and would appear to desire to have it set aside as illegal and void. What has the editor to hope if such a course should be followed? The next Legislature will undoubtedly be Democratic so there could be no possibility of his being elected in the place of Mr. Bright, even if the election should be set aside. The less he says about the course of the factious Republicans in the last Legislature the better it will be for his party.

In this week's paper he copies an article on the subject from the Cincinnati Gazette—for the purpose we presume, of showing that other Republican papers can pervert the facts in this case as well as himself. The State Sentinel ably refutes all the Gazette has said, and conclusively shows the ignorance of its venerable editor on the entire subject. We will publish the Sentinel's article next week for the express gratification of our friend Bailey.

For the Sentinel.

Sabbath School Pic-Nic & Railroad Ride.

The Wayne Street Methodist Sabbath School of this place, led off in a Railroad excursion, on Tuesday last, the 13th inst., which proved to be one of the pleasantest entertainments of the season to the citizens of Warsaw and Fort Wayne. Nothing very extensive was expected or prepared for, and the train of cars chartered by the school for the occasion was found to be not more than half large enough to contain the crowd that concluded to have a holiday. Additional cars were attached to the train, and at about 8 A. M., more than five hundred citizens of Fort Wayne, were en route on the Chicago and Pittsburgh Road for somewhere toward the setting sun. After a ride of about two hours, the whistle screamed, the breaks went down, and the cars stopped and unloaded near a beautiful lake, and a beautiful grove, a mile and a half east of Warsaw. The train then run into Warsaw and brought out the Methodist Sabbath School and pretty much all the rest of the city.

The appended programme will give some idea of the fare served up for the entertainment of the two cities, as they were thus met on the common greeting ground. The speeches were short and somewhat pithy. The singing of the Warsaw Sabbath School was par excellent. The Brass Bands of Fort Wayne and Warsaw seconded to enjoy a pleasant rivalry, and discoursed excellent music. The Pic-nic dinner was eaten in social groups, a way of eating at Pic-nics that is worthy of all commendation.

At an early hour in the afternoon all were returned safely to their homes, well pleased with themselves and the expedition. The Wayne St. Sabbath School will remember the efficient service rendered by several young gentlemen not belonging to that school, in preparing for the excursion. It should not be forgotten that Mr. S. M. Cummings, master machinist at Fort Wayne, served as engineer, and Mr. A. J. Hupper, master of transportation, served as conductor; both accompanying the train so as to secure the greatest possible safety to the passengers.

At the close of the exercises at the Grove, the following resolutions—offered by W.W. Williams, Esq.—were read and adopted:

Resolved, That in promoting the interests of the Sabbath School we advance the interests of humanity all over the world, and hasten the dawn of that coming day when peace on earth and good will to men shall universally prevail.

Resolved, That all interests—civil, political, and religious—are safe when committed to the heart and hands of the Sabbath School.

Resolved, That we tender our thanks to Dr. Bass, for the use of his grove and grounds—to the Fort Wayne and Warsaw Bands for their excellent music—and to the officers of the Pitts Ft. Wayne and Chicago Railroad, for the use of their cars on this occasion.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the Fort Wayne and Warsaw papers.

ODE OF THE PASSENGERS.

Telegraphic Expedition.

Nothing definite as yet has reached us from the seaboard as to the movements of the Telegraphic fleet. A despatch from St John's, Newfoundland, July 11, says:

"The steam tug, Blue Jacket, from Liverpool, in 28 days, reports having seen on the 24, in latitude 51 north, longitude 32 west, a large and small steamer, both British, making signals, but having no code could not understand them. The same evening saw another large steamer bearing down upon the others, but could not make out whether she was American or English. The Blue Jacket's log reports heavier weather on the passage than is usual at this season of the year.

QUEBEC, July 13.—The ship Windsor Forest has arrived here, and reports that she was in company with the Niagara and Agamemnon for three days. She parted from them on the 20th of June, in heavy weather. Both had light steam on. The weather from the 23d 24th was fine, but from then to the 29th heavy south-west winds prevailed.

How They Lie.

The fiscal year has now expired, and within a fortnight we shall know the receipts of the quarter which expired on the 30th of June But all the other data are at hand, by which the operations of the year may be measured. And here they are, roughly, for public edification:

Balance in the Treasury 1st July, 1857, according to report of Secretary	$17,710,114 27
Receipts 1st quarter from Customs, Lands and Miscellaneous	20,929,819 81
Receipts 2d quarter do	7,092,065 00
Receipts 3d quarter do	8,02,1 18 35
Receipts 4th quarter, (just expired, estimated)	8,000,000 00
Treasury-notes under act 22d Dec., 1857	20,000,000 00
Loan under act June	20,000,030 00
Total	$101,785,017 43

It thus appears there have been received by and granted to the Administration within the fiscal year nearly $101,000,000!—Washington Correspondent of the Gazette.

That figures can be made to lie abominably is conclusively proved by the above statement, which is intended to convey the impression that the Government for the year ending the 1st July, 1858, were $101,000,000, although it is not so unequivocally stated.

From the balance in the Treasury of $17,000,000 last July, deduct in round numbers $4,000,000, which was paid on the national debt: also deduct over $11,000,000 to pay deficiencies in debts for 1857, contracted by the last Congress, which was Republican in that branch which has the especial charge of the revenue service, and which it had failed to supply means to pay. We must also deduct the $20,000,000 loan, not a dollar of which went to defray the expenses of the year ending July 1, 1858. It is all for the coming year. Of the Treasury notes, say ten millions are now on hand, not over ten millions having been applied on last years expenditures. These various deductions amount to $45,000,000, leaving the actual expenditures of Mr BUCHANAN'S Administration only $56,000,000 for the year 1858, being several millions of dollars less than the expenses of the last year of General PIERCE'S Administration. Every dollar of this fifty-six millions was authorized and declared right by the Republican House of Representatives which elected BANKS Speaker.—Cin. Enq.

From the Utah Army

ST. LOUIS, July 12.

Dispatches from Leavenworth of the 9th inst., by the steamer War Eagle, to Booneville, say the letters received by the St Joseph mail from the army contains a few additional items of interest. An officer writing from Johnston's camp on the Bear River June 16, says the army would resume its march the next day. General John ston had received an express from the Peace Commissioners, informing him that the army would be received peaceably by the Mormons. The General did not, however, feel any increased confidence by the peaceful attitude of the Saints, and the army was kept in readiness to repel any treacherous demonstrations. A proclamation had been issued to the people by General Johnston, in which he tells them that the army is already now to afford them assistance and protection as it was to oppose them when in rebellion against the Government. It was thought this guarantee would cause many of the Mormons to evade the despotism of Brigham Young, who has sedulously inculated the belief that the army was particularly hostile to them. The troops were in a fine condition, and glad to be released from inaction. The garrison at Fort Bridger consisted of Captain Hendrickson's and Lieutenant Smith's companies, of the Sixth Infantry, and Captain Stewart's troops, of the First Cavalry. Colonel Hoffman has ninety mules, and but one cavalry horse in his march across the plains. The St. Joseph Gazette of the 8th, in noticing the arrival of the Utah mail, says: "General Harney was encamped just below Fort Laramie Colonel May's command was met thirty-five miles this side of Fort Laramie. A large body of infantry were at Ash Hollow. Major Emory was encamped on the Big Blue, and another command (name not given) was at Fort Kearney. The provision trains were progressing finely. Sioux Indians were scattered all along the route, but were friendly. A heavy snow fell at Fort Bridger on June 10." A dispatch from St Joseph of the 7th, by the United States Express Company, to Booneville, says: "The Salt Lake mail of June 19th has arrived. General Johnston and his command was met at Echo Cannon, fifty miles from the city The army was in excellent health and spirits. Brigham Young and his followers are still at Provo He has been to Salt Lake City to confer with Governor Cumming and the Commissioners, but the result of the conference is not known. It was the established opinion that the Mormons would offer no resistance. Colonel Hoffman was left in command of Fort Bridger Captain Marcy accompanied General Johnston. Everything in regard to the fut ure movements of the Mormons is veiled in mystery. Rumors were still rife, however that they meditate an occupancy of Sonora. Conjectures are numerous in the valley that the United States Government intends to purchase the Mormon improvements. The South Platte was very high, and the roads were good. The mail party neither met nor saw any Indians on the plains, but they met a great many traders at different points on the road. The mail was out nineteen days from Salt Lake City to St. Joseph. The same dispatch says Sinclair, the recently appointed Judge of Utah, would leave St. Joseph on the 10th, accompanied by Mr. Dodge, the District Attorney for Utah Our Leavenworth correspondent, under date of the 8th, says: "An Express arrived at Fort Leavenworth this morning from Fort Kearney. The express passed the Utah mail for St. Joseph. It is said that Governor Cumming and the Peace Commissioners had concluded a treaty of peace with the Mormons. General Harney was in camp, nine miles by road Fort Kearney, on the 3d. The express, with orders for him to halt, must have overtaken him on the 6th. The United States steamer Mink leaves the fort to morrow, with Captain Lovell's and Lieutenant Lee's command of Second Infantry, for Fort Randall. She also takes recruits for the same regiment Judge Cato has resigned his position as District Judge."

ST. LOUIS, July 13.

From Utah.—The Utah correspondent of the Republican, under date of June 18th says: The conditions agreed upon as the Conference between Governor Cumming, the Peace Commissioners and the heads of the Mormon Church, are "Troops shall enter the City without opposition. The Civil Officers shall be permitted to perform the duties of their offices without interruption, and an unconditional obedience to the laws of the land shall be given. On the other hand past offences shall be forgotten as stated in the President's proclamation." All the houses in the City have been closed against both Civil Officers and strangers, except one, which is occupied by the Governor family. Everybody else were obliged to sleep in their wagons or on the ground.

WASHINGTON, July 15.

The War Department has received official despatches stating that Col. Steptoe, with a command of 5 commissioned officers and 152 rank and file, was attacked and defeated by a large body of Indians, on the 17th of May, about 80 miles north of Snake river—The battle lasted from 7 in the morning till a short time before sunset; when the amunition being nearly exhausted, and the musquettoes being nearly useless against the enemy, a retreat and forced march to the crossing of Snake river became necessary. Four officers and four privates were killed, and eleven wounded.

Arrival of the Star of the West.

NEW YORK, July 14.

The Steamship Star of the West, arrived here at 10 o'clock this morning, with two weeks later news from California. She brings $1,100,000 in Treasure, and 250 passengers. She left Aspinwall on the 5th inst.

The California papers are rather barren of news.

The Fraser river gold excitement was increasing in consequence of glowing accounts furnished by the miners who have returned from that region. San Francisco was crowded with people on their way to the Fraser mines, and throughout the State parties were making preparations for the same purpose The effect of the excitement was beginning to be felt in the State. Labor was scarce and wages had gone up 20 or 30 per cent. It is estimated that 5000 people had left for the diggings. Six steamers had been put upon the route besides ten sailing vessels.

Several American newspapers are projected in the British possessions, and one the "North American" had already been announced at Victoria

The steamer Cortes had taken fifteen hundred passengers from that city, and every berth in sailing vessels were taken for days in advance.

The Hudson Bay Company has stationed armed vessels on Frazers River to prevent emigrants from carrying goods into the interior to sell An American vessel with merchandize, it was reported, had entered the river in spite of the blockade, the British commander not daring to fire upon her.

The defeat of Col. Steptoe is fully confirmed. His troops fell into an ambuscade when they were attacked by a large number of Indians and were forced to retreat with the loss of 7 killed and 15 wounded. The troops were not sufficiently supplied with ammunition. A great Indian was expected, and Gen. Clark had despatched troops from San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Much excitement exists in San Luis, Abisto county, and also in Carson Valley, in consequence of numerous robberies and assassinations by organized banditti. In the former place the Vigilance Committee had been formed, and four of the culprits had already been hung. In Carson Valley a murderer named Snow had been seized and hung by the people. Before his death, he made a confession which led to the capture of seven of confederates, who at last accounts were under trial for their lives before a body of citizens.

The Fairs in the northern counties were again commencing carnivals The A. U. S. Jack Fair was fixed upon in Del. Norte County. A Mr Baker was shot and the train captured. Massacres had been committed on the river, and outrages in various other places had occurred. A general rising of the Indians was indicated.

The ship Caroline arrived at San Francisco She picked up a Chinese junk, containing twelve men, that had been floating about helpless for 6 months.

The Cass Herran Treaty was still under discussion in the Grenadian Legislature, and a committee had been appointed to endeavor to make some compromise.

Copies of M. Belly's contract with the Central American Governments had reached Panama from Europe, causing the greatest astonishment and surprise there.

Senator Douglas' Reception at Chicago

CHICAGO, July 9th, 11 P. M.

Senator Douglas reached here this evening in great display. At one o'clock a committee of four hundred, from Chicago and adjoining counties, proceeded to Michigan City, and there met Judge Douglas and escorted him to this City. The arrival of the train was greeted with firing of cannon and cheers of the people. A procession was formed and conducted him to the Tremont House where he was welcomed in a brief speech on behalf of the citizens, by Charles Walker, President of the Board of Trade

Mr. Douglas after returning thanks for the magnificent reception, reviewed the action of the last Congress on the Kansas Bill He extolled the Crittenden bill as honest, and the very best proposition for practical illustration of popular sovereignty. He claimed the struggle with Lecomptonism, was for the integrity of principle, and that struggle was triumphant. Lecompton was certainly abandoned by its friends and has been defeated forever. He had opposed the English Bill although it practically sent back the constitution to be accepted or repealed by the people because the manner as well as the form of that submission was at variance with every just principle of popular government It was submitted to the people, with a threat if they did not accept a slave constitution, and thirty-five thousand inhabitants, they should not come in as a free State until they had nearly three thousand. He could never countenance such discrimination between free and slave States. The first energies of his mind had been several years devoted to the great principle of the rights of the people of a Territory to frame their own fundamental laws, and he intended to devote all his future life to the same doctrine. He contended the compromise measures of 1850, were founded on that principle, and carried out in the Kansas Nebraska Bill. He affirmed the Cincinnati Platform and reaffirmed President Buchanan's Inaugural, and regretted to say how a powerful party in this country had determined not to acquiesce in this line of policy. The Republican Convention, recently assembled at Springfield, nominated Mr. Lincoln for his successor in the Senate, repudiated the doctrine of popular sovereignty, and proclaimed that Congress, and not the people of the Territories, should establish the domestic institutions of Territories. Mr Lincoln indorsed not only this doctrine, but proclaimed a line of policy which is incompatible with the existance of the Union. He declared the Union divided into equal number of free and slave States, cannot endure. Mr. Douglas showed the dangerous tendency of this doctrine that it invited and proclaimed war and extermination in one section of the country against the other. He regarded it as subversive to the fundamental principles upon which our complex system of Government rested, and denied that uniformity in local policy and domestic institutions in the different states is either desirable or possible; on the contrary the political system is rested upon the the theory of practice, hence the dissimilarities in local policy and domestic institutions in the different States. Our forefathers clearly perceived that the domestic institutions which suit New Hampshire are totally unfit for a rice plantation in Carolina hence the adopted constitution provides that each state shall be sovereign and supreme over its own limits, on the supposition they would be diversified. Repeated uniformity is neither desirable or possible. If possible, how to be obtained? There is but one process through which it might be accomplished, that would be to abolish State Legislatures, and convert the government into one consolidated empire, investing Congress with full power to adopt police regulations, regulate internal police, adopt domestic institutions for all the States. Let this be done, there would be uniformity. Then the States will be all free or all slave; then negroes will vote everywhere or nowhere; then our glorious Confederacy (thirty-two sovereign States) will be merged into one consolidated empire, and the uniformity of despotism will reign triumphant throughout the land.

Mr. Douglas proceeded to answer Mr. Lincoln's crusade against the Supreme Court, on account of the Dred Scott decision. He could sanction no crusade against the highest judicial tribunal in the land. He was prepared to yield obedience to law as expounded by the Court. He didn't agree with Mr. Lincoln that it was a great wrong to deprive negroes of the rights of citizenship; he didn't believe they were intended to be citizens of our Government.

Lincoln was present and heard Douglas. fireworks were discharging in several parts of the town. The number of persons in attendance was variously estimated at from fifteen to twenty thousand.

Arrival of the Fulton.

NEW YORK, July 13.

The Steamship Fulton, arrived this morning, at 5 o'clock. She reports having passed several icebergs off Cape Race, on Friday. She spoke on Saturday the Steamer Persia, bound hence. Brings 150 passengers and but little news additional telegraph dispatches from Cape Race.

The great fire reported in London docks, was on the south quay, next to the hermitage basin The merchandize destroyed was principally Sugar, Spirits, Saltpetre. The ships were hauled out safely.

Despatches from China, received in London state that the Emperor's Special Minister had refused to enter Canton, and turned back.

The Austrian forthcoming Budget will show a deficiency of forty million florins.

The dates from India are to May, 25th, one week later.

Calpee was captured on the 23d The enemy made no resistance.

The news in general from India was considered highly satisfactory in London.

Arrival of the Canada.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., July 13.

The steamship Canada from Liverpool, with dates to the 3d inst., three days later than previously received at this point, passed off Cape Race yesterday, and having been intercepted by the news yacht of the Associated Press the following summary of her news was obtained:

The steamer Indian from Quebec arrived out on the 30th ult., and the North Star and Kangaroo, from New York, on the 1st. There was considerable anxiety in relation to the Atlantic cable when the Atlantic sailed. A private meeting of Illinois shareholders had been held in London, But the proceedings had not been made public The House of Lords has rejected the bill to abolish church rates by a large majority. The bill allowing the House of Commons to admit Jews as members of that body, has been passed, on the second reading, in the House of Lords, by forty-six majority. Parliament will be prorogued before the end of July. The intelligence from France is not important A ministry had resigned, and a new Cabinet had been formed, headed by General O'Donnell, as Minister of Foreign Affairs and of War.

The Protective Tariff Issue.

The attempt of the "Republicans" of New York, Pennsylvania and New England to incorporate the protective tariff doctrine into the creed of the party is receiving some pretty strong rebukes from the "Republicans" of the West. Hear the Chicago Tribune, the leading organ of the Republicans in Illinois. It says:

"A Bone to a Fat Crony Politicians.—We have observed with some little apprehension the efforts of a few Pennsylvania, New York and New England politicians to foist into the declaration of principles into the Republican Platform. We beg these gentlemen to desist, and leave the tariff an open question to be decided upon its merits, not according to the exigencies of parties The attempt to force the Republicans of the West into accord with the iron-masters of Pennsylvania and the mill owners of Massachusetts under the pressure of party discipline, can have, at this juncture, only a disastrous effect

* * * * *

"Our great manufacturing interests ought to rest upon a firmer basis than that afforded in the promises of politicians or vagaries of the public; and as the question in the dissolution and reorganization of parties in 1854-6 was thrown out by common consent, we protest against the fatal policy which would now revive and drag it into the partisan discussions of the day. But, if the politicians to whom we have referred are determined to put another stumbling block in the way of Republican success, let them not say that they were not warned of the consequences to follow."

The "Tariff Republican" politicians at the East will not thank their Illinois brother for that notice, for he is altogether more frank and truthful than complimentary. Even the Pittsburg Dispatch is so degraded that it speaks its mind thus:

"As always, the politicians of Philadelphia are seeking to make up a money tariff or bank issues by rule as a hobby in the race of 1860, against the well-balanced nag of "National Democracy," which never carries any weight nor gives any lose. The Republican party is asked, by the able and indefatigable Henry C. Carey and others, to take a protective tariff as a hopeless all fore legs of its two-year old, half-broken filly, carrying all the extra weight of miserable, time-serving sacrifice of the 'nasty nigger question' to ride, for the sole benefit of the mercenaries of political gentility and thus enter the race for the Presidency.

"It can't be done—no party could now live long enough to have a decent following to its funeral, with 'protection for protection's sake' as its shibboleth."

HARRISBURG Pa., July 14

Union Convention.—The Union Convention of Republicans and Americans assembled at 2 P. M. to-day. There is a large attendance. They organized by electing Gov. Reader President He made an address, returning his thanks for the honor, and then referred to the peculiar condition of national affairs. He charged the Administration with deserting the cardinal democratic doctrines, and enjoined harmony among the present delegates for the welefare of the Union party On the first ballot for Canal Commissioner, Oswald Thompson received 21 votes John M. Reed 25, J. Pringle Jones 17, John L. Pierson 13, and scattering 10. Eight other ballots were then taken without any result, on the last one, Reed received 61 votes, Pierson 45, and Jones 21 Necessary to a choice, 61.—Adjourned till evening.

Evening Session.—On the tenth ballot Mr. Reed was nominated, receiving 65

NEW YORK, July 14.

The steamship Philadelphia, from Havana, the 8th inst., has arrived.

The brig C Perkins of New York, had been sunk in the harbor. It is known that she had landed a cargo of Africans, and her papers were detained by the U S. Consulate An unsuccessful attempt was made to bribe the acting Consul General with $1,000 to give them up and she was sunk.

Porter, the Sunday School Defaulter—His Confession—How His Crime Commenced.

A correspondent of the Boston Journal says:

Mr. Fred W Porter, the defaulting agent of the American Sunday School Union, whose fall made such a sensation a short time since, has at length made a full and complete confession of the great wrong he has done. He stood very high in the Society and in the Church, and his was almost the last man who would have been suspected to be guilty of so foul a deed. In a letter recently laid before the Board of this Sunday School Union, he has made a complete confession. He began his wrong doing nineteen years ago! The plan was the same that he pursued to the last. His temptation began with the machinery and silkworm speculation nineteen years ago, and under the garb of religion he has for that long time carried on his dishonest plan. He allows that at the start he knew it was wrong; but he hoped to be able to meet the notes as they matured. But, as he was unable to do so, he was compelled to renew his notes and pay a heavy bonus. Thus for nineteen years he has been treading the thorny path of sin, praised for virtues that he knew he did not possess, and taking of the sacrament, which, according to his own professed faith, was adding damnation to himself with each unworthy reception He defrauded the Society out of over $80,000; lost the Philadelphia broker who aided him to the dishonest gain, promptly paid all the notes that his name was on, and the loss was lessened nearly $40,000 Mr. Porter confessed that in nineteen years of fraud, he has used the name of the Society to the large amount $600,000 by renewals and reissues. No wonder he is a sick man—one whom, if the law does not reach, the grave will soon cover up. Nineteen years of fraud and crime, he perpetrated in the name of religion—with despair looking him in the face —exposure waiting for him at the corners of each street.

Horrible Blasphemy.—We take the following from the proceedings of the Richmond (Va.) Abolition and Free Love Convention:

"In the discussion of the Slavery question, which followed that on free love, Mr. Curtis made his second appearance. He quoted that resolution which declares that 'any Christ or any God that, by silence or otherwise, authorizes man to enslave man, merits the scorn and contempt of mankind.' Curtis inquired who was the God that people talked about? If he was the all powerful Being he was represented to be, why don't he go down South and put down slavery? He desired to ask this plumply: How is it that you don't do your duty? With what consistency could men worship this God, whom they considered all powerful, when he neglected to exercise his power for the extinction of slavery?"

This Mr. Curtis, who indulged in this horrible blasphemy, was the Black Republican editor of Putnam's Magazine, and is not a principal writer for the Atlantic Monthly, a periodical of the same school in politics. He was greatly enthusiastic in behalf of Fremont for President, in 1856, and has been the subject of great praise and laudation in that leading Republican paper, the New York Tribune. Such sentiments as the above do not affect his standing in the Republican ranks, but are considered as ebullitions highly honorable to his head and heart. It is a noteworthy fact that not one of the leaders in these "Free-love," "Woman's Rights," "Anti Sabbath" and "Anti-Christian," "infidel" gatherings has any sympathy with the Democracy; but, on the contrary, in politics they are all politely Black-Republicans.—Cin Enq.

An Elopement and attempt at Desertion, ending with Matrimony.—A physician from the northern part of the State arrived in the city on Saturday last, in company with a young lady, put up at one of our principal hotels, and passed themselves off as man and wife. In the evening, the valorous Doctor endeavored to procure certain articles in the possession of his assumed wife, with the intention of leaving her. She, however suspecting that something was wrong, enlisted officers Hays and Plowman in her behalf, who proclaimed the M. D. as to his intentions. He frankly told them that he intended leaving her, as she was not his wife Yesterday morning, however, by being threatened with the penalties of the law, he changed his mind, and the two repaired to the office of Squire Fisher, who soon made them one. In the afternoon they left on the Penn train in a more legitimate, if not in a happier, relation.

We understand that the gay Lothario is now under bonds, in the sum of $10,000, for the crime of seduction, and attempting to procure an abortion on another of his victims in Noble County.

Officers Hays and Plowman deserve the thanks of the community for the interest they manifested in this unfortunate female. If we had a few more such officers as they are, crime of all descriptions would be diminished in our city.—St. Joseph.

☞ We learn from the Memphis Bulletin that, in addition to the plundering by the Secretary of State of some 350,000 acres of the swamp land, $123,000 of bonds, that should be in the Controller's office—by nobody knows who—there has been discovered by the Investigating Committee a further plundering of $200,000—by nobody seems to know who—in the shape of coupons taken in the Bank of Tennessee. So far, then, there is found out to have taken place pilfering to the amount of some $360,000.

The Pilings of Ludgate.—We learn that a lady, residing at Clifton, the wife of a gallant Major at present serving in India has received a letter from her husband, which gives a glowing account of the treasures seized by our troops at Lucknow. As an earnest of his own success he has sent her home a necklace of splendid pearls and some emeralds, one of which is believed to be of great value The gems are in a comparatively rough state, the emeralds having been ignorantly and we had almost said, mercilessly drilled through The latter

☞ We cannot refrain from calling the attention of our readers to the advertisement in this day's paper of the "Hair Restorative" of Prof. O. J. Wood & Co., of St. Louis. It will be seen that he has numerous certificates from persons of the highest character, to the merits of his Restorative. From positive knowledge we are able to say that it is in every sense what it professes to be, and we do not hesitate to pronounce it the finest preparation for the head and hair which ever so far been devised by human ingenuity. We have seen it arrest threatened baldness and restore to the head its original profusion of natural and glossy hair, and when the latter has been prematurely tinged with gray, we have seen it like magic restore the colors of youth and health. The disinguished proprietor of this, we might say, miraculous "R storative," is that it gives to the person who uses it the same head of hair that they were in youth, thus acting in strict compliance with the rules of the first and greatest of all toilet-makers—Nature. No one who has used it will hesitate to unite with us in this matter in its peculiar merit.—[Cor. Ital.] People's Friend.

HOSTETTER.—The surprising effects of Hostetter's Vegetable Stomach Bitters in removing bile, forcing an appetite, imparting health and tone to the system and dissipating dyspeptic symptoms, is truly wonderful. Every nervous, debilitated, weak and emaciated person, male or female, should try it at once. One wine-glassful taken three times each day, before meals, or if the patient should be a lady or child in a debilitated condition, half the quantity will do until sufficient strength is restored, which will be realized in a very short time, and convince the patient of the truth of the above named happy result, which have gained for these Bitters such an invitation reputation everywhere. For sale by druggists and dealers.

Card to Ladies.

The HACHISH or PERCIE PILLS, for Females The importers of this reliable and safe remedy for female complaints would respectfully call the attention of the ladies of this country to it, feeling assured that the Hachish, or Percie Pills, they will find a safe and never failing remedy for all diseases arising from a deranged and disordered system, such as sick headache, palpitation of the heart, lowness of spirits, Nervous Affections, Leucorrhea, or Whites, &c.

In removing stoppages or obstructions of the menses, from whatever causes, they are infallible. The suppression, no common, is speedily relieved and there will be no recurrence, if used according to directions.

CAUTION.

There are times when the Hachish or Percie Pills should not be taken, owing to circumstances having arisen that they not only produce pregnancy, but invariably cause miscarriage, if taken in the first or second months. Married ladies should therefore be cautious against using them at such a time—at any other time they are safe.

One peculiar feature of these Pills is the remarkable effect they have upon the eye, imparting to it strength, clearness and brilliancy, (which is not transient or injurious, but highly beneficial and lasting,) increasing it in its power of incisination to an eminent degree; and this fact, in connection with their certainly in removing obstructions, &c., indis putably proves that they contain properties not produce effects never before obtained.

Full directions accompany each box and package.

Price, $1 26 per box; half box 75 cts.—Sold by all respectable druggists in the United States and Canadas.

Mail Packages, put up in closely sealed double envelopes, have the appearance of an ordinary letter, price $1 00, cold only by our general agents W. R. Ames & Co. Cleveland, O., who will send them post paid on receipt of price, and to whom all orders must be addressed.

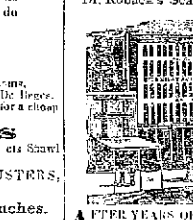
DR. ROBACK'S

BLOOD PURIFIER AND BLOOD PILLS.

DISEASE VANQUISHED

BY

Dr. Roback's Scandinavian Remedies.



AFTER YEARS OF STUDY AND EXPERIMENT, Dr. Roback, the eminent Swedish Physician, succeeded in combining a medicine from two up-three different species of mountain herbs of his native land, which acts directly upon the cause of disease in the blood, and by restoring the coagulated fountain of life, to a condition of health and purity, expels disease from the system, wherever it may be located, or whatever may be its character. Indigestion; nervous complaints, colds, and other affections, coughs, consumption in its early stage, sore throat, bronchitis, fever and ague, asthmar low spirits, sexual incapacity feminine weakness, pricking of the skin, hypochondriac of paralysis, rheumatism, neuralgia, tumor, cancer, diabetes, dissipation and debility, dizziness, and all other disorders of the organs of respiration, the liver, the kidneys, the stomach, the nerves of the muscular fiber, are unerringly cured by this preparation. It is to the materia medica or seat of disease what an alkali is to an acid. It neutralizes them with absolute certainty, while at the same time it regulates the secretions, removes obstructions from the bowels, creates appetite, renews bodily vigor, and regenerates every animal function. Such is the nature, such are the effects of Dr. Roback's famous Scandinavian Blood Purifier. And in conjunction with it, the Scandinavian Blood Pills, will not only obliterate the most painful disease, but prevent their recurrence, and lengthen life beyond the ordinary span.

To the SCANDINAVIAN VEGETABLE BLOOD PILLS, Dr. Roback, from the results of twenty years of experience, hard study and experiments as to what a perfect pill should be. No one can doubt their superiority after one single trial. Price of the Scandinavian Blood Purifier, $1 per bottle, or $5 per half dozen. Scandinavian Blood Pills, 25 cents per box, or five for $1.

Penn, Miami County, Ind. Aug. 5, 1851.

Dr. C. W. ROBACK: I have received so much benefit from your Scandinavian Blood Purifier and Blood Pills, that I have thought it my duty and it is no less my inclination, to inform you of the same. For many years I was afflicted with that bane of all comfort, and evil power in existence, dyspepsia. To recapitulate all the terrible miseries which I have endured as the result of this disease, would indeed make a melancholy catalogue. I also consulted with the best physicians I could hear of. I was induced during your residence through the pestilence in Logansport, and after seeing others in my family successfully and permanently cured, I was also afflicted with the same disease, which I suppose I had contracted while exposed to the malaria of the place. I commenced using your remedies, and in a short time I was entirely and permanently cured. I was also afflicted with the most painful rheumatism, which I suppose was occasioned by one of the cold and sudden changes of temperature so common to this climate. I now feel better in every respect than I have for years.

JOHN S. DEMUTH.

From the Rev. Mr. McMahan, Pastor of the Roberts Chapel.

Logansport, Oct. 2, 1857.

Dr. C. W. ROBACK—Dear Sir: I have used your Blood Purifier for a considerable affliction from which I have suffered for a number of years, and am happy to say that it has entirely removed the disease. Please accept my thanks for your kind regards and acts and believe me yours, W. T. McMAHAN.

Logansport, Indiana, Sept. 15th, 1857.

Dr. ROBACK: Dear Sir—I have used your remedies in obedience to the call of your agent and I shall not hesitate to recommend them to all who are afflicted with Dyspepsia. Your Scandinavian Blood Purifier and Blood Pills have done me more good than any medicine I have ever used. I am satisfied from my own experience that they are the best medicine for Dyspepsia in the world. Your agent will also, doubtless, call upon you in a few days, when you can make such arrangements with him as you may think proper. Yours truly, LEVI HOGE, Jr.

Local Editor Logansport Daily Telegraph.

Logansport, Wednesday, Sept. 2, 1857.

Dr. C. W. ROBACK: Dear Sir—I have used your Blood Purifier for several years, and am satisfied that it is the best medicine for dyspepsia that I have ever used. I have also used your Blood Pills with excellent effect. I can recommend them to all who are afflicted with dyspepsia, and having been afflicted with that disease myself, I speak from experience. Your Blood Purifier and Pills were effecting cures in my family before I came to this place.

I have been selling the Purifier since the first of January, and have sold more than any other medicine in my store. I have also used your Blood Purifier and Pills in my family, and have found them to be all that you recommend them to be. Yours truly,

MORRIS MORRIS.

PETITION FOR DIVORCE.

William B Sterling vs. Matilda Sterling.

IT appearing to the satisfaction of the Clerk of the Allen Circuit Court, by

The Happiest Man in New York.

Perhaps a neighbor of ours, which the correspondent of the New Orleans Delta "alludes to as follows," imagines that he has kept all this exceeding great joy to himself, that nobody has noticed the peculiar smile in his eye, or if they did that they thought it "all in his eye," and looked upon the event as quite impossible. He has certainly kept exceeding shady; as mysterious as the great Frederick, yet happy as Hudson himself when he sailed up the river that bears his name, and received the first fruit of life long labors.

The happiest man I know of in New York is a distinguished journalist, an editor in very high standing. For fifteen years he has had only one wish unsatisfied—sustaining a most difficult position with wonderful tact and talent, admired by his opponents, loved and reverenced by those who know him best, with fame and fortune sufficient for his ambition, and a lady for a wife who possesses all the old fashioned virtues united to modern graces.

What more could he desire? Alas! he had no child to inherit all those advantages. The stately halls of his dwelling echoed back no light patter of childish footsteps, no ringing laugh or gay prattle, and the angelic presence which accompanies the advent of the newborn babe failed to illuminate the solitude of the lonely mansion! Fifteen years of expectation, and even hope had retired weeping, when strange whispers are heard, small pieces of lace and muslin are seen disturbing the quiet regularity of the well ordered house, and by and by a little cry is soft well, and a tender little head is nestled amid love and down, and our happy editor wonders what it is that communicates with such a mysterious thrill from that tiny form to his own beating heart. How despicable all the items of news seem to be in the morning paper, except those which relate to births and marriages! What a sudden accumulation of interest in our school system! and what a determination to oppose all the omissions and abuses in our educational practice! Verily, what great oaks from little acorns grow.—New York Tribune.

The Republican Record.—The Washington correspondent of the New Albany Ledger well says of the acts of the Republican party:

A pretty record they are making for themselves, truly! They have abandoned their Philadelphia Platform of Congressional sovereignty, and got astride of the Democratic plank of popular sovereignty. They have abandoned their plank of 'No more slave States,' and have voted to admit Kansas into the Union under the Lecompton Constitution, if the people should so determine. The vote to admit Kansas under a pro-slavery constitution, and to reject Minnesota and Oregon under free State constitutions. When Minnesota is admitted over their votes they resort to action to succeed in disfranchising her. And yet, forsooth, they are the peculiar friends and champions of freedom! Who can repose any further principles, their pledges and promises!—They are utterly demoralized and reckless and no confidence can be placed in them. They are mad, and government more by the blinding fury of their passions, than by the dictate of reasons or the prompting of patriotism.

Jumping the Rope.—Little girls, and sometimes large ones, grow ambitious at time in this exercise, and their movements should be watched, as they may do themselves injuries, from the effects of which they can never recover. We have known women made cripples for life by this exercise, in their juvenile sports of an hour. A serious case of this kind occurred, says the Poughkeepsie Eagle, in this city a short time since. A young lady from New York, in a thoughtless hour, resolved to see how many times she could jump the rope without stopping, as others had done, and went on until she was exhausted, and sank into absolute helplessness. As an immediate consequence, she was seized with an affection of the heart, and for two or three days was in danger of sudden death. At the last accounts she had improved a little, but is still in imminent, and her recovery can only be the result of the utmost care, with the aid of a considerable large of time.

A Cute Yankee.—Mr. Webster was called upon by an old gentleman from Nantucket to undertake a cause for him, the argument of which was approaching, and his client asked what would be his terms. "Why," said Mr. W. "I can not argue it under one thousand dollars. Er although the case is not a heavy one, it will require me to hang about the court for a week, and I should be as willing to be actually engaged for a week as to lose my time in this way. "Well!" said the client, "if I give you a thousand dollars will you argue any other cause in which you might be employed?" "Certainly," said the advocate. The bargain was closed. The old man having an eye to business, applied to several persons in Nantucket who had cases on the issue list, and made his own terms for Mr. Webster's services, and acctually received four hundred dollars beyond what he had paid; and besides that, gained his own cause gratis.

A Bold Burglar.—A burglar entered the sleeping room of Capt. Buckley, at Mobile, Ala., on Tuesday night of last week, and thence to that of the young ladies, his daughter and niece. He went to the wardrobe and took therefrom a box containing jewelry; thence to the bed where the ladies were sleeping, and putting his hand upon the throat of one of them, took from her finger the rings she was wearing, telling her if she made any noise he would choke her to death. While the thief was at his work the other young lady awoke and screamed, when Capt. Buckley rushed in and burglar rushed out, leaving the box of jewelry in the yard, excepting one diamond ring, worth $60, and the two girls' bonnets.

☞ Mrs Littles, who, with her brother, Ira Stout, was charged with the murder of her own husband, at Rochester, N. Y., has just been found guilty of manslaughter in the second degree, and sentenced to the State Prison for seven years. The trial was a protracted and exciting one, and the verdict, in this instance, received with general approbation.

Rough.—The Christian Intelligencer thus speaks of the Tribune: "We can and do rejoice that the Tribune avows itself, at last, in favor of sound morality and pure religion. So soon as the men who compose its editorial corps afford any reasonable hope that they will practice the one or advocate the other, we shall believe that Satan is growing weary in his work and has concluded to discharge all his principal agents."

An Infallible Cure.—Many testify to the efficacy of the following remedy in all cases of Pain, Dysentery, or cholera morbus: Take two heaping teaspoonful of flour of slippery elm, and one teaspoonful of Henry's calcined magnesia, or three teaspoonsful of common calcined magnesia; and mix them in water till they together assume the consistency of 'clabber,' and drink three times a day.

A Team of Pigs.—Governor Cumming testifies to having observed a wagon, on the road from Salt Lake City to Provo, which was drawn by pigs harnessed to the tongue by an ingenious combination of straps and cords. In it was seated a fat man, who excited his team oven into a trot by the aid of a blacksnake whip!

☞ Another cluster of immense trees, twenty-two in number, have been discovered on the route to the Yosemite Falls, in California. The largest is thirty-six feet in diameter, but only about one hundred feet of trunk is six feet in diameter, but only about one hundred feet of the trunk is standing, the top having been blown off. The next in size is thirty-three and one half feet in diameter, and probably two hundred and seventy-five feet high.

☞ The Louisville Journal is poking fun at Mr. Polly (poor name!) the French agent who has been figuring peculiarly in South America. It says Polly is going to sustain himself at Washington against the United States, he must, of course, be prepared to encounter the United States. How about his naval affair?

Mr. Polly avows his determination to have the United States held to a terrible responsibility. He treats it with a single bowel of compassion in him.

For some few more of Prentice's:

Shakespeare must be had for the fitness of things. Style of the ladies' dress must contract, and so must church-pews and side-walks must narrow!

Gov. Reed Dana is completely dead in Kansas. He was unfortunate as to kill Jenkins and Brown.

The census shows that there are five hundred thousand more women than men in the United States. So if either sex has a pretext for polygamy it is the female.

DRY GOODS

that you can find in Northern Indiana.

SILKS

of all the latest styles; Fancy Collars; besides a large stock of BLACK SILKS, that we are enabled to sell at lower prices than you will find in this market. Also of every grade, style and price for the million

WHITE GOODS,

A full and complete assortment.

Large stock of EMBROIDERIES of all the new patterns. A good assortment of

HOSIERY & GLOVES,

And a large assortment of all other Goods usually kept in a Dry Goods Store, too numerous to mention.

All the above Goods were bought under unusually favorable circumstances, just after the recent crash in the Wall street Banks and the consequent depreciation in the money market, and the looked for failure of the Importers and Jobbing Houses obliged them to sell to cash customers, we availed ourselves of these great bargains, and willing to give our customers the benefit of them, we would say to all the Ladies and the balance of mankind, for we have the goods and are bound to sell them. Bring along your cash.

B. RANDALL,

PROPRIETOR OF

I. M. SINGER'S

of the State of Pennsylvania (except the counties of Erie, Alleghany and Philadelphia) State of Wisconsin, and the northern part of Indiana.

THE world wide reputation of these machines renders puffing unnecessary. All who have used Singer's Machines testify to their superior merits over all others. Over 12,000 have been sold and are now in active operation, and not one has proved a failure! By simply changing the needle and thread the same machine will execute perfectly every variety of work, rough or fine, on cloth or leather, from $2500 to $3500 a year can be clear by an individual using this machine more than can be cleared by hand.

Singer has also brought out a new

FAMILY MACHINE,

highly ornamented, which for beauty and expedition far surpasses all other Family Machines. These machines use two threads, forming a lock stitch in the centre of the goods sewed, and making a perfect back stitch on both sides of the cloth, which makes a seam much stronger and handsomer than any sewing, and does not use more than two thirds as much thread as the chain stitch machine.

These machines are for sale by the undersigned, at his office on North Fifth Street, opposite Good's Hotel, Reading, Pennsylvania:

Also by T. E. EVANSON, Traveling Agent in Indiana. Silk, Needles, Oil, and Thread for sale by T. E. EVANSON,

THE GREATEST

MEDICAL DISCOVERY OF THE AGE.

Mr. KENNEDY, of Roxbury, has discovered in one of our common Pasture Weeds, a remedy that cures

Every Kind of Humor.

FROM

The worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple

TWO bottles are warranted to cure a nursing sore mouth.

One to three bottles will cure the worst kind of pimples on the face.

Two bottles are warranted to cure the worst canker in the stomach.

Three or five bottles are warranted to cure the worst kind of Erysipelas.

One or two bottles are warranted to cure all humor in the eyes.

Two bottles are warranted to cure running of the ears and blotches among the hair.

Four to six bottles are warranted to cure corrupt and running ulcers.

One bottle will cure scaly eruptions of the skin.

Two or three bottles are warranted to cure the worst kind of ringworm.

Two or three bottles are warranted to cure the most desperate case of rheumatism.

Three to four bottles are warranted to cure salt rheum.

Five to eight bottles will cure the worst case of scrofula.

One to three bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of dyspepsia. I know from the experience of thousands that it was caused by a canker in the Stomach.

One or two bottles are warranted to cure a bad headache.

One to two bottles are warranted to regulate a costive state of the bowels.

One or two bottles will regulate all derangement of the kidneys.

Four to six bottles have cured the worst cases of dropsy.

One to three bottles has cured the worst case of piles; a relief is always experienced. What a mercy to such as have such excruciating disease!

Since its first discovery, I have from time to time added various other herbs to it; of one of them, Hippocrates, the Father of Medicine, says: "It is an herb of Jupiter, and in the sign Leo.

"It openeth obstructions of the liver, gall and spleen; it is an especial friend to the liver, worth all other herbs put together; cooling it when too hot, and warming it when too cold.

"It erecteth an appetite, cureth all gone and sinking feelings in the pit of the stomach, easeth all pains and stitches in the side.

"It cureth the jaundice by opening the gall, and research all other diseases of the body.

"It expels all raw, vicious and slimy humors out of the body; it cleanseth all inward ulcers and congealed blood from the kidneys.

"By opening all obstructions of the spleen, it preserveth all manner of melancholy vapors which ariseth to the head and brain, causing distressing headache, fearful foreboding of trouble trembling of the heart, fainting and swooning.

"The herb boiled in wine is particularly good to revive the dispiriting spirits of the aged, and whosoever has a lingering, sickness after a fever, nothing restoreth him to health so quick as drinking the juice of this herb.

"The seeds boiled in water cureth the most offensive breath, and, drank at bedtime, preventeth what is commonly called nightmare, and all unlawful dreams, a disease billions people are liable to."

The Father of Medicine says of another herb in this composition, that "it is an herb of the Sun, and in due sign of Leo.

"The Sun is the source of all life, and raiseth the heart; and this herb is the best cordial, the greatest strengthener of the heart of any that grows; it comforteth the heart, cureth all palpitation thereof, taketh away trembling, fainting and smothering of it; yet it must be take carefully, or severe griping will cause, which must be corrected with fennel seed or ginger.

"So much for this herb, between which and the adder there is the utmost antipathy, to such a that the adder will not touch him that has the herb about him."

No change of diet ever necessary—eat the best you can get and enough of it.

Directions for Use. Adults, one table spoonful per day;—Children over ten years, dessert spoonful;—Children from five to eight years, tea spoonful As no directions can be applied so as to all constitutions take sufficient to operate on the bowels twice a day.
